Papers relating to the experiment now in progress for the introduction of the Cinchona Tree into India.

From MR. C. R. MARKHAM, to the Under-Secretary of State for India,—(dated Bombay, 26th February 1861.)

SIR,—IN this letter I propose to submit, for the information of the Secretary of State for India in Council, a Report of the present prospects of the experiment now in progress for the introduction of Cinchona plants into India; of my proceedings during my stay in India; and of the conclusions I have been led to form, respecting the measures which it would be advisable to adopt, in order to ensure the success of this important attempt. It is my intention to return to England by the Steamer which leaves Bombay on 12th March.

It is with deep regret that, in the first place, I have to report that the sanguine hopes of the final recovery of the collection of plants which arrived in the Neilgherry Hills last October, prematurely expressed in my letter dated October 20th, 1860, No. 7, have been disappointed. I will recapitulate the prospects as they now appear of successfully introducing the various species of Cinchona into India; and, though as regards the plants and some of the seeds which have already arrived, they are sufficiently unpromising, it will be seen that there is no reason to apprehend the eventual failure of the experiment.

The species which it is intended to introduce into India, are,—

I. The Cinchona Calisaya,

II. Those yielding grey bark,

III Those yielding red bark and the C. Condaminea, and

IV. Those which yield the barks imported from New Granada. I will notice each of these in their order:—

I. The "Cinchona Calisaya."—In my letter dated October 20th, 1860, No. 7, I reported that, out of the collection of plants which I conveyed to the Neilgherry Hills, Mr. McIvor had obtained 207 green cuttings and 125 wood cuttings, from which all visible appearances of decay were first carefully removed. I added that, during the first week, upwards of fifty of the green cuttings, and ten of the wood cuttings, were shewing signs of growth, and that success was certain. My conclusion, partly dictated by the intense anxiety I felt on the subject, was premature. On the four days following the dispatch of my letter there was incessant rain, accompanied by heavy mist; the atmosphere of the gardens resembled that of the interior of a Wardian case, and the green cuttings all began to droop and look sickly. Every endeavor was made to save them, two Waltonian cases were constructed in order to subject some of them to a bottom heat of 75° and force them to take root; but warmth, though it tends to draw out the roots of cuttings, also increases the rapid spread of decay, if any exists, and this experiment was, therefore, only tried on a portion of the cuttings. In spite of all our efforts the green cuttings went off one after the other, the last one lingering until late in November. The wood cuttings continued to look promising for a considerable time longer; but decay made its appearance in them also, a fatal taint seemed to pervade them all, and when I finally left the Neilgherry Hills on the 10th of January 1861, only eight retained life, of which one, C. Calisaya, had a green healthy looking bud and was very promising. It was healing over the portion of the bark which had been cut, a thing which none of the others had ever attempted to do. In a letter dated February 10th, Mr. McIvor tells me that these surviving cuttings remain nearly in the same state, but that a little decay is making its appearance here and there in some of them, so that I am unable to entertain hopes of the ultimate recovery of more than one.

On my arrival at Alexandria 175 of the plants were covered with leaves and green sprouts and were looking fresh and healthy, so that the mischief must have been caused by the intense heat of the Red Sea and of Bombay during the six days I was delayed there. It is much to be regretted that a Steamer was not furnished to convey the collection direct from the West Coast of South America to India. I feel certain that, n that case, a great number of plants would have been saved, though it is right to add that, out of the 400 Cinchona plants procured by M. Hasshарl for the Netherlands Government, which had the advantage of being conveyed by the direct route to Java, only two have survived.

The loss of the Cinchona plants, which I have collected with so much labor and difficulty in the Peruvian Forests, is most disastrous; but not, I trust, irreparable. Before leaving England, I sent seventeen Small Calisaya seedlings to Kew, respecting which Sir William Hooker says, in a letter dated 8th January 1861, that two continued to shew signs of real life, though he did not expect to keep them through the winter. In a letter dated August 18th, 1860, he informed me that he had obtained five plants of C. Calisaya which had been in gardens in England for some years, from which he was striking cuttings. There is reason to hope, therefore, that a case of C, Calisaya plants may be sent to India at the same time with the seedlings raised at Kew from the seeds of the grey and red barks. I also think that I shall be able to procure a supply of seeds of the C. Calisaya from South America by means of the £50 which has already been sanctioned for that purpose; and there is a prospect of the Netherlands Government in Java being induced to exchange some of their plants of C. Calisaya for those of species which we possess and they do not, a subject on which I shall submit some further observations presently.

II. The Cinchona yielding grey bark.—The collection of plants and seeds of Cinchona yielding grey bark, made by Mr. Pritchett in the forests of Huanuco, arrived in England in October, and a gardener from Kew reported on the 20th of that month that "forty-six were good strong plants, apparently well rooted." Two of the plants and a portion of the seeds were left at Kew Gardens, the remaining plants and seeds being dispatched to India on the 10th of November. They arrived at Bombay on the 13th of December, when Dr. Birdwood, who was directed to examine them by Sir George Clerk, found the seams of some of the cases gaping, the soil utterly parched and dried up, "just like powder in a Druggist's shop," and the plants in a hopeless condition. All, except six, were quite dead, several being mere cuttings without the sign of a root, and one, a small branch, torn roughly from a tree and stuck in the soil of the case. The six survivors had the pith discolored and the bark soft. They are all now dead, and Dr. Birdwood reports that the dead plants in the cases appeared to have lost all life for at least three or four weeks.

At the same time a packet of seeds of the Cinchona Nitida, Micrantha, and of the variety of Micrantha known to the bark collectors as pata de gallinazo arrived at Bombay, but did not reach Ootacamund until the 13th of January, when they had lost their vitality, and Mr. McIvor entertains no hope that any will come up.*

* Mr. McIvor sent a portion of these seeds to Ceylon.

Nevertheless there is every prospect that the grey bark species will be eventually introduced into India, as the seeds left at Kew are coming up in great quantities, and the seedlings will probably be ready for transmission to India in the course of next autumn.

III. The Cinchona yielding red bark, and the C. Condaminea.—I have received copies of Mr. Spruce's Report, and have felt much pleasure at the great ability, perseverance, and zeal with which he has conducted the service entrusted to him. I have also heard from Sir W. Hooker, in a letter dated January 8th, 1861, that the supply of seeds sent to Kew by Mr. Spruce are doing well, many having already germinated; and that three tin cases of seeds, since transmitted by Mr. Spruce, reached England early in January, and will be forwarded, some to India and some to Ceylon, without delay. These seeds have arrived at Bombay in good condition and have been despatched by post to Ootacamund. I trust that Mr. Spruce will not forward the cases of plants until the severity of the winter in England is passed.

Mr. Spruce reports that he was unable, during the season of 1860, to take any steps for the collection of seeds and plants of the C. Condaminea, but the Secretary of State in Council will probably authorize him to do so during that of 1861.

IV. Cinchona which yields the barks imported from New Granada.—It will perhaps be remembered that, respecting the region of New Granada, one of the four from which I considered it advisable that the different species of Cinchona should be procured, a letter was addressed to the Colonial Office, but that no steps were taken by that Department to procure the species of New Granada. I now find that the eminent Botanist, Dr. Kursten, presented some seeds of the "Cinchona Condaminea" (Var β† Lancifolia) to the Dutch Government, and that there are now fourteen healthy young trees of that species in Java, some of which might be exchanged for a few plants of species which we possess and which the Dutch have not. If any proposal for exchanges should be made, it will be very important that a person well acquainted with the appearance of the different species should be sent to receive the plants in Java, so as to prevent mistakes.

† One of the New Granada species.

I now proceed to submit the observations I have made and the conclusions I have formed as to the suitability of the various Hill Districts in the Madras and Bombay Presidencies for Cinchona cultivation. These Districts are the Neilgherry Hills, Wainád, Coorg, the Pulney Hills, the Anamallays and Shervaroys, the Hills near Courtallum in Tinnevelly, and the Mahabaleshwur Hills in Bombay. I have examined all except the Anamallays, Shervaroys, and Courtallum, it being impracticable to form any Cinchona plantation in the Anamallays for many years to come as there are no European residents, and the Shervaroys and Courtallum not possessing sufficient elevation and being incligible from other causes.

The Neilgherries and Wainád.—In my letter dated October 20th 1860 (No. 7), I described the site already selected by Mr. McIvor near the Government Gardens at Ootacamund, and stated my reasons for believing that it will prove suitable for the cultivation of those species of Cinchona which flourish at the highest altitudes, namely, the C Nitida, C. Condaminea, and a variety of the C Calisaya.

Early in November I went with Mr. McIvor in the direction of Wainád to select another site for a Cinchona plantation at a somewhat lower elevation, and where the available land would be more extensive then in the ravine already chosen near the gardens. The conditions most favorable for the production of Quinine in the bark of Cinchona plants are those of continuous vegetation, with a mean temperature of from 60th to 70th Fahr. varying according to the species, an almost constant supply of moisture, and an elevation from 5,000 to 8,000 feet. In every part of the Western Ghâts the vegetation is subjected, during at least three months in the year, to an amount of dryness which is never known in Forests of South America; but I have seen no locality in India which more nearly meets the requirements of a Cinchona plantation than that which we selected on this occasion. It is or was within the Wainád District, and the land belongs to the Rajah of Nelemboor in Malabar, who will be quite willing to let it to the Government; but it is, in fact, a portion of the northern slope of the Neilgherry Hills. The site is close to the Travellers' Bungalow at Neddivattum, near the crest of the Ghât on the road leading from Ootacamund to Manantoddy. The Forest covers a declivitous slope at an elevation of about 5,000 feet, and extends to the verge of the steep descent into the table land of Wainád. There is a good supply of water in the Forest, and the soil is rich, its base being a mixture of syenite and laterite, curiously combined In this Forest amongst other plants, I found the Hymenodictyon excelsum (called by Roxborgh Cinchona excelsa, but excluded from the List of Cinchona by Weddell) an Andromeda, wild yam, cinnamon, pepper, coffee, wild ginger, an Osbeckia with purple flowers, and numerous ferns and orchids. Moss in great quantities was hanging from the branches and trunks of the trees, a sure sign of much moisture. This jungle is within the narrow limits of the region which receives both monsoons. Though protected to some extent from the South-West, it receives a full share of the monsoon during the summer, and is also refreshed by the North-East Monsoon coming across Mysore from October to December. During the remaining months it is not without mists and heavy dews in the nights until the South-West Monsoon again commences in May. Eventually the plantation might be extended for a considerable distance to the East and South at the same elevation to the falls of the Moyaar, a tributary of the Cauvery; and even further still in the direction of Kalhutty. The Travellers' Bungalow, which is never used, would be available as a residence for the Gardener in charge of the plantation.

The road which passes by Neddivattum leads to the Coffee Estates in Wainád, of which there are now upwards of forty belonging to European settlers; thus the Planters will often pass the Cinchona plantation, and, when its success is secured, it is to be hoped that some of them will undertake the cultivation in the Forest lands immediately above the line of their own Coffee Estates. Unfortunately the Coffee plantations in the Neilgherries are all on the southern side near Coonoor and Kotagherry, which is too dry for the Cinchona, being outside the region of the South-West Monsoon. The C. Succirubra yielding red bark, C. Calisaya, and C. Micrantha, may all be cultivated in the Forest which has been selected at Neddivattum.

Coorg.—Next to the sites selected in the Neilgherries the mountainous District of Coorg appears better adapted for the growth of the Cinchona plant than any other part of the Western Ghâts. Tadiandamol, the highest peak of Coorg, is 5,780 feet, and its capital, Mercara, 4,500 feet above the sea. During January, February, and March, scarcely any rain falls, but the valleys are seldom without moisture, and during my visit in January, heavy dews were frequent in the morning and evening, and at sunrise there were always long streaks of low-lying clouds resting on the sides of the ravines. At this season the belts of jungle, both on the Mysore and Malabar sides of Coorg, are scorched up with excessive dryness (a condition never known in the South American Forests with which I am acquainted), but this was not so much the case in the loftier parts of the Coorg District. In April and May there are frequent showers; from June to August the rain comes in torrents; in September and October there are showers; in November Coorg receives rain from the North-East Monsoon in small quantities, and December is foggy. The fall of rain on the western side of Coorg, the only part suitable for Cinchona, averages 150 inches The mean of the Thermometer at Mercara in 1836 during the hottest month was 78°, and during the coldest 63°, the average temperature being about 65°.

I examined the country in the neighbourhood of Mercara and found a locality, to which I had been directed by Dr. Macpherson, which is well suited for a Cinchona plantation. It is four miles from Mercara by the side of the road to Mangalore. Its elevation must be a little over 4,000 feet, and the Forest, about a mile long, extends in breadth from the road down the steep sides of a ravine to the vally at the bottom, which is bare of trees. It contains many tall trees though not growing close, and the underwood is very dense, consisting of five kinds of ferns, a Solonum, a Lobelia, &c. There were also cinnamon, Hymenodictyons, tree ferns and Melastomacea, and the general character of the flora appeared suitable for the growth of Cinchona. In this, the dryest season, I found two small streams trickling through the underwood. Further down the Mangalore Ghât there are several flourishing Coffee plantations, and when a Government Cinchona Nursery is successfully established in their neighbourhood, the Planters may also undertake the cultivation. There are probably many other sites equally suitable for the growth of Cinchona in Coorg, but none so conveniently situated as regards Mercara. Labor, as is also the case on the Neilgherries, is chiefly procured from Mysore, the Coolies coming up after their own work is done.

Pulney Hills.—In the Madura District the Pulney or Kerragherry Hills, like the Neilgherry Hills further North, branch out in an easterly direction from the main line of the Western Ghâts, united to a portion of the Anamallay range at their western end, they stretch out into the Madura plains for a distance of fifty miles, and average a breadth of fifteen to twenty. They are divided into two parts, a lower series of hill and dale to the eastward, averaging a height of 4,000 feet, where there is a great deal of Forest, some cultivation, and several Villages inhabited by people of the Vellaler caste; and a loftier region to the westward averaging 6,000 feet with mountain peaks, the highest of which, Permanallie, attains an elevation of 7,500 feet. The formation consists of gneiss traversed by veins of felspar, and the soil in the eastern part is a light reddish loam, yielding crops of garlic, mustard, two kinds of millet, besides groves of plantations, and lately the Villagers have formed several small coffee gardens. In the western and loftier part the soil is very poor, being a heavy black peat several feet thick with a yellow stiff clay as a sub-soil. The rains on the Neilgherry Hills have the effects of mixing the decaying grass with the decomposed rock and a rich soil is thus formed; but on the Pulneys this does not appear to be the case, the one becoming a black peat, the other a stiff slayey sub-soil. These remarks apply to the interior valleys; but on the outer slopes looking over the plains of Madura, there is good soil in places and magnificent Forests at the foot of a perpendicular wall of gneiss, which forms the southern ridge of the Pulneys. There are also fine Forests in the sheltered ravines, in which I observed trees of the following genera:—Michelia, Myrsine, Symplocos, Bignonia, Crotalaria, Passiflora, Osbeckia, Jasminum, besides a variety of Cinchonaceous plants, such as Hedyotis Lasianthus Canthuim and Hymenoditeyon. Tree ferns abound near streams, and, like the Neilgherries, the grassy plains are dotted with rhododendros, gaultherias lobelias hypericums, and ferns. I was told that during the season of the South-West Monsoon the Pulneys only receive passing showers, and, in corroboration of this, I missed the berberis mahonia, a plant which on the Neilgherries is never found beyond the range of the South-West Monsoon. The Pulneys, however, receive the full benefit of th monsoon from the North-East.

There are several damp well-wooded ravines near the Settlement of Kodakarnal, where the species of Cinchona, which prefer great altitudes might be established. When these plants are thoroughly rooted in the Neilgherries, a few might advantageously be sent to the Pulney Hills under the care of the Gardener employed by the Collector of Madura, Mr. Melvor having previously selected a suitable site. As the Villagers have lately introduced the coffee plant, it is not improbable that they might also be induced to undertake the cultivation of the plant yielding Quinine, of the value of which they are well acquainted.

The Anamallay Hills probably possess several localities suitable for the growth of Cinchona; but being very feverish, and no Europeans being yet established on them, it will probably be many years before they could be made available.

The Shervaroy Hills, in the Salem District, only attain a height of 3,000 feet, and, being quite out of range of the South-West Monsoon, they are both too low and too dry for the growth of the Cinchona plant.

The Hills near Courtallum, in Tinnevelly, enjoy the full benefit of both monsoons, but the highest waterfall near Courtallum is only 2,000 feet above the sea. Localities, however, may hereafter be found between Tinnevelly and Travancore with an elevation of 3,000 to 4,000 feet, where the C. Micrantha and even the C. Succirubra might thrive.

The Mahableshwur Hills.—The only part of the Western Ghâts within the Bombay Presidency which attains an elevation sufficient for the growth of Cinchona, are the Mahableshur Hills, the highest part of which is 4,700 feet above the sea, in latitude 18° N. These Hills are composed almost entirely of laterite overlying the basalt of the Deccan, and the soil is exceedingly poor and shallow. The average temperature of the hottest month is 73°, of the coldest 62°, but the climate in every other respect is most unfavorable. From October to the end of April scarcely a drop of rain falls and every thing is dried up, the Mahableshwur Hills receiving no portion whatever of the North-East Monsoon, too wide an extent of land intervening between them and the Bay of Bengal. In May there are showers, and from June to September there is an unceasing deluge of rain, the fall being estimated at from 250 to 300 inches. The most essential requirement for the growth of Cinchona is a continuous supply of moisture, and in a climate where, for upwards of six months in the year, they would be exposed to excessive dryness, they certainly would not live. In addition to these climate obstacles, there is a great want of Forest trees in the jungles which would supply a sufficient amount of shade, the vegetation of the scanty thickets consisting chiefly of such shrubs and small trees as memecylons, jasmines, randias, indigoferas, willows near streams, a small crotalaria, Eugenias, with an undergrowth of solonums, gentians, ferns, and curcumas. I visited both Coorg and Mahableshwur in the driest and most unfavorable period of the year, but the advantage, both as regards vegetation and moisture, was incomparably in favor of Coorg; indeed I should say that there was no part of the Western Ghâts of similar elevation so entirely unsuited for the growth of Cinchona as the Mahableshwur Hills.

Ten miles to the eastward of the Station at Mahableshwur, and immediately overlooking the valley of the Kistna, there is a place called Paunchgunny. It is under 4,000 feet above the sea, entirely exposed to the cold east winds during the dry months; the surrounding Hills are destitute of jungle affording suitable shade, and altogether it is the last place where Cinchona plants would be likely to thrive, I regret this because at Paunchgunny there is a small experimental farm belonging to a retired Apothecary of Sir Jamsetjie Jeejeobhoy Hospital. Application has been made for some plants, and no doubt all possible care and attention would have been bestowed upon them.

The Cinchona plants in its Native Forests is entirely confined to the tropics, and it seems likely that the greater variation of temperature in extra tropical regions would render any part of the Himalaya range unsuitable for its culture. Nevertheless under cultivation it may be found possible to extend the area of the Cinchona region, and the Khasia Hills in the Bengal Presidency, where the necessary elevations can be obtained, may hereafter supply another site for a plantation, though, in the first instance, it would be imprudent to attempt the experiment in any other region than that which most nearly resembles the Cinchona Forests of South America. In the Island of Penang and in the Tenasserim Province, the necessary climate and elevation may also be found.

On the whole, it will probably be found that the Hill country of Newera Ellia, in Ceylon, which possesses the necessary elevation and is within the region of both monsoons, will be found as good a locality as any which I have described in the Peninsula of India, and I am glad to hear from Mr. Thwaites, that many of the Coffee Planters are extremely desirous of trying the cultivation of Cinchonas on their Estates. Mr. Thwaites has received some seeds of C. Micrantha from Kew which have not germinated, and there is little hope that those sent him by Mr. McIvor will be more successful. A good supply of Mr. Spruce's seeds will, however, have reached to Ceylon by this time.

In conclusion, I have to submit some observations respecting the measures it will be advisable to adopt in conducting the future operations connected with this most important experiment, the success of which will establish as a Native of India the plant yielding the most valuable drug. As regards tropical countries, that is known in medicine, the supply of which now costs the Government upwards of £50,000 a year.

I would recommend that the experiment should, in the first place, and until the propagation of plants by cuttings has rendered success certain, be confined to the two sites already selected near the Gardens at Ootacamund and at Neddivattum, and that its management should be entrusted to Mr. McIvor, whose zeal, intelligence, experience as a gardener, and knowledge on this special subject, probably exceeds that of any other person to be found in India.

There is every reason to hope that, before the close of this year, Mr. McIvor will have in the Green House at Ootacamund a goodly supply of healthy young plants, raised from plants and seedings sent from Kew, and from Mr. Spruce's seeds of the species C. Calisaya, C. Succirvlaa, C. Micrantha, C. Condaminia, and C. Nitida; and it should be remembered that, as regards the C. Calisaya, especially if only one or two good healthy plants could once be established at Ootacmund, it would be easy to propagate them in two or three years to almost any extent. The Madras Government has already made the necessary grant for expenses connected with clearing and planting the site near the gardens, and a similar grant will be necessary for the plantation at Neddivattum. As soon as the plants are sufficiently strong for planting out, it will be requisite that Mr. McIvor should be assisted by a European gardener to be resident at Neddivattum, and he is now anxious that Weir, the gardener who went with me to South America, should be employed on that duty.

When I left Bombay in October, Weir was accidentally left behind, and as on my arrival at Ootacamund Mr. McIvor said that his services would not be required, I telegraphed to Bombay to have him dismissed and sent back to England. Unfortunately he had already been dispatched to Calicut in a Native Boat, and having been three weeks at sea, eventually reached Ootacamund. Regretting exceedingly the additional expense which this mistake has caused, I sent him back to Bombay, and he sailed for England on the 12th of January. Mr. McIvor having fully instructed Weir in the best methods of packing plants for long voyages, having demonstrated to him the errors usually committed by the Nurserymen in England; and considering him a steady and honest man who would be very useful to him when the plantations are fairly begun, is now very anxious that he should be sent out in charge of the cases which will hereafter be transmitted from Kew, and that he should be appointed as his Assistant in the Cinchona plantations; when the operations are extended it will be of great importance to secure the services of crop; the other gardener who has been in South America, to take charge of the plantation in Coorg under Mr. McIvor's superintendence.

1. Letter to the Under-Secretary of State for India from Bombay, General Department, No. 2185 of 1860.

2. Letter from C. R. Markham, to Secretary to Government, Bombay, October 15th, 1860.

As soon as the plantations on the Neilgherries are thoroughly established, I would recommend that a third plantation should be formed in the Forest already in Coorg, on the Mangalore Road, and in the vicinity of the Coffee Estates, and also that some plants should be established on the Pulney Hills, in charge of an intelligent Native. Mr. McIvor having previously selected a site, and given the necessary instructions, Mr. Levinge, the Collector of Madura, has expressed his willingness to do all he can to ensure the success of the experiment. He tells that to the westward of Kodakarnal he can find Forests more nearly resembling those of Neddivattum, and which receive more of the South-West Monsoon, and thus under his auspicies, the experiment in the Pulneys would have every prospect of success. Eventually the Staff required for the conduct of the Cinchona experiment would thus consist of Mr. McIvor to superintend the whole, and especially the plantation near the gardens, two European gardeners, one at Neddivattum and the other at Coorg, a Native with some education on the Pulneys, and the necessary number of Native Overseers and laborers.

The large Forest trees would at first be left standing in the plantations to protect the plants from the sun, the gales of wind, and heavy rains; and further reflection has confirmed me in the opinion that it will be most advantageous to cultivate the Cinchonas as shrubs, in the same way as coffee and cinnamon, and not to allow them to run up as trees for reasons which I have already stated in my letter dated October 20th, 1860, (No. 7). Mr. Howard, the Quinine manufacturer, informs me that though the large bark from trees is preferred and yields rather the most Quinine, the bark from small branches also commands a good price. Shrubs would undoubtedly suffer little from the bark being removed from their smaller branches, while large trees would never recover from the loss of the bark from their trunks; indeed such a system would resemble that which has proved so destructive to the Cinchona trees in South America.

As cinnamon is the only other plant which is cultivated for its bark, I have procured a few particulars respecting its culture in Ceylon from Mr. Thwaites. In the cinnamon gardens the young shoots are peeled twice during the year at a particular period of growth when the bark comes off readily. This particular time is known at once by the peelers from the appearance of the young shoots, and the process of peeling is then very expeditious one with practised hands. Young plants are raised from seeds in Nurseries, and planted six feet apart when they are a foot or eighteen inches long. They will commonly bear peeling in three or four years after being transplanted if in a favorable locality and properly attended to. The roots are earthed up frequently to keep the soil loose and free from weeds.

From the Government plantations it may be expected that a considerable quantity of Quinine yielding bark will eventually be collected, and though the process of extracting Quinine may be too difficult and require too much skill as well as expensive materials difficult of transit to give any prospect of its being carried on in situ, there can be no reason why a manufactory should not be established in the Presidency Town, so as to avoid the costly necessity of sending the bark to England. I have had conversations with many Coffee Planters on the subject, and I think it likely that, as soon as they know that the Government experiment has been successful, they will be willing to undertake the cultivation of Cinchona plants on their own account. For this reason it is an advantage that the Government Cinchona Nurseries should be in the vicinity of the Coffee Estates; should this be the case, the Cinchona would soon be as important an addition to the products of the Hills in a commercial point of view as coffee has already become. The impression that the Natives can with difficulty be induced to undertake the cultivation of any new plant is certainly erroneous as regards Southern India. In Wainád upwards of 2,000 acres is taken up for coffee cultivation by Natives; in Coorg, where coffee was only introduced about six years ago, I scarcely saw a single hut to which a small coffee garden was not attached, and the Villagers in the Pulney Hills have also commenced its cultivation. Thaine is grown to some extent in Mysore, and the extent to which the Cassava (Jatophra Manihot) only lately introduced, is cultivated in Travancore, is quite remarkable. There is every reason to suppose that the Natives will be equally ready to cultivate a plant yielding Quinine, the value of which is so well known to them.

The seeds of the Chirimoya, generally considered the most delicious fruit in the world, of the Aji or Peruvian pepper, and of the schemes Molle, which I brought from Peru, are coming up very well. The Chirimoya will probably succeed well at Bangalore; the Aji Capsicum in all the warm parts of India.

Mr. Dalzell states that Chirimoya has already been introduced, but the fruit and flower described by him is quite different from the Peruvian Chirimoya.—Bombay Flora Supp.

I have supplied Mr. McIvor with Dr. Weddell's "Quinologie" and with memoranda on the species of Cinchona yielding red, grey, and crown barks, collected from the works of Karsten, Humboldt, Coldas, Porppig, and others. It is important that he should also have Mr. Howard's Work ("Quinologia de Pavou") now in process of publication by Lovell Reine (Henrietta Street, Covent Garden), and I request that the numbers of that Work, which have already appeared, may be supplied to him.

In the treatment of these seeds they appeared to be impatient of too much shade and moisture, soon becoming mouldy and rotting off. The seeds were sown on the surface and covered with a thin coating of finely cut moss. The black and brown loams as used in Java seemed to retain too much water, and are certainly unsuited for rearing old seeds. Fresh gathered seeds possessing great vital power may grow in loam, but not so freely as they would in soil prepared as at No. 1. The seeds are easily distinguished when they begin to germinate as they strike their radicles into the ground with great force considering the small size of the seed; the radicle being established in the ground the plumule is raised up with the seed on the top of it, where it remains three or four days, then it falls off and the seed lobes (Cotyledons) expand. I give this description of the process of germination as I find it is not described in any of the Works I possess.

Superintendent, Government Gardens.

What has been done in rearing the Cinchona plants on the Hills.

The first sowing of Cinchona seeds was made here in January last. In sowing these I was influenced by the descriptions given of their treatment in Java, and the excessive amount of shade, moisture, and retentive soil there believed to be necessary for the germination of the seeds, I soon discovered that the seeds began to mould and damp off, and almost despaired of succeeding in rearing any; however, of this batch, from 3 to 4 per cent. germinated. The next sowing was made in the early part of March, and the soil used was of a much freer nature, one-half being composed of burned earth; of this sowing from 15 to 25 per cent. germinated. Encouraged by this result, the third and last sowing, which was made in the beinning of April, the soil used was composed nearly entirely of burned earth; and of this sowing about 60 per cent. germinated, of one of the varieties (Provinciana) about 90 per cent. These results convince me that the great difficulties said to attend the rearing of the seeds, and the cultivation of the plants, do not so much lie in the nature of the seeds themselves, or of the plant, as in our ignorance of the proper treatment to be adopted.

At present I have in the gardens upwards of 2,000 plants in very promising condition. Some of the 463 imported plants are at the present moment in the most luxuriant state of health, and the remainder are now rapidly recovering from the disease and damage contracted in the Wardian cases, with a vigor which I have only seen equalled in one or two instances in the numerous species of plants I have introduced into these gardens.

Cultivation of the Cinchonas on the Neilgherries.

I possess but little information on this subject as the cultivation of the plants has hitherto not been attempted except in Java, and this is so recent that valuable data cannot be gathered from what has been done there; their results, moreover, have as yet been unsatisfactory. It appears to me that much erroneous matter has been published with reference to the cultivation of these plants, and that we have every thing to learn. For example, it is an established opinion by parties entitled to consideration, that the plants should be grown under the partial shade of Forest trees. In April last I planted three plants of the red bark, two under shade and one in an open spot surrounded by brushwood or undergrowth; all these plants are growing luxuriantly, but since the setting in of the monsoon, which happened on the 29th ultimo, the plants under the shade have been injured by their leaves being cut to pieces by the constant drip from the Forest trees; while the plant shaded by the brushwood continues in the most luxuriant state of health with its leaves uninjured. This experiment would indicate brushwood to be the proper shade for the plants; but, from its limited nature, I do not feel myself justified in coming to this conclusion until I have made further experiments in the track thus indicated. As I have already remarked, the opinions of the Authors who advocate partial shade are worthy of consideration, they having seen the plants in the various aspects of their natural Forests; and, in such localities, they must of necessity in the struggle for life which prevails throughout nature grow in the shade of other plants; but these Authors inform us that the Cinchonas strive to overtop the Forest trees to obtain light and air. On this subject I am much perplexed, but am daily gaining knowledge, so that before any extensive planting is undertaken I shall have satisfied myself, by actual experiment, which method will be most advantageous. The drip from large Forest trees proves injurious to all plants grown under them, and I am of opinion that, while we select all that is advantageous in the natural localities of the Cinchonas, we should reject all that we find detrimental, for example, Mr. Bruce informs us that he found wheat growing wild in Upper Egypt, struggling for existence among rushes and other weeds, but no one would adopt this principle in its cultivaion; in like manner, too much shade may prove injurious to the Cinchonas.

In the Forests on the Andes the Cinchona trees are cut down and stripped of their bark, and it is a generally preconceived opinion that this plan should be adopted in cultivation; but although this may be necessary, and even advisable in the wild state, it appears a most ruinous system to put into operation in cultivation; not only is it unsuitable to the man of limited means, who requires a quick and uniform return on his capital, but it also necessitates the destruction of the plantation to produce a return at all, and this after waiting ten or twelve years. To obviate these inconveniences it occurred to me that the plants in cultivation should be induced to branch as near the ground as possible.—(Here follow some suggestions for pruning, illustrated by a woodcut.)

This treatment would ensure a quick, uniform, and constant supply of bark, and if the pruning (as I may term it) be judiciously carried out, the trees would be benefited rather than injured by the removal annually of a few of their branches.

Mr. Markham, to whom I have spoken on this subject, considers it the best plan that can be adopted in the cultivation of the plants. There is, however, one objection to it, it is that the price of quill bark (bark from branches) is of a little less value than the bark from the trunks. In the London market the trifling difference of 1*d.* to 2*d.* per pound is quoted. Howard, the great Quinine manufacturer, in reply to the queries of Mr. Markham on this subject, states:—

"As to the Plancha (trunk) bark and Canuto bark (the bark of smaller branches) the former is preferred, and yields rather the most Quinine, but the quill Canuto also commands a good price."

Suitable sites.

The sites selected near the gardens and at Neddivattum are, I consider, well suited, and perhaps better than any other sites which could be found on the Neilgherries from their being so conveniently accessible, but doubtless hundreds of other sites as well suited in soil and climate could be selected. The Dodabetta, or site near the garden, has been selected entirely for an experimental plantation, i. e., a plantation in which to test what amount of exposure, or shade, and description of shade, of soils and sub-soils, are best suited to the growth of Cinchonas and the development of their alkaloids. This site contains a great variety of exposures and also a great variety of soils, and thus offers, for this special purpose, advantages which it would be difficult to meet elsewhere. The Neddivattum site is a large Forest of perhaps 400 acres of as fine land as is to be had on the Neilgherries, well sheltered, and in every respect, so far as I am aware, well suited to the growth of all the varieties of the Cinchona, and here will be the principal Government plantation ; but it is most important that we should have a higher site for experiments in order to prove whether the Cinchonas will or will not grow over the whole extent of the plateau of the Neilgherries, and this could not be established by any amount of success which we might obtain at Neddivattum. If it proves that the Cinchonas can be cultivated over the whole plateau of the Neilgherries, it will establish a fact the importance of which cannot at present be estimated, because it will open an immense field for European enterprise and energy, and, in combination with this profitable employment of capital, it will place Europeans in a healthy and invigorating climate.

Eventual disposal of plants now propagating.

I would propose to retain all the plants here (with the exception of a few which will be required for experiments) till June or July next year, which is the best planting season of the year. By that time, if sufficient means are placed at my disposal, I trust to have from 50,000 to 80,000 plants ready to put out into the Neddivattum site. My object in detaining the plants here are two, the first is to facilitate the propagation, and the second is while we are thus accomplishing an important object in increasing our plants, we are (during the same time which will extend over a year), by planting a few plants out under various circumstances and in different positions, ascertaining by actual experiment which is the safest method to be adopted in making our extensive plantations.

Prospect of success.

As I have already remarked, the plants have taken to the climate in a manner which has only been equalled by one or two of the numerous species of plants I have successfully introduced, and I am convinced that if our operations are conducted with skill we may obtain a success altogether unprecedented.

Cost of serving process.

Requisite sum to be paid into Court within a certain time before process is issued.

2. Every process required to be issued under Act VIII of 1859 shall be served at the expense of the party at whose instance it is issued, unless otherwise specially directed by the Court; and the sum required to defray the costs of such service shall be paid into Court before the process is issued, within a period to be fixed by the Court issuing the process.

Plaint to be returned, if it appear to the Court that it has not jurisdiction.

3. If it appear to the Court in any case relating to land or other immoveable property that such land or other property is not situate within the limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or in any other case that the cause of action did not arise, and that the defendant is not dwelling or personally working for gain within such limits, the Court shall return the plaint to the plaintiff in order to its being presented in the proper Court.

In what Court a suit against several defendants may be brought.

4. If in any suit there are more defendants than one, and at the date of the institution of the suit all the defendants shall not reside within the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is brought, but one or more of the defendants shall reside within such jurisdiction, the suit shall not be rejected by reason of all the defendants not residing within the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is brought, but the District Court, if the suit is pending in any Court subordinate to such Court, or the Sudder Court, may order that the suit be heard in any Court subordinate to such Sudder or District Court, and competent in respect of the value of the suit to try the same.

Procedure on application for discharge by a person arrested in execution of a decree for money.

8. When a person arrested under a warrant in execution of a decree for money shall, on being brought before the Court, apply for his discharge on either of the grounds mentioned in Section 273 of Act VIII of 1859 the Court shall examine the applicant in the presence of the plaintiff or his pleader as to his then circumstances and as to his future means of payment, and shall call upon the plaintiff to show cause why he does not proceed against any property of which the defendant is possessed and why the defendant should not be discharged, and should the plaintiff fail to show such cause, the Court may direct the discharge of the defendant from custody. Pending any enquiry which the Court may consider it necessary to make into the allegations of either party, the Court may leave the defendant in the custody of the Officer of the Court to whom the service of the warrant was entrusted, on the defendant depositing the fees of such Officer, which shall be at the same daily rate as the lowest rate charged in the same Court for serving process; or if the defendant furnish good and sufficient security, for his appearance at any time when called upon while such enquiry is being made, his surety or sureties undertaking in default of such appearance to pay the amount mentioned in the warrant, the Court may release the defendant on such security.

Court may of its own accord summon witnesses.

9. If the Court shall at any time think it necessary for the ends of justice to examine any person other than a party to the suit and not named as a witness by a party to the suit, the Court may, of its own accord, cause such person to be summoned as a witness to give evidence, or to produce any document in his possession on a day to be appointed, and may examine such person as a witness. The costs of summoning such person, if not deposited by either party to the suit, shall be paid by the Collector under an order of the Court, and shall be costs in the suit, and shall be paid out of any money recovered on account of costs in the suit, whether at the instance of the Government or of either party, before any other costs in the suit are paid.

In suits for money decree may order certain interest to be paid on the principal sum adjudged.

10. When the suit is for a sum of money due to the plaintiff, the Court may in the decree order interest at such rate as the Court may think proper to be paid on the principal sum adjudged from the date of suit to the date of the decree, in addition to any interest adjudged on such principal sum for any period prior to the date of suit; with further interest on the aggregate sum so adjudged and on the costs of the suit from the date of the decree to the date of payment.

How questions regarding amount of mesne profits and interest and sums paid in satisfaction of decrees, &c., are to be determined.

11. All questions regarding the amount of any mesne profits which by the terms of the decree may have been reserved for adjustment in the execution of the decree, or of any mesne profits or interest which may be payable in respect of the subject matter of a suit between the date of the institution of the suit and execution of the decree, as well as questions relating to sums alleged to have been paid in discharge or satisfaction of the decree or the like, and any other questions arising between the parties to the suit in which the decree was passed and relating to the execution of the decree, shall be determined by order of the Court executing the decree, and not by separate suit, and the order passed by the Court shall be open to appeal. Provided that if upon a perusal of the petition of appeal and of the order against which the appeal is made, the Court shall see no reason to alter the order, it may reject the appeal, and it shall not be necessary in such case to issue a notice to the respondent before the order of rejection is passed.

Appeals from orders rejected under Section 364, Act VIII of 1859, may be admitted on application.

12. An appeal from an order passed in execution of a decree which shall have been rejected as inadmissible under Section 364 of Act VIII of 1859, or which would have been inadmissible before the passing of this Act, but which is rendered admissible by this Act, may be admitted on an application in writing to the Court which rejected the appeal or by which the appeal, had it been admissible before the passing of this Act, would have been cognizable, provided the application be preferred within ninety days from the date of the passing of this Act.

Application to be on Stamp Paper.

The application may be written on the Stamp Paper prescribed for petitions in the Court to which it is presented when a Stamp on petitions is required.

In suits of the nature and amount cognizable by Small Cause Courts, Court may, on verbal application of judgment-creditor, direct immediate execution either against the person or property of judgment-debtor.

13. When a decree is passed in any suit of the nature and amount cognizable by Courts of Small Causes constituted under Act XLII of 1860, the Court passing the decree, whether such Court be a Court constituted as aforesaid or any other Court, may, at the same time that it passes the decree, on the verbal application of the party in whose favor the decree is given, direct immediate execution thereof by the issue of a warrant directed either against the person of the judgment-debtor if he is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court passing the decree, or against the personal property of the judgment-debtor within the same limits. If the warrant be directed against the personal property of the judgment-debtor, it may be general against any personal property of the judgment-debtor wherever it may be found within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or special against any personal property belonging to the judgment-debtor within the same limits, which shall be indicated by the judgment-creditor.

If it shall be shown to the Court that the particulars do not correspond with the original decree, the Court shall either return the application for correction to the person making it, or shall, with the consent of such person, cause the necessary correction to be made. If the application be admitted, the Court shall order execution of the decree according to the nature of the application.

Procedure on receiving application for execution of decree.

17. The Court may send the person accused in custody or take sufficient bail for his appearance before the Magistrate and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence before the Magistrate.

Court may take bail and bind over witnesses to give evidence.

18. When the commitment is made by the Court, the Court shall frame a charge in the manner provided in Chapter XIII of the Code of Criminal Procedure and shall transmit the same with the order of commitment and the record of the case to the Magistrate, and such Magistrate shall bring the case together with the witnesses for the prosecution and defence before the Court of Session.

How the charge is to be framed.

19. When in any case pending before any Court there shall appear to the Court sufficient ground for sending for investigation to the Magistrate, a charge described in Sections 463, 471, 475, or 476 of the Indian Penal Code, which may be preferred in respect to any deed or paper offered in evidence in the case, the Court may send the person accused in custody to the Magistrate or take sufficient bail for his appearance before the Magistrate. The Court shall send to the Magistrate the evidence and documents relevant to the charge, and shall bind over any person to appear and give evidence before such Magistrate. The Magistrate shall receive such charge and proceed with it under the rules for the time being in force.

Procedure in case of certain offences relating to documents.

20. If the person accused or any one of the persons accused in any case falling under Section 16 or Section 19 of this Act is a European British subject, the Court shall send such person in custody or take sufficient bail for his appearance before an Officer empowered to commit or hold to bail persons charged with offences for trial before a Supreme Court of Judicature, and such Officer shall proceed according to law.

Procedure in case person accused under Sections 16 or 19 is a European British subject.

21. When any such offence as is described in Sections 175, 178, 179, 180, or 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed in the view or presence of any Court, it shall be competent to such Court to cause the offender, whether he be a European British subject or not, to be detained in custody; and at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day to take cognizance of the offence; and to adjudge the offender to punishment by fine not exceeding 200 Rupees, or by imprisonment in the Civil Jail for a period not exceeding one month unless such fine be sooner paid. In every such case the Court shall record the facts constituting the contempt, with any statement the offender may make, as well as the finding and sentence. If the Court, in any case, shall consider that a person accused of any offence above referred to should be imprisoned, or that a fine exceeding 200 Rupees should be imposed upon him, such Court, after recording the facts constituting the contempt, and the statement of the accused person as before provided, shall forward the case to a Magistrate, or, if the accused person be a European British subject, to a Justice of the Peace, and shall cause bail to be taken for the appearance of such accused person before such Magistrate or Justice of the Peace, or if sufficient bail be not tendered shall cause the accused person to be forwarded under custody to such Magistrate or Justice of the Peace. If the case be forwarded to a Magistrate, such Magistrate shall proceed to try the accused person in the manner provided for trials before a Magistrate, and it shall be competent to such Magistrate to adjudge such offender to punishment, as provided in the Section of the Indian Penal Code under which he is charged. THE 31ST AUGUST 1861.

THE following Bill was read a second time in the Legislative Council of India on the 31st August 1861, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 4th of November next:—

A Bill for the Registration of Nijjote and Khamar and other such lands, as well as of Ryottee tenures involving the immediate occupation of the soil for the purposes of cultivation or for other purposes.

Preamble.

WHEREAS in the Lower Provinces of the Bengal Presidency disputes have arisen concerning the possession of Khamar, Nijjote, Ryottee, and other lands, in the immediate occupation of which, for purposes of cultivation, or for other purposes, the several disputants claim to be; and the necessary enquiry into the disputed point of possession, whether made by a Civil Court or by a Magistrate under Act IV of 1840, requires a period of time, so that frequently a sowing season passes by before the possession of the land in dispute can be awarded to either party; and whereas unfounded claims to the possession of such lands are sometimes made vexatiously and acts of forcible and wrongful entry upon such lands are sometimes committed for the purpose of preventing the cultivation by the true possessor; and whereas it is just and expedient to provide a means whereby a person once in the actual, immediate, and uncontested possession of such lands can secure himself therein until ousted by order of a Civil

Court in regular course of law ; It is enacted as follows :—

Register Book to be kept in Collectorates and Sub-Divisions.

1. A Register Book of tenures involving the immediate dominion over, and occupation of, the soil for purposes of cultivation, or for other purposes, shall be kept in every Sub-division for lands within the Sub-division, and in every Collectorate for lands within the District but not comprised within any Sub-division thereof; and such books shall be in the custody of the Sub-divisional Officer having any or all of the powers of a Collector, and of the Collector, respectively. It shall be the duty of the Officer in whose custody the Register Book may be, or of any other Officer of the Revenue Department whom the Collector of the District may depute for the purpose, to make registration entries therein.

Extracts from Register Books to be entered in a book to be kept at every Thannah.

II. A book shall be kept at every Thannah, in the custody of the Police Officer in charge thereof, wherein shall be regularly entered, from time to time, by means of certified extracts from the Collectorate or Sub-divisional Register Books aforesaid, all registrations and mutations of registrations of such tenures as are aforesaid, of lands within the Police jurisdiction of the Thannah.

Particulars of entry in Register Books.

III. The following particulars shall be noted in every entry of a tenure made in the Register Books above mentioned :—

The name of the person in possession ; or in case of more than one person being in joint possession, the names of such persons.

The title under which the possession of the tenure is claimed to be held.

The nature of the tenure and its term, whether perpetual or for a life or lives, or for years or otherwise.

The names of the Village and the Pergunnah within which the tenure is situated.

The extent of the land so possessed, as ascertained by measurement.

As accurate a description as possible of the position and a specification of the boundaries of the land so possessed.

Application for registry.

IV. When any person, being in the actual possession of land in use by him for the purpose of cultivation, or for any other purpose, and claimed by him to be held under a tenure involving the immediate possession of the soil, desires to register his holding under this Act, he may apply by petition on an eight anna Stamp to the Sub-divisional Officer, or to the Collector as aforesaid, in order to have his holding registered. This application must contain a true and correct statement, to the best of the applicant's knowledge, of the particulars required to be entered in the Register Book according to Section III, and it must also contain a statement of the person or persons through or from whom he claims to have derived or obtained the title under which he claims to hold the possession of the land. The Collector or other Officer may call on the applicant to deposit such a reasonable sum as may be sufficient for the expenses of the deputation of any Officer to the spot previous to registry.

Procedure on application.

V. The Registering Officer, on receiving such an application, shall immediately depute a person to identify and measure the land and boundaries described in the application as they may be pointed out by the applicant; and the person deputed shall write a brief report of the result, which report shall be filed with the application. In the report he shall state whether the particulars given in the application are in his opinion correct and sufficient for the future identification of the land. Upon this report the particulars in the application may be amended. The Registering Officer may, if he thinks fit, perform this work of identification and measurement himself.

Issue and publication of notices.

VI. At the same time the Registering Officer shall issue notices stating the particulars of the application. One of such notices shall be affixed in his own Office; one shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in the village wherein the land is situated; one shall be affixed at the Police Thannah within the jurisdiction of which the land lies; one shall be sent to the local Cutcherry of the Zemindar or Talookdar of the village specified, whenever such person may be held to have any lien or interest in the land to be registered; others may be sent to any other persons whom the Registering Officer may seem fit. In this notice, which shall be in the form shown in the Schedule to this Act appended, any person who may deny the fact of actual and immediate possession of the land specified as alleged in the application, shall be required to appear in person, or by accredited Agent, before the Registering Officer within fourteen days from the date of the publication of the notice, or else to forego all right to be heard in opposition to the registration.

Procedure on appearance of any objector.

VII. On the appearance of any objector the Collector or other Officer shall make a summary enquiry into any objections urged that the land in question is not in possession of the applicant, and no opposition to registration shall be heard on any other ground. If the objection is not satisfactorily made out, the Collector or other Officer shall disallow it and proceed to grant the certificate. If the objections shall appear well founded, the applicant shall be referred to the Civil Court, and no further proceedings shall be taken by the Collector or other Officer in order to registration.

Procedure if no objector appears.

VIII. If no person appears to oppose registration within the term allowed in the notice, the Registering Officer shall require the applicant or his Agent, having personal knowledge of the particulars stated in the application, to depose upon oath or solemn affirmation to the truth of the same, as endorsed by the official identification and measurement of the land, and thereupon shall register the holding under this Act.

Fee for registry.

IX. A fee of four annas shall be charged on the making of every registration under this Act.

X. The effect of registration under this Act shall be to establish the person or persons in whose name or names the registration is made, in the right of occupation of the specific land registered, until ousted by order of a competent Civil Court. No suit under Act IV of 1840 shall be admissible regarding any land registered under this Act. It shall be the duty of the Police Officer in charge of the Thanna within the limits of which land registered under this Act lies, summarily to maintain against all attempts at forcible dispossession the person or persons in whose names the said land is registered in the exclusive occupation thereof, referring for his guidance in this respect to the book required by Section II to be kept up in his Thanna, and the Magisterial Officers of the District or Sub-division under whose orders such Police Officers are placed, shall see to the performance of this duty. But no entry in a Register Book under this Act shall remain in force, when the term of the tenure under which possession was claimed to be held, being in its nature temporary, has expired; or when the entry has been cancelled by a subsequent entry in the name of another party.

Effect of registration.

XI. An extract of any uncancelled entry in the District or Sub-divisional Register Book established under this Act, shall be given by the Officer in whose custody such Register Book may be, to any person on applying for the same, on payment of a fee of four annas.

Extracts of entries in Register Books to be given on application, on payment of fee.

XII. Nothing in this Act contained and nothing done under this Act shall affect in any way any person's right or title to any land, or any person's interests in any land. And no registration under this Act shall be held to confer or to alter any right in the land.

Saving of rights in land.

XIII. This Act shall be in force only in the Territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

THE 7TH SEPTEMBER 1861.

THE following Bill was read a second time in the Legislative Council of India on the 31st August 1861, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 11th of November next:—

A Bill to improve the system of Zemindary Dawks in the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal.

WHEREAS the conveyance of letters on the public service between Police Stations and the Magisterial Offices of the Districts subject to the Government of Bengal as authorized by law is defective, irregular, and uncertain: and whereas the payment of the dawk-runners now appointed by the Zemindars to perform the duty of conveying such letters is not properly provided for: and whereas the whole system requires to be amended and placed on a better footing; It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. From and after the passing of this Act, the provisions of Section X Regulation XX. 1817 shall cease to have effect in the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

Section X Regulation XX. 1817 repealed.

II. From and after the passing of this Act the appointment of dawk-runners and other officials necessary for the performance of the service of transporting all letters or packets conveyed between Police Stations and Magistrates of Districts or Officers in charge of Sub-divisions, shall be vested exclusively in the Magistrate of the District, or in such Officers as the local Government may from time to time direct; and no proprietor or farmer of land and no local Agent of such proprietor or farmer shall have any concern in the appointment of pykes, peons, or runners for the above duty. The decision of all questions regarding the salaries or the removal of such runners or other subordinate officers shall rest with the Magistrate or with such other Officer as the Government may appoint, and with no one else.

Appointment, remuneration, and removal of dawk-runners, &c.

III. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or for such Officers as the local Government may direct, to collect the funds necessary for the payment of the establishments required for the transport of letters by such zemindary dawks, from the Zemindars paying revenue direct to Government, or from the farmers of land in each District, and to apportion, rateably, the sums to be paid on this account by each Zemindar.

Collection of funds and assessment of amount payable by each Zemindar.

IV. The Magistrate or other Officer shall, in the performance of this duty, first fix the total sum necessary for the efficient service of the zemindary dawks on the various lines of his District, and shall then proceed to apportion the above amount rateably, to the Zemindars of the whole District being Sudder Proprietors or farmers of land. No Zemindar or farmer of land shall hereafter be exempted from liability on the ground that no zemindary dawk passes through any portion of his estates.

Mode of assessment.

V It shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer nominated by Government to perform this duty, to appoint a local Committee composed of such of the District authorities and the Zemindars as he may think fit, in order to determine the amount payable by each Zemindar for the purposes of this Act. The Magistrate shall be the President of any such Committee and shall have a casting vote at all deliberations. One appeal and no more shall lie to the Commissioner of the Division from any final order of a Magistrate or other Officer or of a local Committee, imposing any pecuniary liability above the sum of ten Rupees a quarter on any Zemindar or farmer of land for the defrayal of the above Postal service.

Appointment, &c., of local Committee for assessment.

VI. It shall be competent to the local Government, by an order to that effect, to exempt from the above liability any Zemindars or farmers the Sudder Jumma of whose estates in any one District does not exceed the sum of fifty Rupees a year.

Exemption.

VII. The sums leviable under the apportionment of the Magistrate or local Committee under this Act shall be collected quarterly and in advance from the parties liable, by the Magistrate or other Officer appointed; and any Zemindar or farmer, and any local Agent refusing or delaying to pay the quota imposed on him shall be liable to a fine of one hundred Rupees for each offence, such fine to be leviable by distraint and sale of moveable property, or, in default of assets, to be commutable to one month's imprisonment in the Civil Jail. The sums leviable under this Act for the purposes of the dawks shall be made good also by the above process, in all cases of default. Cases under this Act may be instituted either in the District where the estate on account of which the rate is imposed is situated, or in the District where the owner or farmer of such estate habitually resides.

Mode of collection.

VIII. This Act shall take effect in the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, but shall not apply to the Province of Arracan or to that of Assam with the exception of the District of Gowalparah.

Operation of Act.

IX. It shall be competent for the local Government to frame general rules for the guidance of the authorities and for the transport of the dawks established by this Act, provided such rules be not incompatible with its provisions, or with the provisions of Act XVII of 1854 (for the management of the Post Office, for the regulation of the duties of Postage, and for the punishment of offences against the Post Office.)

Local Government to frame general rules.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

No. 10258.

Fort William, the 19th August 1861.

RESOLUTION.—The Accountant General to the Government of Madras, suggested that the expenditure incurred by the Commissariat Department of that Presidency on account of supplies for the Civil Department should cease to be incurred through that Department, and that all Civil Officers who received such supplies should obtain them in the market.

The Government of Fort St. George adopted this suggestion and requested that arrangements might be made for the supply of stores to the Civil Department subordinate to this Government, which heretofore obtained their supplies through the Madras Commissariat.

The Auditor General of India to whom this proposal was referred for report remarked, that the only arrangements which appeared to be necessary for carrying out the suggestion of the Accountant General, Madras, were the issue of orders to the Heads of all the Departments concerned, to the effect that in future stores should be procured from the market, or if to the advantage of Government through the Madras Commissariat on the usual indents, but that in either case cash must be paid for the supplies.

A copy of this Report was sent to the Government of Fort St. George in reply to their communication on the subject, with an intimation that the Auditor General had been requested to issue the necessary orders to the Heads of all Departments as suggested by him, and the Madras Government was asked to issue the necessary instructions in respect to the places and Departments in the Madras Circle.

With reference to this letter to the Madras Government, the Military Finance Department, to whom a copy thereof was sent for information, advises that orders be issued regarding the supply of stores to the Steamers at Moulmein, to the Alguada Reef Light House, to the Steamers at Rangoon, to the Flotilla at Thyet Myo, and also to the Ecclesiastical Department, Rangoon.

The Military Finance Department also enquire whether that Department shall give orders as to the supplies to the Nagpore Irregular Force.

In a subsequent letter the Military Finance Department also advise, with reference to the Notification of the Deputy Auditor and Accountant General, Bengal, published at page 2350 of the Gazette of the 3rd instant, regarding the payment for stores obtained from the Madras Commissariat, that the rule be made general for all India and not special as at present for Madras.

This last recommendation of the Military Finance Department, His Excellency the Governor General in Council understands to be that the rule laid down that stores be paid for in cash be made general for all India without reference to the source through which they are procured, the object being that, by compelling cash payments which must necessarily be made by a Civil or Military authority, the transaction comes directly under the review of the controlling Officer of the Service to which it relates. And with this view, His Excellency in Council is pleased to sanction its adoption for all India. It is not intended, His Excellency in Council remarks, that these arrangements shall necessarily involve a change in the source of supply of stores in all cases; they are simply that stores provided through the existing sources of supply must be paid for in cash, and that these sources need not be resorted to when it is not clearly to the advantage of Government, and certainly not, when stores can be procured in the market upon advantageous terms.

In order to introduce the system of cash payments, as adverted to above all over India, His Excellency the Governor General in Council desires that the Chiefs of the Civil and Military Departments be respectively requested to issue the necessary orders on the subject.

With reference to the enquiry of the Military Finance Department as to whether that Department shall give orders as to the supplies to the Nagpore Irregular Force, His Excellency in Council remarks, that as these supplies are now treated as Military charges, it clearly falls within the jurisdiction of the Military Finance Department to issue the necessary instructions regarding them.

Ordered, that copies of this Resolution be sent to the Auditor General of India, and the Military Finance Department, with a request that they will take measures for carrying out the proposal for the enforcement of cash payments, as noticed above, on account of supply of stores to the several Military and Civil Departments under their respective control.

If the wound received by an Officer in Action shall be so severe in its permanent effects as to be fully equal, or nearly equal, to the loss of a limb, and the injury shall be so reported by the Military Medical Board, he may be recommended to Her Majesty for a temporary Pension, the continuance of which shall depend upon subsequent examinations before a Military Medical Board.

5. If any wound received in Action shall be certified to be severe and dangerous, but in its permanent effects not nearly equal to the loss of a limb, the Officer receiving such wound may receive a Gratuity, varying, according to the nature of the case, from three to twelve months' full-pay of the Regimental Rank or Staff appointment held by him at the time he was wounded.

Gratuity.

6. If an Officer shall have held a Pension for a wound received in Action for a term of five years, and shall have been examined, twice at the least, before a Board of Army Medical Officers, he may be recommended for the permanent continuance of such Pension; but if the Officer, before the expiration of the term of five years, shall have so far recovered, that his wound or injury is not equal nor nearly equal to the loss of a limb, then he shall cease to receive such Pension.

Permanent Pension.

7. If within the period of five years after a wound has been received, an Officer shall not apply for the pension, or, on his so applying for it, the wound shall not have been proved to be permanently equal nor nearly equal to the loss of a limb, such Officer's claim to a pension for such wound shall not, at any subsequent period, be entertained.

Limit of Application for Pension.

8. No gratuity for any wound shall be granted after the lapse of five years from the time the wound was received.

Gratuity.

9. No Pension for the loss of an eye, from a wound received in Action, shall be granted unless the actual loss of vision shall have occurred within five years after the wound was received, and be solely attributable to such wound.

Loss of Vision.

10. As a general Rule, the Pension or Gratuity shall be granted according to Regimental Rank; but should an Officer, with or without Brevet Rank, have been employed at the time he was wounded, in discharge of duties superior to those attached to his Regimental commission, the Gratuity and Pension may be given in accordance with the rate prescribed for the Regimental Rank immediately above that held by such Officer at the time of being wounded.

Brevet Rank, or duties superior to those of Regimental commission.

11. These Pensions may be held together with any other Pay and Allowances to which an Officer may be entitled, without any deduction on account thereof, and may be granted to, and continue to be held by the Officer should he leave the service.

Pensions tenable with Pay.

12. Officers who are still suffering from wounds received since the 28th March 1854, the date of the declaration of War with Russia, should such wounds be certified by a Military Medical Board to be now equal or nearly equal to the loss of a limb, may receive Pensions according to the provisions of this Warrant from the 27th October 1860, the date of the Warrant hereby cancelled.

New rates to be applicable for the future to Officers wounded since declaration of War with Russia.

No. 798 of 1861.—Captain the Baron Frederick August Von Meyern, of the late 53rd Regiment Native Infantry, is permitted to retire from the service on the pension of his rank, with effect from the 10th instant.

Fort William, the 10th September 1861.

No. 799 of 1861.—The following paragraphs of a Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 396, dated 25th July 1861, are published for general information:—

1. In your letter dated 18th May 1861, No. 78, you raise the question whether Officers of the Indian Forces who join the Staff Corps and obtain promotion therein will be entitled to the benefit of the Retiring Regulations of 1796 as well as those of 1836-37. In other words whether such Officers will retain their right to retire on the pension of the substantive rank they may hold, provided they have completed twenty-two years' actual service, should that be more advantageous to them than the scale* of pension fixed by the Royal Warrant of the 16th January last.

2. The scale of service and pension fixed in the Royal Warrant, which is the Indian scale of pensions under the Regulations of 1836, based on the principle of length of service, is to be applicable to both British and Indian Officers, with the proviso, as regards British Officers, that not less than half the required period of service shall have been passed in the Staff Corps.

3. Officers of the Indian Army, however, who may, at the time of joining the Staff Corps, have acquired, under the Regulations of 1796, the right of retiring on the pension of their rank, will be allowed to retire on the pension of the rank which they then hold, whenever they may subsequently retire; but they are not to be allowed to retire on a pension according to rank under the above Regulations in respect of any rank subsequently acquired under the rules of promotion of the Staff Corps.

4. The right of retiring on the pension of the rank they hold at the date of joining the Staff Corps will preserve to local Officers who have been fortunate in their promotion the benefit of the rate of pension they may have acquired by their previous service in the Army.

5. For instance, an Officer on joining the Staff Corps, who has attained the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel after twenty-two years' service, will retain his right at any time during his subsequent service to retire on the pension of that rank. Were he confined to the Staff Corps scale of retirement, he would be required to serve for a period of six years in that Corps before he could be entitled to retire on the pension of a Lieutenant-Colonel.

6. On the other hand, it cannot be conceded that Officers shall be entitled to claim the pension according to rank, in respect of rank obtained in Staff Corps. Many Officers on joining the Staff Corps will obtain an immediate step of rank, and some a second step after a short period of service. An Officer, for instance, of the rank of Captain, entitled to count previous service (Army and Staff) for promotion, might join the Staff Corps for one day, and then, if he were allowed to retire under the Rule of 1796, he would retire on the pension of a Major. Or, if his previous service were sufficient, he might after two years' service in the Staff Corps, gain two steps of rank and then retire with the pension of a Lieutenant-Colonel. This would give him an undue advantage, which was not intended, and cannot be allowed.

7. As connected with this subject, I have to inform you that in reply to an inquiry addressed to me by an Officer in this country, who had elected the Old Furlough Regulations, I have stated that his service for pension should reckon under the Old Rules until he joined the Staff Corps, but that, after that date, he would be under the operation of the New Furlough Rules as laid down in the General Orders, 10th April 1861, (93.)

8. This will secure to all Officers their privileges with respect to Furlough, according to the election they had previously made to the date of their joining this Corps.

9. This decision will be duly acted upon by your Government.

No. 800 of 1861.—His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following appointments:—

Captain F. D. Urquhart, Examiner, Ordnance Department, and Officiating Second Examiner, to be Second Examiner, Pay Department, and to officiate as First Examiner in that Department, vice Captain G. B. Malleson appointed Secretary to Military Finance Department.

Captain W. W. Aubert, Officiating Third Examiner, to officiate as Second Examiner, Pay Department, vice Urquhart.

Major E. Sissmore, officiating as Extra Examiner, to officiate as Third Examiner, Pay Department.

No. 801 of 1861.—His Excellency the Governor-General in Council directs the publication of the subjoined Questions on subjects of general interest and the Answer given by Government, in continuation of those published in Government General Order No. 681 of the 2nd August 1861:—

Question 92.—Can an Officer now on the Staff, who entered the Service after the General Order dated 9th January 1837, not having passed the prescribed examination in Hindoostanee, enter the Staff Corps under paragraph 69; and with reference to paragraphs 75 and 78, does this rule apply to Officers holding the appointment of Adjutant to a Native Corps?

Answer 92.—An Officer who entered the Service after January 1837 is ineligible to hold a permanent Staff appointment without having passed the usual Hindoostanee Examination, and he is consequently ineligible to join the Staff Corps.

And though he may be holding an Adjutancy to a Native Corps, his case does not come within the provisions of paragraphs 75 and 78 of the General Order.

Question 93.—Whether time passed by Officers (not belonging to the Corps of Engineers) in the Department of Public Works prior to its present organization is to count as Staff Service under the Royal Warrant?

N. B.—It is believed that, until within the last few years, any Officer (not of the Corps of Engineers) was usually considered to be "officiating" in the Department of Public Works, though he might have held his appointment for a considerable period, and have been in the receipt of full Staff Salary.

The question is, will time passed in such a position count as Staff Service?

Answer 93.—All substantive appointments, but not appointments held temporarily for absent Staff Officers or otherwise, will count as Staff Service.

Yes, this was the case prior to the revision of the Department in 1854; Officers of Artillery, Cavalry, and Infantry, employed in the Department, were styled "officiating" or "in charge."

The appointments were, however, virtually permanent, for an Officer could only be removed by the appointment of an unemployed Engineer Officer; and there were not Engineer Officers enough for all the appointments.

The time passed in such a position will count as Staff Service, when there was an actual vacancy in contradistinction to a temporary vacancy.

Question 94.—Is it intended to be implied in the concluding portion of paragraph 45 of the General Order No. 332 of 10th April 1861, that Officers on the Staff who do not join the Staff Corps will henceforth be liable to be removed from their present appointments and employed in other duties in a manner that is not now usually done; and will an Officer joining the Staff Corps be guaranteed his Staff appointment so long as he does not prove himself unfit for it? while on the other hand to an Officer not joining the Staff Corps, no such guarantee can be held out?

Paragraph 45.

Answer. 94.—The position of Officers who do not join the Staff Corps will be in no respect changed. Both Officers of the Staff Corps and those not joining it will be on the same footing with respect to tenure of appointment.

Question 95.—Will Officers of the Indian Army who do not wish to join the Staff Corps be eligible for Staff employ, or will it hereafter be compulsory to join the Staff Corps on getting an appointment?

Answer 95.—When the Staff Corps is once formed, i. e. after 21st October 1861, such Officers will be available for any employ,—Staff or other at the discretion of the Government of India.

Question 96.—An Officer is at Home on two years' Furlough in 1856, and ordered out in consequence of the Mutiny in 1857, having ten months of his leave unexpired, can he, if he joins the Staff Corps, take this balance of Furlough without losing his appointment?

Answer 96.—Yes, he would be allowed the balance of his Furlough retaining his appointment.

Question 97.—An Officer proceeds on fifteen months' leave retaining his appointment—he obtains twelve months' additional leave and thereby forfeits his appointment. Is his absence of fifteen months to be reckoned as Staff Service?

Answer 97.—Yes.

Question 98.—If an Officer now declares for Local Service, will his having so declared be a bar to his joining the Staff Corps?

Answer 98.—No, it will not.

Question 99.—Can an Officer having entered the Staff Corps retire from the Service and claim the extra £50 as pension offered in G. G. O. dated 8th March last, No. 79, provided he applies to retire before the 1st October next?

Answer 99.—Yes, but as shewn in the Despatch No. 302, dated 2nd August 1861, published in General Order No. 784 of the 5th September 1861, it is not the intention of Her Majesty's Government that Officers should enter the Staff Corps for the purpose of immediately retiring.

Question 100.—Should an Officer elect for the Local Service, will his claim for Regimental or Brigade Command, or for Staff employ generally, be diminished?

Answer 100.—No.

Question 101.—With reference to paragraph 92, Government General Order No. 332, dated 10th April 1861, an unattached Officer being eligible for the Staff Corps, [on the same terms as Indian Officers, and having therefore joined the Staff Corps] whether, having served on the Staff for a period of fourteen years and three months, will he be entitled to count this or what portion of this period, as service in the Staff Corps?

Answer 101.—Service towards pension under the Staff Corps Rules must be service as a Commissioned Officer. But the reduced scale of pension specially allowed to unattached Officers will be continued to them. See General Orders No. 322, dated 6th June 1851.

Question 102.—Whether a Lieutenant in a British Regiment of Foot of eight years' service, who was appointed Officiating Assistant Commissioner, Tenasserim and Martaban on the 20th October 1860, and confirmed in the appointment of 2nd Class Extra Assistant Commissioner, Tenasserim Province, in June 1861, is eligible for the Staff Corps in India, and whether the service above-mentioned will count as service on the Staff?

Answer 102.—This Officer is eligible at the discretion of Government to join the Staff Corps on probation under paragraph 75 of the General Order. Having been confirmed in permanent employ, his previous temporary employment will count as Staff Service; see Questions and Answers 26 and 40. But as this Officer held only temporary employment on the 18th of February last, he cannot be admitted into the Staff Corps previously to the 22nd October 1861. After that date his claims will be considered.

Question 103.—Whether the period passed out of India by Officers of the Staff Corps either on furlough or on sick certificate will be counted towards the four years unemploy referred to in paragraph 98 of the amalgamation order?

Answer 103.—Yes.

Question 104.—Whether time passed by an Officer of Infantry as probationary Assistant Engineer is to count as Staff service.

Answer 104.—Yes, if he is subsequently appointed permanently.

Question 105.—Whether, as a special case, the time passed on Foreign service by Officers who volunteered to do duty with Irregular Regiments in China in 1860 counts for promotion in the Staff Corps? (such Officers having given up, during their absence from India, their chance of other permanent appointments.)

Answer 105.—If the Officer held an appointment prior to proceeding on service to China, the time so passed will count for promotion in the Staff Corps, whether he volunteered for the service or not.

Mundy, of the Bengal Staff Corps, Deputy Pay Master, Umballah Circle, is appointed Presidency Pay Master and Pay Master to the Queen's Troops from the 26th February last, the date on which he assumed charge of the Office, vice Major Hill, appointed Military Accountant for Bengal.

No. 61.

Fort William, the 7th September 1861.

Colonial Office, Cape of Good Hope,
17th June 1861.

His Excellency the Governor has directed the publication of the following Notice of the new Roman Rock Light, at the entrance of Simon's Bay, which will be exhibited on the 16th of September 1861.

By Command of His Excellency the Governor,

RICHARD SOUTHEY,
Acting Colonial Secretary.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.—ROMAN ROCK LIGHT, FALSE BAY, CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

The bearings are by Compass and the distances in Nautical Miles.

NOTICE is hereby given, that a Light will be exhibited from the new Light House on the Roman Rocks on the 16th September next, which will supersede that shown at the Light Vessel now moored a cable's length North of the Rocks. It will be a revolving white Light, showing a bright face for the space of twelve seconds twice every minute, which will serve to distinguish it from the Cape Point Light in thick weather, as that Light revolves only once every minute. The Light will be fifty-four feet above the Sea, and visible in clear weather from a Ship's deck thirteen miles distant.

The Light Tower is forty-eight feet high, the lower half of which will be painted black and the upper half white. From the Light House, Noah's Ark bears S. 56°, W. $\frac{7}{10}$ miles, and the Dock-yard Clock W. by N. 1·65 miles.

N. N. E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E., $2\frac{3}{4}$ cables from the Light House lies the Castor Rock, with only fifteen feet on it at low-water springs: its position is marked by a beacon, with a flag having the word "Rock" painted on it. There are patches of nineteen and twenty-four feet between the Castor Rock and the Light House, which renders it necessary for large Ships to give the Light House a berth of at least three and a half cables, when passing to the N. E., before hauling in for Simon's Bay.

In sailing for Simon's Bay, by keeping the Light House in line with Elsey Peak, bearing N. $\frac{1}{4}$ W., a Ship will pass midway between the Whittle Rock and Miller's Point.

Notification.

CIVIL PAY-MASTER'S OFFICE.

The attention of Treasury Officers is solicited to the proper mode of filling up the "Monthly Estimate of probable receipts and disbursements," which has been misunderstood in several instances.

The first columns on the debit and credit side are intended to show respectively the amounts of estimated receipts and disbursements for the "current year." The amounts entered should be the amounts sanctioned by Government in the Budget under each head. These columns must consequently remain unaltered throughout the year, unless under special circumstances, and by the authority of Government.

The second columns are intended to exhibit the actual receipts and disbursements of the year up to date, that is to say, the Return for any month should show the total receipts and disbursements under each head, to the close of the preceding month from the commencement of the Official year; thus the Statement for September (due on the 5th of the month) should show all receipts and disbursements in its second columns from 1st May to the 31st August under each head.

The remaining columns exhibit probable receipts and disbursements for the current and two ensuing months.

In cases of estimated remittances, the name of the District to which such remittance is to be made, or from which it is expected, should always be exhibited in the column of "Remarks."

It is requested that the Returns may be prepared with care and forwarded with punctuality. Unnecessary delay on the part of any Officer will immediately be brought to the notice of Government.

Civil Pay Master.

Notes on the River Yang-tze-Kiang from Hankow to Ping-shan.

By LIEUT.-COL. SAREL, B. A., F. R. G. S.

AN Expedition, consisting of the under-mentioned Officers, left Shanghae on the 11th February 1861. They were allowed by Admiral Sir James Hope to accompany the Naval Expedition under his command as far as Yochow, from which place they proceeded in native boats. The original intention was to penetrate through the Province of Sz'chuan to Lassa, and thence to cross the Himalaya mountains to the plains of India. As will be seen, the unsettled state of the country in the West rendered the obtaining carriage an impossibility and prevented the carrying out of this plan.

LIEUT.-COL. SAREL, 17th Lancers.
CAPTAIN BLAKISTON, R. A.
DOCTOR BARTON.
REV. S. SCHERESCHEWSKY, American Mission.

The notes commence from the time of leaving Hankow, the river below that port having been surveyed and reported on.

From Yochow to Ping-shan the river has been carefully surveyed by Captain Blakiston.

Specimens of mineralogy, ferns, and insects have been collected and forwarded to England.

The country above Hankow is flat, large tracts on both banks being flooded in March, but a low range of hills crosses the river shortly above the junction of the Han with the Yangtze; about ten miles above Hankow, on the left bank, are some low grassy hills admirably suited for the encampment of a large body of Troops; the situation is dry and airy, with the river close at hand and a creek running into the country. Ten miles higher up two hills called Ta-kin-shan or the great, and Siau-kin-shan or the little golden hill are passed on the left bank, the little hill being the largest; near these are hills on both banks after which the country near the river again becomes flat, though low ranges are visible at some distance inland; the river here averages a mile in width; numbers of trading junks were seen on their way between Honan and Hankow viâ the Tung-ting lake; most of the boats come from Hiang-tang and Sun-chu (foo) in Hounan and some few from Chung-king in Sz'chuan; some boats roughly constructed, their top sides being of deal planks unplaned and unvarnished, furnished with matting sails, bring coals from Pow-king (foo), a town in the interior of Hounan; when these boats reach Hankow, after discharging their cargo, they are broken up and sold for the wood.

Terminations to names of Towns: Foo, town of the 1st order; Chow, 2nd; and Hien, 3rd.

Trading junks.

Coal.

Numerous timber rafts are also brought down the lake to the Yangtze; they are made in divisions with huts built on them for their conductors; a division can be sold at any place without interfering with the rest of the raft, and the rafts being connected, like a train of boats, can turn the sharp bends of the small rivers they have to descend to the lake.

Timber Rafts.

At the village of Lo-je-kow, the rebels had left their traces; a small temple and some of the buildings were in ruins; these fanatical savages destroy everything they come across, their only idea being utterly to obliterate all traces of the Tartar Government and to begin "de novo;" a few years will leave them nothing to govern even if they succeed in destroying the Tartar dynasty, which I much doubt; already many of them are said to be heartily tired of rebellion, and would doubtless return to their allegiance if they thought they could do so with safety to themselves, but rebels can expect no mercy from a Chinese Government, nor have their actions been such as to entitle them to it.

King-kow and Sing-ti.

Between Hankow and the entrance to the Tung-ting lake only two places, deserving the names of towns, are passed; the first being King-kow on the right, and the second Sing-ti on the left bank; at the latter there is some trade and a custom-house, where all the junks coming down the river pay toll.

Some miles before reaching the entrance to the lake the river narrows to about half-a-mile between two bluffs of red sand-stone; soon after passing them a large rock, about five feet above water in March, shows in mid stream; this is covered when the river rises, and would be dangerous, until sufficiently under water, for ships to pass over it.

The river between Hankow and Yochow is straight for the first and last parts of its course; part in the middle makes a loop twenty-eight miles round, the neck being only about a mile across; a canal cut here would be a great assistance to the navigation; the ground being perfectly flat and only a few feet above the river there would be no difficulty in making one, and the current of the river would be sufficient to keep it clear; in July we passed through a narrow cut made by the river, finding from four to ten feet of water, with a strong current across this neck; the reach below the lake entrance is long and straight running about N.E. and S.W. on the way from the river to Yochow at the head of the lake, a great number of sheep and goats with a few ponies were seen grazing on a low grassy flat covered in floods; these were the only sheep seen on the river for a distance of 1,800 miles.

From Hankow, Sir James Hope had taken a junk in tow for our Expedition, the Coromandel and Bouncer being the only ships brought on farther than that town; from Yochow the ships returned and we proceeded alone.

17th March 1861.

On preparing to start we were informed that a canal called the "Taiping" canal, connecting the Tung-ting lake with the Yangtze, would shorten our route by five days; we determined, however, on keeping to the river, in order to obtain all possible information about it.

Kin-ho-köw.

The stream flowing from the Tung-ting lake to the Yang-tze-kiang is called "Kin-ho-köw" or the mouth of the golden river, by which name the Yangtze was formerly known as low down as this junction, and is now higher up. Its position at the junction is by Naval Dead reckoning from Hankow,

Lat. 29° 27′ 2″ N.
Long. 112° 50′ 05″ E.

Yo-chow.

Yo-chow, standing at the entrance to the lake, is in the direct road of the trading boats coming from the Province of Hounan; there does not appear to be much business done, almost all the trade being at Hankow; the country towards the north-west is flat, being, in March only, a few feet above the water, and covered when the river is in flood; the town is in a dilapidated condition; it stands on high clay cliffs well above the water.

A short distance above the junction, the banks are often eighteen or twenty feet high, in the bends of the river; opposite these banks are generally extensive flats of sand running far out into the stream; deep water is always found near the steep banks.

The course of the river for some distance after leaving the lake is very tortuous, a whole day's travelling frequently, not taking the junk more than five or six miles in a direct line from the last anchorage.

The country as far as could be seen from the river is a flat, growing wheat, beans, and carrots; in some extensive swamps on the banks, oziers were growing; about thirty miles above the lake it becomes undulating, ranges of hills appearing in the West; on the left bank a high and broad embankment protects the low country from the river floods; before reaching Shi-show, a small walled town on the right bank, the river runs near some hills varying from 700 to 1,500 feet in height; three of these hills are excellent marks; one we named the "Camel's hump," another the "Ass' ears," and the third "Boulder hill" from a large round mass of rock standing by itself on the side of a hill; all these marks are visible at a great distance; higher up the river, close to the town of Shi-show, two hills, called the little and great temple hills, are distinguishable, by the white buildings on them, for many miles.

Shi-show.

At Shi-show low hills of a hard red stone run down to the water's edge; from the top of the "Little Temple" hill close to the river a good view is obtained of the town and country to the S. E. and of a lake near the town in which are small islands with houses and gardens; the town is surrounded by a weak looking wall, and is protected on two sides by the river and lake; the others are commanded by low hills near the walls; within the town are gardens extending over nearly half the space enclosed by the walls, and this is the case with every town on the Upper Yang-tze; nearly all are built at the foot of a slope, the extent of ground enclosed having reference to what a town may one day become rather than to the available number of inhabitants to defend such a length of wall.

Hohia.

At Hohia, a large village on the left bank, the river makes a sharp bend, and narrows from an average width of a thousand yards to about seven hundred; through the narrows the stream rushes with great force against the left bank, which, when we saw it, had been deeply cut into; a fine wall, of very hard lime-stone, was in course of construction to protect the embankment; in crossing the narrows, the lead gave close to the village fourteen fathoms, in mid stream sixteen, and eight and a half at twenty yards from the right bank; above the village, the embankment recedes from the river, until, at the distance of nine or ten miles up, it is fully a mile from it; the land between this and the river is about fifteen feet higher than on its landward side; it appears to have been built at a time when the river ran in a different bed from its present one; as the river has retired from the embankment to its present channel the intervening flat has become gradually raised by a succession of deposits of mud brought down by the annual floods, while the country beyond has remained at its original level; a road is carried along the top of the embankment, which is about twenty-five yards wide.

Carriage.

The carriage of this part of the country is a light cart, generally with two, sometimes with four solid wheels; buffaloes are used for draught, and small ponies for the saddle; the large wheeled barrow, the same as that used in the North and in other parts of China, is also found here.

Shahsz'.

About 170 miles above the junction of the Tung-ting lake with the Yangtze, is the town of Shahsz'; it is the first place of any importance above Yochow, being the port of Kinchow (foo), a large city a mile inland; Shahsz' is built on the embankment on the river's left along which it runs for about two miles or rather more; on the whole of its river face, and in every creek, junks, some of a large size, were moored as closely as they could be stowed; a mandarin gave the population as 600,000, but probably more than doubled it; a Chinese will give any answer to avoid the trouble of thinking, and information picked up casually cannot be relied on.

Many west country boats come down the river as far as Shahsz', bringing sugar, pepper, salt, opium, tobacco, and hemp, taking back cotton and some of the goods imported from Canton and brought thus far by the Tung-ting lake and the Taiping canal which joins the river six or seven miles above and to which, when the river is high, there is a short cut opposite Shahsz'.

Kinchow (foo.)

Kinchow (foo) was said, by the above mentioned mandarin, to contain 10,000 Tartars, and too many Chinese to be counted; travellers by land reach it in five days from Hankow; 2,000 men from the Tartar garrison were said to have been sent to Hwangchow, a town below Hankow, which the rebels were reported to have taken.

Soundings.

Between Yochow and Shahsz' the soundings in the channel were never under four fathoms, and varied from that depth to seventeen, near the banks being seldom under three; a continuous line of soundings could never be procured, our course being along shore, so that we were only able to get a cast in crossing from side to side.

Taiping Canal.

Six or seven miles above Shahsz' the canal before mentioned as connecting the lake and river is passed; it is called "Hu-du-kow" or "Taiping," more commonly the latter; boats come from Yochow to the Yangtze by it in five days, but make no use of it on the downward voyage, there being little or no stream in it; in fair weather boats go from Shahsz' to the entrance to the lake near Yochow in a little over three days; the Taiping canal at its junction with the river is about a hundred yards broad.

Kiang-kow.

To the West from Kiang-kow, a town on the left bank and about two miles inland, the country becomes undulating and the river banks shingly; just below this town a large fleet, of upwards of two hundred junks, was met conveying soldiers down to oppose the rebels.

Yung-chi.
Limestone.

Limestone is quarried and burnt and red bricks and tiles made near the village of Yungchi; from this point the country totally changes its character; from an almost dead level it becomes undulating, hilly and very shortly mountainous; to the South-West and North-West of the town of Chikiang is a range of high mountains called "Shih-urh-pei" or the hills of seven gates; peach trees were in blossom on the side of those nearest the river, while the ground between them and the water was green with wheat and willows; in the distance they appeared well wooded, but there was probably nothing but underwood, no timber having been seen brought down to the river since quitting the lake.

Chikiang.

The town of Chikiang stands on the right bank; a battlemented wall runs round three sides of it, that on the river side with a large portion of the suburbs having been laid in ruins by an unusual rise of the river in 1860. The scenery in this part of the river is very fine, and the change most refreshing after the flat country below Yangchi.

Itu (hien) Chinkiang river.

Itu (hien) the next town reached is also walled; it stands on the right bank at the junction of the river Chinkiang with the Yangtze; a range of hills runs to the East, while to the West mountains rise to a considerable height; the sand flats in the bed of the river are not so numerous as lower down; the banks become clayey and gravelly, while in some places rocks of conglomerate stand out from the shore; soon after leaving Itu, the course is between vertical cliffs of conglomerate, and the river narrows to 490 yards from an average of eight or nine hundred; reed and rubbish left on bushes and in crevices of the rocks, show the rise of the river during the floods to be occasionally sixty or seventy feet above its level in the end of March; last year it was unusually high; its rise in June is probably from forty to fifty feet higher than in the cold months; this will not appear so much when it is considered that the river is here only fifty yards more than a quarter of a mile in width, and at Hankow where it is fully a mile, the rise in June was ascertained to be twenty-seven feet, the river being even then rising.

The hills below Ichang are immense masses of conglomerate, not in continued ranges, but standing sometimes singly, sometimes in groups of two or three, and of all sorts of shapes and sizes; some are flat topped, others run up into sharp peaks, some are cultivated while others are too precipitous to hold soil, and on these a few stunted, thorny bushes grow; in some are natural caves used as houses and temples; the bases of some are overhung by the tops and under these, if a stream is at hand, the inhabitants construct huts, merely by building a wall with a doorway, from the ground to the rock overhead; from the highest peaks nothing could be seen towards the South, South-West and West, but confused masses of hills; the valleys are thinly inhabited and the people we saw looked poor and sickly; they seemed alarmed at our appearance, some taking to flight; those living near the river suffered severely from the flood of last year, many head of the few cattle they possessed having been destroyed; this year they are said (apparently truly) to be suffering from want of food; streams of clear water run through the valley, near which the bamboo is extensively cultivated; peaches, pears, cherries, peas and beans were in blossom and violets were growing in profusion.

The boats of the lower Yangtze ascend no higher than Ichang, and we had here to engage a boat fit for the ascent of the rapids; we anchored for some days off the "Tien Chan" pagoda, a mile below

Ichang; the occupation of the men here is principally fishing, the field work being, for the most part, performed by women; sturgeon (called by by the natives yellow fish) are said to be found in this part of the river; porpoises are in great numbers from near the sea until a short distance below the rapids, when they disappear.

Ichang (foo)

The town of Ichang (foo) stands close to the river on the laft bank; its position, as ascertained by Captain Blakiston, is—

Lat. 30° 41′ 5″ N.
Long. 111° 8′ 0″ E.

It is distant from Shanghae 950 geographical or about 1,100 statute miles, from Hankow it is 366 geographical or about 420 statute miles; steam vessels would find no more difficulty between Yochow and Ichang than between Hankow and Yochow; the most easy time to ascend would be when the river is low, as after its rise, whole country below Shi-show is so flooded that the banks are not visible, and some difficulty might be found in keeping to the channel.

Most of the trading junks from Sz'chuan go no further down the River than Ichang, though many go to Shahsz' and some few to Hankow; this would be a very advantageous port for trading with the West of China, the difficulties of the Navigation above being such as few owners would allow their vessels to risk, at any rate until something more is known of the rapids, and boats of a different construction to any at present in use on the Chinese waters have been built; an immense number of junks were moored along shore when we were at Ichang, and a crowd of them at anchor under the walls on a bank; these latter had on board a number of braves who had been collected to be sent in different direction against the Rebels.

To the East and South-East the country is hilly, to the North mountaineous; should this Town ever become a trading port, excellent situations for houses will be found opposite the Town on some low hills, and both above and below the Town itself on the same side of the River is ample room for building if it should be thought necessary to have places of business near the Native merchants; the Town side is not so much raised above the River as that opposite. A mile below the Town and at the Town itself the River is 940 yards wide in May and June; in the month of March we never found less than three fathoms and a half in any part of the Channel between Shahsz' and Ichang; the River begins to rise about the beginning of April and rises until June; it remains at about the same level until the end of September, and is at its lowest in the month of December when the water loses its usual red mud color and becomes clear; it rose last year about twenty feet above its usual level.

N. B. It is subject to sudden floods.

Coal.

Coal is plentiful at no great distance up the River, but does not appear to be of a very good quality; it is small and dull looking, and is made into bricks as in the North before being used as fuel; still higher up the river there is a District from which both Coal and Coke (which is made there) could be brought to Ichang by country boats in eight days; this latter Coal seems to be of a superior quality.

Coke.

On leaving Ichang our course was for about three miles, rather to the East of North, when it turned abruptly to the North-West; from travelling on a wide stream flowing evenly through a slightly hilly country, we suddenly entered a gorge varying in width from 150 to 200 yards, the current increasing to five and six miles an hour with many strong eddies telling of rocks below the surface; our lead line of twenty-five fathoms found no bottom except close to the sides; the cliffs rise perpendicularly from the water's edge, in some places over-hanging the River, to a height of from 300 to 500 feet; cultivation is extensively carried on in these hills wherever there is a sufficiently level space for soil to rest; wheat, beans, peas and different sorts of fruit trees were in blossom high up on the hill sides.

Tracking the boats in this part of the River is excessively severe work from the broken nature of the ground; the banks are strewed with masses of rock, and men have to be constantly clearing the line; above Ichang the boats do not use the sculls in use lower down the River; in their stead each boat has from ten to twenty oars, and, to assist the helm, a long oar is worked over the bow by five or six men; the swirls of the current would twist a boat's head round in an instant if the men were not ready with this oar to force it in the right direction; the tracking ropes are made of plaited strips of bamboo, and are very light and strong; the sails of the Houpeh boats are the same as those used lower down the River, but the boats have one mast only; the West country boats have light square sails of cotton, with a yard and boom of bamboo, on which they roll up when not set; they are not used on a wind and have not the cross bamboos usual with Chinese sails; they are generally hoisted on shears.

Limestone.

A very hard limestone is quarried in these gorges close to the water's edge; holes are cut in the stone and wedges of soft wood driven in, which, being wetted, swell and split the stone along the line in which they are placed.

Commencement of the rapids.

About twelve miles above Ichang at the Village of Shantow-pien, the River begins to be obstructed by rapids, that of Patung (sze) being the first met with; when the River is low, many rocks are here above water; in the strong part of the rapid, nearly 100 men on the line drew the boat up by inches; accidents sometimes occur from the towing line parting; the boats are fended off the rocks by a simple but effective plan; a stout rope is made fast on each bow, and a spar laid along each gunwale ready for use, but on ordinary occasions the bamboos used for poling in shallow water are made use of; when the boat nears a rock the pole is projected to meet it, and, at the same time two or three turns of one of the ropes made fast to the bow are taken round it; when the pole strikes the rock, the strain is taken by the rope, which tightening gradually, protects the boat from any shock; these spars can be projected from any part of the boat.

Terminations to names: Tan, Chi, rapid or shallow; Shun, a village; Hyah, gorge.

In the gorges of "Lu-kan" and "Mi-tan" the cliffs on both sides rise perpendicularly from the water's edge to a height of nearly 1,000 feet; they appear to have been originally one hill split in two by some convulsion of nature; the same marks and strata can be seen on both sides of the River at similar heights; in some places the hills are covered with brown scrub or grass, at a distance resembling heather; roads are carried across the mountain to the Villages in the interior, and are sufficiently good for baggage animals.

The first town reached above Ichang is Kwei (chow) called Koue on Arrowsmith's Map; it is a small walled place on the left bank containing about 100 houses, and the suburbs about thirty; near the Town a good road runs along the River bank, crossing the ravines on well constructed stone bridges.

Coal works.

Two miles above Kwei, Coal is worked in galleries driven into the hill sides; this Coal does not appear of good quality; it is brought to the surface in small, dull looking lumps; a number of people are employed in breaking it to powder, mixing it with water and moulding it into bricks for fuel; boats carry it to Ichang in about six hours.

At the rapid of Yeh (tair) three miles above Kwei, the water, in the first week in April, falls about four feet in seventy yards, but breaks only near the left bank.

Wushan (hien.)

The town of Wushan (hien) is approached by a long gorge of the same name: about half-way through it are two creeks, one on each side of the river, marking the boundary between Houpeh and Sz'chuan; that on right bank is called "Pei-shih," that on the left "Shah-mochang;" at Wushan the poppy is cultivated; on the hills about the town peaches, apricots, walnuts, the castor oil plant, hawthorn, honey suckle, and many wild flowers grow; a tree called "Tung-shu" is extensively cultivated in this part of the Yangtze valley; from the nut, called Tung-tse, an oil used for varnish is expressed; each nut contains three or more kernels in shape and taste like a small Brazil nut, but very poisonous.

Boundary between Hupeh and Sz'chuan.

Oil.

Above Wushan the hills recede slightly from the river as far as a gorge most appropriately named "Fung-siang" or the wind box; it averages no more than eighty yards in width; the stream is strong, but not rapid; the cliffs rise vertically from the water's edge to a great height; at its upper end the hills again recede from the river, and close to a small stream on the left bank stands Quaichow (foo.)

Quaichow (foo.)

Quaichow (foo) is distant from Shanghae 1,028 geographical or nearly 1,200 statute miles; it is 444 geographical miles from Hankow and seventy-eight above Ichang; there appeared no signs of trade in the town, and few boats were lying near it.

Between Ichang and Quaichow the navigation would be difficult and dangerous; when the river is high small powerful steamers of light draught might ascend the rapids, but the safest plan would possibly be to tow them up; of these rapids there are eight, though some are called so merely from the water running rapidly over a shallow near one shore, while near the other the stream is deep and still, running perhaps seven miles an hour; the largest country boats ascending are about 120 feet long by fifteen broad, drawing, when loaded, under three feet; they come down without difficulty merely by keeping in midstream, the channel being apparently free from obstructions, and should the commerce of the Upper Yangtze present sufficient advantages to compensate for the risk attending the navigation of this part of the river, steamers will doubtless be taken up and down in safety; it is difficult for a Military Officer to give an opinion on such a subject, but the obstacles appear to me by no means insuperable; at a short distance from the shore the water is deep, and the object of having vessels of light draught is to enable them to come close to the side, and to prevent the current from taking so much hold of them; any number of hands are always procurable at the rapids, men living there whose business it is to assist boats on their way up, and among whom good pilots would certainly be found; it would not be easy to anchor in all places on account of the rocky nature of the bottom and the depth of water, but many sandy bays are to be found where a vessel would lie snugly.

Land route to Ching-tu.

The road from Quaichow to Ching-tu was reported impracticable for baggage animals; the regular road strikes across from Wan, a town a short distance up the River. The Authorities at Quaichow had heard of the existence of a Treaty between England and China, but had never seen a copy; the Prefect was supplied with one by us.

Mexican Dollars had been readily taken on the river as far as Ichang at 1,000 cash each; at Quaichow, having no more Dollars, Syce Silver was exchanged at 1,720 cash per tael, but the Sz'chuen, Hankow, and Shanghae weights differ in the following proportions:—

100 Sz'chuan Taels=101.6 Shanghae Taels.

100 Sz'chuan Taels=102.48 Hankow Taels.

Wan was said to be 360 li or about 110 miles above Quaichow; in this part of the country, a day's march, whatever its actual distance is called 100 li, and the li may therefore be taken as a measure of time rather than of distance; in this distance we were rather over three days in reaching Wan, but the distance is under sixty miles.

Between Quaichow and Wan the river is nowhere less than 150 yards in breadth; there are some rapids but none so strong as those in the gorges below Quaichow; there are also rocks and reefs, but plenty of water in the channel; the hills recede much from the river and are not so high as those lower down; the poppy is cultivated, the opium being collected during April and May; the seed pods of the Sz'chuan poppy are quite as large and in many places larger than any I have seen in India; the specimens of opium brought down have been pronounced good, and the quantity produced in the Province is so great, that it may well interfere with the foreign market.

Gold washing.

Shortly before reaching Wan are some flats of sand and shingle on which gold is washed for, but the quantity produced is small, and none but those who can find no other occupation are employed in the work.

Wan (hien).

The town of Wan (hien) stands on the left bank; it is a small walled place; the shops are well supplied, and the inhabitants well of; coal, sulphur, ginger, sugar cane, spices, and blue cotton prints were exposed for sale; the hills about the town are well watered and produce, besides the poppy, tobacco, peas, beans, wheat, and barley; rice and cotton follow later in the season; the Tungshu tree is also much cultivated.

Number of Soldiers were on their way up the river towards the West, and we found here a Tartar General to whom the Viceroy of Houpeh had given us letters; he was civil and attentive; all along our route we had heard that Sz'chuan was in an unsettled state, and the General confirmed the report; he had come to Wan to make dispositions of Troops, and having done this, was hastening from the rebel proximity; he reported the insurgents to be in possession of many towns between Wan and Ching-tu and the land route to be impassable on that account; he said the people had been so plundered themselves that they had taken to robbery as a means of existence, and that it would be impossible to obtain carriage, as no one would be induced to venture into the disturbed Districts; the Prefect, whom we afterwards visited, told the same story and recommended our going by water to Chung-king, which we were obliged to do; he had copies of the Treaty, which he called that of Prince Kung; it was not seen posted anywhere.

About six miles above Wan the ranges of hills become less rugged, the river being about half a mile wide; further on gold is washed for on the stringly flats; the river is bordered by many precipitous rocks, but they do not rise from the water's edge.

Hulin Native Christians.

At the village of Hulin we found some Native Roman Catholics; they appeared delighted to see that foreigners were travelling about the country without even disguising their dress and with no attempt at concealment; they complained that the Authorities treated them badly, and that not long since they had raised a mob on them, who had burnt and plundered their Chapel; our arrival was made the occasion of a general holiday; we were invited to a feast, and salutes and crackers fired in our honor.

Before reaching the town of Chung-show the river is tortuous, varying in breadth from 200 yards to three-quarters of a mile; in the narrow part the stream is strong, but in the channel is nowhere broken into rapids; about twenty-five miles above Chung are many rocks in the river, some of which in the middle of April are about five feet above water, others just visible, and probably others hidden; later in the season these would all be covered, and the navigation would be difficult without a good pilot; men who know the river well are to be found in all the towns; the crags by the river side and the hills would afford marks by which a pilot would know his situation.

Opium.

Above Wan with wheat, barley, and peas, the poppy and tobacco were everywhere seen; at an Island named from the day on which we passed it, "St. George's" Island, the Island itself and the whole surrounding country to the tops of the highest hills, were covered with it, and from this place to Chung-king, a distance of about seventy-six miles, with the exception of a few patches of wheat and tobacco near the villages, nothing but poppy was grown as far as could be seen on both sides of the river; the crop is over by the end of May, and is immediately followed by sugar cane, Indian corn, and cotton; in the poppy Districts rice was growing only near the villages.

From the entrance to the gorges above Ichang, the scenery is very grand; here the appearance of the country is very fine though not so imposing as below Quaichow; the villages and their inhabitants were, when we saw them, very superior to those lower down the river, though they would present the same wretched appearance after a visit from the rebels; the dress of the people is the same, but they look better off, and the farm houses and others are better built; they stand among shrumps of bamboos and fruit trees, each detached house having its own garden surrounded by a fence; there is a greater appearance of comfort here than in any part of China I have seen, but the universal reservoirs of liquid manure forbid a close inspection.

Fu (chow), Kiang-tan-ho.

At the town of Fu (chow) on the right bank the river Kiang-tan-ho falls in; it is said by the boatmen to be navigable for some distance above its mouth, and to be one of the routes by which traffic is carried on between Canton and the West of Sz'chuan; redoubts of masonry have been built on four high peaks near its mouth.

Chang-show (hien).

Below the town of Chang-show (hien) on the left bank, a small clear river joins the Yangtze; near its mouth are many rocks, reefs, and shoals, but deep water is found near the right bank.

Taiping and Tufeh.

In all the Districts above Chang-show the country people have banded themselves together against the rebels; the rebels in the West all go by the name of "Tu-feh" or local robbers, and are in no way connected with the "Taipings" of Nankin, they are both called "Chang-mao" or long hairs, but the Tu-feh cut off the queue which the Taipings retain in case of falling into the hands of the mandarins.

Limin.

Hochow or Hokiang River.

A narrow gorge leads round a bend of the river to Limin, a walled town on the left bank separated only from Chung-king by the river Hochow or Hokiang; along the whole front of both these towns and in the Hochow river, numbers of both large and small junks were either at anchor or moving about; there was every sign of a great amount of business being carried on.

Chung-king (foo).

Chung-king (foo) is most admirably situated for a trading port, being at the mouth of the Hochow coming from the North of Sz'chuan; about 120 miles farther up the Yangtze the river Fusung falls in also from the North; eighty miles above this the Min (ho), coming from the North, joins at Süchow, the river being connected with Ching-tu (foo), the capital of the Province, by a canal. The Hochow is navigable for large junks as far up as the town of Shün-king, and probably higher when the river rises. Articles of merchandise, such as silk, wax, and hemp, come principally from the Districts near Kiading on the Min, from which place they are shipped; these Districts are now in the hands of the rebels, Kiading being their head-quarters, so that trade with that side of the country is at a stand-still; the great objection to Chung-king as a port open to foreigners is the state of the river between it and Ichang; above Quaichow the navigation is comparatively easy, but eighty miles of dangerous ground would have to be passed above Ichang. From Quaichow to Ping-shan properly constructed river steamers could easily ascend, but as no trade is at any time carried on above Süchow, there would be little inducement to go beyond that town. Chung-king is the Depôt for the whole commerce of the West, and is the largest and most flourishing city in the West, being of greater extent and population than the capital of the Province; none of the buildings have the tumble down appearance so common in many Chinese towns; a stone wall said to have eighteen gates surrounds it; it is built close to the river; opposite the town on the right bank is an extensive shoal of shingle, but good anchorage would be found near the walls and in the Hochow; "Captain Blakiston's observations" place the "Taiping-mun," one of the water gates, in---

Population. It contains, according to the statement of some French missionaries resident here, a population of 200,000, of whom between 2,000 and 3,000 are Christians, and 500 families Mussulmans; in Ching-tu there are said to be 1,000 Mussulman families.

The Toutai of Chingking was not inclined to be civil, and the French Missionaries warned us that the Soldiers intended to murder us; a very sharp letter was sent to the Toutai in which he was warned that the responsibility would rest with him if any Chinese lost their lives which they would most assuredly do if they attempted to molest us; after this he became very civil and we were received at his Yamun with all honor; the Soldiers had to be shown that they could not insult every one with impunity, but we were fortunately not obliged to use our fire-arms.

Besides the three Rivers already alluded to by which merchandise is brought to the Yangtze, several small ones come in from the province of Kweichow, but of these I am unable to give any information.

The following statistics of the trade of Chingking are from the information of a Chinese merchant.

No carriage was procurable at Chung-king, the country between it and Chingtu being full of Rebels, so that we had to proceed by water to Süchow.

Kiangtse (hien.)

The first Town reached above Chung-king is Kiangtse (hien); the current runs about four miles an hour and rapids occur; the River, from passing through such a hilly country as the province of Sz'chuan, is liable to sudden freshes, every thunderstorm in the hills pouring a large body of water into it; it falls nearly as rapidly as it rises; flats of shingle are washed for gold as below Chungking; Coke is used for fuel, and Coal and limestone are dug near the Village of Yochi.

Coke and Coal.

Above Chungking none of the boats use sails, and dispense with the steering oar used for assisting the helm in the rapids; boats with salt and merchandise were continually passing down, and bales of cotton being carried up on rafts formed of bamboos; a number of oil boats were also passing down.

Above Chungking the poppy crop was over, and sugar cane and Indian corn were being planted in its stead, at the same time that rice was taking the place of wheat and barley; buffalces (many of a pink color,) are the only animals used in farming operations.

Hokiang (hien) Zhun-huei River.

At the Town of Hokiang (hien) a small River called Zhun-huei, rising in Kweichow, falls into the Yangtze; in this District the safflower (Hungqua) is extensively cultivated, and a species of hemp is grown both here and at Chungking.

Lu (chow), Fusung River.

The River Fusung joins the Yangtze at Lu (chow) (called Che-li-leou on some maps); this River passes about thirty miles to the East of Chingtu, and, at the time we passed, the country through which it flows was held by the Rebels; it is one of the roads to Chingtu; at Lu, a great number of spars, apparently of fir, were stacked.

Nachi (hien.) Yanlin River.

At the Town of Nachi (hien) the appearance of the farm houses and villages changes for the worse; the people look poor, forming a great contrast to those a short distance below; this District was visited last year by the Rebels, which may account for the wretched appearance of the inhabitants; the River Yanlin here falls in from the South. Below Nachi several reefs and shoals occur in the River, but the Channel appears clear and there is plenty of water; the breadth of the stream opposite Nachi is 660 yards

An-lui-kiow River. Kiang-an (hien.)

The River An-lui-kiow flowing from the South falls into Yangtze at the Town of Kiang-an (hien); the country is hilly, the hills well watered and extensively cultivated with rice; the people were in a great state of alarm about the Rebels; on the hills many new redoubts had been constructed, and men were on outpost duty on the River in boats.

Nanki (hien). Li-chuan-pa. Coal.

From the Town of Nanki (hien) hills can be seen in the interior rising to a great height; a short distance above Li-chuan-pa, a small town, Coal is worked.

Süchow. Min River.

Süchow is a large Town on the left of the Yangtze and Min-Kiang, which here falls in from the North; it is at all seasons navigable for large junks as far as Kiading, a Town about 100 miles from its mouth, and when the water is high, up to Chingtu a canal having been cut from the River to the Town; when the water is low the communication above Kiading is kept up by means of small boats.

The navigation of the Yangtze from Chunking to Süchow would not be difficult for steam vessels; there are rocks in places, but seldom under eight fathoms water in the Channel, and near the sides rarely under three; the average rate of the stream in this part of the River is perhaps five and a half miles an hour.

Süchow (foo.)

Süchow (foo) is a large town at which in quiet times a large amount of trade is probably carried on; a great number of junks were waiting here in the hope that the banks of the Min River might be deserted by the Rebels so as to enable them to proceed to Chingtu or Kiading, which place was held by them; they were said to have detached parties much nearer Süchow, and to be robbing and murdering every one they could lay hands on; headless bodies, with their hands tied behind their backs, floating down the Min at all hours, plainly showed that there was some truth in the stories we have heard on our way up; the gates of the Town were closed, and there were no means of ingress or egress but by a rope over the walls; a strong garrison of braves from Sz'chuan and Yunnan were quartered outside the city, and fighting among themselves; an engagement took place between them during our stay, and the Yunnan party had to be removed by the authorities; on our return they attacked our boats with stones, but the sight of the Rifles, &c, put them to flight. The position of Süchow according to Captain Blakiston is in—

Products.

The products of the neighbouring country are yellow and white silk, insect wax, bees' wax, tobacco, honey, coal (220 cash per picul), a small quantity of iron, which is worked close to the town, and green tea. Syce was worth 1,630 cash per Tael.

No one could be found to accompany us through the Rebel Districts to Chingtu, and we had therefore to ascend the River to Ping-shan in the hope of being able to get round them; the only traffic above Süchow is in Coal which is brought down in boats; above Ping-shan no trade at all goes forward.

Coal.

The country above Süchow is very mountainous and the River decreases in width; its average is about 250 yards; twenty miles above the Town it runs through a District in which Coal is extensively worked, being dug out in galleries high up on the hill sides, and sent down in baskets sliding on stout ropes of bamboo, a full basket drawing up an empty one; these galleries are often at such a height that a half-way stage is necessary; this Coal

District extends for seventeen or eighteen miles along both sides of the River; the Coal appeared to be of a superior quality to any seen below; it was brought out in large and bright lumps; in every place where Coal was seen the rock was sand-stone, and where washed by water was jet black and polished; boats would carry Coal from this District to Hankow in twenty days, to Ichang in ten. Many men here have brown hair; this is not seen lower down the River.

Kin-cha-kiang.

Above Süchow the geographical name of the Yangtze is the "Kin-cha-kiang" or River of gold; it is called by the boatmen merely the Yunnan River; nothing could be learnt about it above Ping-shan, but there are said to be falls at a distance of 100 li above; our boatmen and Captain refused to go further, and would not proceed beyond Süchow until we promised to take them no farther than Ping-shan.

Ping-shan.

Ping-shan, a small walled Town on the left bank, is the farthest point to which we ascended; no Europeans, as far as is known, have ever reached this point before us; the walls have lately been put in a state of repair, and strengthened on the landward side by traverses constructed on the banquette, as the hills close to them completely command them and expose them to an enfilading fire; the Prefect was here at first very civil, and promised all assistance, but said the Rebels were in the neighbourhood and that we had better leave the place; the townspeople closed the gates and fired on us from the walls, but no bullets came anywhere near us, and finding we remained quiet they discontinued; that same night the Rebels attacked the Town; the walls were illuminated, and every man of the attacking party carried a lantern; the fighting did not appear to be very severe, being confined to distant firing and shouting.

Except for purposes of exploration there is nothing to bring a steam-vessel beyond Suchow; the River is navigable as far as Ping-shan, with the exception of the eighty miles between Ichang and Quaichow, and even that may be practicable; above Ping-shan I can give no information about the River, but from the tops of the highest hills near the Town, nothing can be seen but high hills towards the West.

Maoutse.

From this point we were compelled to turn back, no one being willing, for any amount of pay, to venture into a District overrun by Rebels; no boats ascend the River beyond Ping-shan so that we were unable to visit the country of the Maoutse or independent tribes, which is near Ping-shan to the West; a chief of these tribes with some of his followers paid us a visit and were very friendly; we exchanged presents of knives and wine; they are a totally different looking race to the Chinese, their faces being open and honest, which the Chinese forces certainly are not; some had the head clean shaved, others let their hair grow, and one only had a queue; the weather was warm and their dress consisted only of a course white cotton jacket, drawers and grass sandals; their turbans were of blue cotton twisted into a knot above the forehead; they called themselves "Huh-I" or "I-jin" black barbarians or foreigners, and repeatedly said they were not civilised men; they were very curious and inspected everything in the cabins narrowly, but were perfectly well behaved; the Chief spoke a little Chinese, but none of his followers could make themselves understood; we were considered by the people to be in some way connected with these people, and were called by them "White Maoutse;" none of the Maoutse could read or write; they possess horses and cattle in their own country; they said their only crop was Indian corn; the Chief said if we came to his country there would be no difficulty about carriage, but we should have a mountaineous country to cross before reaching it, and there was no possibility of procuring carriage at Ping-shan; he said that travellers would be plundered by the tribes unless under the protection of a Chief; it was impossible to make out the limits of their country, but its western boundary cannot be far from the frontiers of Burmah and Assam.

The country round Ping-shan is hilly and fertile; silk is produced in considerable quantities; Indian corn, rice, sugar-cane, and turmeric are cultivated on the hills, and the cactus grows to a large size; water snakes and eels caught in the rice fields are eaten by the boatmen and villagers.

The boundary of Yunnan is passed just below Ping-shan, though we could not clearly ascertain where; the country on the South bank of the River opposite the Town was said by the Prefect to be in that Province.

Capabilities of the country.

On both sides of the River the whole way from Yochow, and even from Hankow to Ping-shan, the country is destitute of cattle with the exception of a few sheep and goats at Yochow, and goats in a few places; buffaloes and ponies were seen at times, but their number is small, nor does the country appear thickly populated; should an expedition, hostile or otherwise, ever ascend the River, the whole of their supplies would have to be carried with them; a few fowls, eggs, fish and a considerable amount of flour, salt and vegetables would be procurable; the Towns would accommodate a large number of men, but few places are fit for encamping, the ground near the Towns being covered with grave mounds; the hills above Hankow have been before alluded to; the people generally burn charcoal, except in the Coal Districts; firewood is grubbed up about the country and brought in boats to the Towns; there would be difficulty in obtaining it in large quantities.

Volunteers.

The people are, wherever we met them, a quiet inoffensive race, but as the Rebels increase in numbers they find it necessary to combine for their own safety, the Government giving them no aid; in fact whenever the Imperialist troops are in the field against the insurgents, the people are worse off than when left to protect themselves, being plundered by both parties; in the Districts above Chang (show) hien they are keeping the Rebels off and have outposts on the river, look-out stations on the highest hills, and redoubts in the most defensible situations; no artillery larger than a jingall is used in this hilly country, and, it is only necessary to construct the redoubts, so that they may be safe from escalade. If the Chinese Government had the least energy, the Rebels would have no chance to establish themselves in a country where the popular feeling is so strong in favour of law and order, but should the present state of affairs continue much longer, the feeling of the population will probably undergo a change; finding the Government powerless to protect them, they will lose their respect for it, and the habit of carrying arms will make them less likely than formerly to submit to the exactions of the authorities; being by nature industrious and peaceable they are the people of all others likely to make good and loyal subjects to a Government strong enough to ensure them peace and quietness; many of the Rebels have become so either from necessity or compulsion, and would gladly embrace an opportunity of returning to a quiet life, and among them would doubtless be found men who, with officers in whom they could trust, would make first-rate Soldiers.

Rebels (Tu-feh.)

The Rebels in the West have no connexion with the Tai-pings, but have sprung from bands of robbers, doubtless encouraged by the weakness or want of energy of the Government; the Provinces of Sz'chuan and Yunnan have always been in an unsettled state, being infested, like England in the olden times, by numerous bands of robbers: about two years ago four of their leaders by name "Lan-ta-shun," "Li-chwan-tata," "Chang-u-mats," and "Mou-san-chow" collected larger numbers of men than usual, and uniting their forces have since that time set the Government at defiance; at the present time they occupy a large portion of the Province of Sz'chuan, and are said to have burnt the suburbs of the capital, Ching-tu (foo), and to be besieging the city; these bands first became formidable in the 9th year of the Reign of the present Emperor, "Heen-Fung;" on the authority of a Mandarin who commanded our Chinese escort, they are now occupying the following Towns in Sz'chuan; between Wan (hien) and Chingtu:—Ping-chi, She-kung, Chung-kiang, and Shun-king; between Chungking and Chingtu:—Ho (chow), Ting-yuen, mien (chow), Nan-ching, and Si-chung; between Lu (chow) and Chingtu:—Niu-fu-tu, King-yen, and We-yuen; between Süchow and Chingtu:—Kia-ding, Kien-we, Yow-ku-tu, Kioh-kih, Manien-chang, and Utung-kiow; the sons of a Moulvee at Chung-king gave the following as the names of places occupied by them in Sz'chuan; Mé (chow), Sintu, Mien (chow), Kin-shu (hien), Pun-shan (hien), Kien (chow), Kwan (hien), Ho (chow), Ting-yuen, and Sueling (hien); several names in the two lists, corroborate each statement; from a Chinese Map in the possession of the Prefect of Ping-shan many places to the West of any of the above named either had been or were at the time in the hands of the Rebels; after getting all they can out of one Town, they often leave it and move to another.

Towns occupied by Rebels.

Part of the Mussulman population of Yunnan is also in insurrection under the leadership of a Hadji by name "Ma Yussu;" his head quarters are at Ta-lif (foo) in the West of the Province, and on the high road leading from the Burmese frontier to Yunnan, the capital of the Province, and to Chingtu (foo), the capital of Sz'chuan.

Mussulman Rebels.

China, to the South and West, may be said to be out of the hands of the Government; though the Mandarins still govern some Towns and Districts, they are ready to take to flight on the first attack of the Rebels; the Military Commandant of Ping-shan was reported to have done so with his garrison as soon as the Town was attacked, and considered to have acted quite properly; as far as the safety of the Town was concerned he did, no doubt, the best thing possible, for the Rebels would in all probability have been admitted by some of the Soldiers.

Trade is in the West almost at a stand still, and it would seem of little use to open ports up the River for trade with that part of the country, until the Rebels have been put down; Ichang is the only place at present where trade might be carried on with advantage, and the prospect of it might assist in settling the western Provinces; the Rebels there are not the same fanatical savages that the Tai-pings are; they do not destroy for the sake of destroying only, though in attacking a Town they will burn buildings that interfere with their operations; many of these men would undoubtedly be glad of a chance to escape from their present life, and the opening of trade with the foreigners would give them an opportunity of doing so.

A body of the Tai-pings under a leader called "Shih-ta-kai" is said to be in the Province of Kweichow, and this seems to be the most westerly point to which they have penetrated; on our way down the River we found a large Imperialist camp at Yochow, from which the Rebels were said to be 180 li distant; they were also reported to be thirty li from King-kow, a Town on the right bank a short distance above Hankow, but until the floods subside they cannot move much about the country in the vicinity of the River.

Tai-ping Rebels.

The Mandarins as far as we could see threw no obstacles in the way of our expedition: excepting at Chung-king we were everywhere most civilly received; the authorities were curious to know what we were really about, and the Mandarins and Soldiers sent with us, though ostensibly a guard of honour, were more probably for the purpose of reporting on our proceedings, and it is probably well known, long before this, at Pekin that the River has been surveyed and soundings taken as far as Ping-shan; I attribute our failure to penetrate into Thibet to no hostility on the part of the authorities, but to the impossibility of obtaining people to accompany us through a country where they had a very good chance of having their throats cut; the Viceroy of Sz'chuan is the Governor of Thibet, and is said to be well affected towards foreigners; he is a brother of the newly made minister for foreign affairs at Pekin, and resides at Chingtu.

Some time back there was some talk of attempting a route into Western China by Burmah; the Yangtze seems to me to be the preferable route; in every way it is most likely navigable for country boats a long way above Ping-shan, and the conveyance of goods by land across such a hilly country as Yunnan would be difficult and expensive.

Overland route through Burmah.

As we descended we found the River very much risen since we passed up; in the gorges below Quaichow the rapids had almost disappeared; two bad places occurred below Shan-tow-pien, but no others; the stream ran, except in these places, six and seven miles an hour.

Below Shi-show the River banks were much flooded, and it would be difficult, when the River is high, for ships to keep in the Channel, there being nothing to mark the bank; looking towards the Tung-ting lake there was a clear horizon, the view being broken only by trees and half submerged Villages standing out of the water.

I regret being unable to add more to the very slight knowledge possessed of the interior and West of China; whenever the Rebels are put down, and not till then, a great amount of trade ought to be carried on with the west, and our knowledge of this most interesting country will increase; under a good Government the Chinese have the makings of as fine a nation as any under the Sun, but, as far at least as the West is concerned, we must for the present rest satisfied with the little that is known of them.

A charge of a contempt of the lawful authority of any Court or public servant, or of any other offence against a public servant as such, described in Chapter X of the Indian Penal Code, not falling within Section 163 of this Act, shall not be entertained in any Criminal Court, except with the sanction or on the complaint of the Court or public servant concerned, or, if such servant is an inferior ministerial servant, with the sanction or on the complaint of his official superior. Such sanction may be given at any time.

Mode of proceeding in cases mentioned in the three last preceding Sections.

171. When any Court, Civil or Criminal, is of opinion that there is sufficient ground for investigating any charge mentioned in the last three preceding Sections, the Court, after making such preliminary enquiry as may be necessary, may send the case for investigation to any Magistrate having power to try or commit for trial the accused person for the offence charged, and such Magistrate shall thereupon proceed according to law, and the Court shall have power to send the person accused in custody or to take sufficient bail for his appearance before such Magistrate, and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such investigation.

Power of Court of Session in respect of such offences committed before it.

174. When any such commitment is made by order of a Civil Court, the Court shall frame a charge in the manner hereinafter provided, and shall transmit the same with the order of commitment and the record of the case to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising any of the powers of a Magistrate, and such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall bring the case before the Court of Session, together with the witnesses for the prosecution and defence.

CHAPTER XII.

Of Preliminary Enquiry by the Magistrate in Cases triable by the Court of Session.

Magistrate may issue his warrant.

179. When a complaint is made before a Magistrate that any person has committed, or is suspected to have committed any of the offences specified in Column 7 of the Schedule annexed to this Act as triable exclusively by the Court of Session, or which in the opinion of such Magistrate ought to be tried by the Court of Session, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue his warrant to apprehend such person. Provided that in any such case the Magistrate to whom such complaint is made may, if he shall think fit, instead of issuing in the first instance his warrant to apprehend the person so complained against, issue his summons requiring him to appear to answer to such complaint.

May issue a summons instead of a warrant.

Postponement of issue of process.

180. If the Magistrate see cause to distrust the truth of the complaint, he may postpone the issuing of process for causing the attendance of the person complained against, and direct a previous enquiry to be made into the truth of the complaint, either by means of any Officer subordinate to such Magistrate, or of a local Police Officer, or in such other mode as he shall judge most proper, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the complaint. If such enquiry is made by means of some person other than an Officer exercising any of the powers of a Magistrate or a Police Officer, such person shall exercise all the powers vested by this Act in an Officer in charge of a Police Station, except that he shall have no power to make an arrest. Nothing contained in this Section shall prevent the Magistrate from at once dismissing the complaint, if in his judgment there be no sufficient ground for proceeding with it.

Magistrate may direct bail to be taken.

181. It shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate in issuing his warrant for the arrest of any person against whom a complaint has been made, to direct by endorsement on the warrant that, if such person be willing and ready to give bail in a sum to be fixed by the Magistrate for his appearance before the Magistrate to be named in the warrant on a specified day to answer the complaint, the Officer to whom the warrant is directed shall accept such bail, and shall release the person from custody. In the event of bail being given, the Officer shall forward the bail-bond to the Magistrate.

Magistrate may dispense with the personal attendance of the accused.

182. The Magistrate may, if he see sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused person, and permit him to appear by an agent duly authorized to act in his behalf. But it shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate, at any stage of the proceedings, to direct the personal attendance of the accused person.

Proclamation for an absconding party.

183. If any person accused of an offence absconds or conceals himself, so that upon a warrant issued against him he cannot be found, the Magistrate shall, if satisfied that such person absconds or conceals himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, issue a written proclamation, requiring such person to appear to answer the complaint within a fixed period not less than thirty days. The proclamation shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person usually resides, and shall be affixed on some conspicuous part of the ordinary place of abode of such person, or on some conspicuous place of such town or village. A copy of the proclamation shall also be affixed on some conspicuous part of the Court-house of the Magistrate.

Attachment of the property of absconding party.

184. The Magistrate may, at the same time, order the attachment of any moveable or immoveable property belonging to the person absconding or concealing himself. Such order shall not authorize the attachment of any property out of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate by whom it is made, but it shall authorize the attachment of property in the jurisdiction of any Magistrate by whom such order is endorsed.

The attachment under this Section shall, if the property ordered to be attached be land paying revenue to Government, be made through the Collector of the District in which the land is situate, and in all other cases by seizure under the order of the Magistrate or by the appointment of a manager and receiver, or by an order prohibiting the payment of rent to the absent person, as the Magistrate shall deem proper. If the absent person shall not appear within the time specified in the proclamation, the property under attachment shall be declared to be at the disposal of Government, but shall not be sold until the expiration of six Calendar months, unless such property is of a perishable nature, or it shall be considered by the Magistrate that the sale would be for the benefit of the owner.

Restoration of property declared to be forfeited.

185. When any person whose property shall have been declared to be at the disposal of Government under the last preceding Section shall, within two years after the attachment of the property, surrender himself, and shall, upon trial before a competent Court, prove to the satisfaction of such Court that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of evading justice, such property, or if the same shall have been sold, the proceeds thereof, shall be restored to him.

Summons to a witness to attend and give evidence.

186. The Magistrate shall ascertain from the complainant, or otherwise, the names of any persons who may be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case, and who are likely to give evidence for the prosecution, and shall issue his summons to such persons, requiring them to appear at a time and place mentioned in the summons before such Magistrate to testify what they know concerning the complaint made against the accused person.

Form of summons to the witness, and mode of service thereof.

187. Every summons issued by a Magistrate under the last preceding Section, shall be served personally on the witness, or if the witness be not found, may be left for him with some adult male member of his family residing with him.

In what cases warrant in the first instance.

188. If the Magistrate shall see reason to believe that such witness will not attend to give evidence without being compelled to do so, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate, instead of issuing a summons, to issue his warrant in the first instance.

If warrant cannot be served.

189. If the warrant cannot be served, and the Magistrate is satisfied that the witness absconds or conceals himself for the purpose of avoiding the service thereof, the Magistrate may issue a proclamation, requiring the attendance of such witness to give evidence at a time and place to be named therein, to be affixed on some conspicuous part of his ordinary place of abode, and if such witness shall not attend at the time and place named in such proclamation, the Magistrate may order the attachment of any moveable property belonging to such witness to such amount as he shall deem reasonable, not being in excess of the amount of costs of attachment and of any fine to which such witness may be liable under the provisions of the following Section. Such order shall not authorize the attachment of any property out of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate by whom it is made, but it shall authorize the attachment of property in the jurisdiction of any Magistrate by whom such order is endorsed.

If on attachment witness appear and satisfy Magistrate, his property to be released from attachment.

190. If the witness shall appear and satisfy the Magistrate that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, and that he had not notice of the proclamation in time to attend at the time and place named therein, the Magistrate shall direct that the property be released from attachment, and shall make such order in regard to the costs of the attachment as he shall deem fit. If such witness shall not appear, or appearing, shall fail to satisfy the Magistrate that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to order the property attached, or any part thereof, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying all costs incurred in consequence of such attachment, together with the amount of any fine which the Magistrate may impose upon such witness under the provisions of Section 172 of the Indian Penal Code. If the witness shall pay to the Magistrate the costs and fine as aforesaid, the Magistrate shall order the property to be released from attachment.

If he do not appear or satisfy Magistrate, property to be sold.

If he do not obey the summons, then warrant.

191. If any person summoned to give evidence, shall neglect or refuse to appear at the time and place appointed by the summons, and no just excuse shall be offered for such neglect or refusal, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate, upon proof of the summons having been duly served, to issue a warrant, under his hand and seal, to bring such person before him to testify as aforesaid.

Refusing to answer, may be committed to custody.

192. If any person summoned or brought before a Magistrate, shall refuse to answer such questions as shall be put to him, without offering any just excuse for such refusal, the Magistrate may, by warrant, under his hand and seal, commit the person refusing, to custody, for any term not exceeding seven days, unless he shall, in the meantime, consent to be examined and to answer, after which, in the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of Section 168 of this Act.

Examination of the complainant and witnesses for the prosecution.

193. The Magistrate shall take the evidence of the complainant, and of such persons as are stated to have any knowledge of the facts which form the subject matter of the accusation and the attendant circumstances.

To be in the presence of the accused who may cross-examine.

194. The complainant and the witnesses for the prosecution shall be examined in the presence of the accused person, or of his Agent when his personal attendance is dispensed with and he appears by Agent. The accused or his Agent shall be permitted to cross-examine the complainant and his witnesses.

195. The evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, by or in the presence and hearing and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Magistrate, and shall be signed by the Magistrate. When the evidence of a witness is given in English, the Magistrate may take it down in that language with his own hand, and an authenticated translation of the same in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, shall form part of the record. In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate, he shall be bound, as the examination of each witness proceeds, to make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall be annexed to the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so.

Mode and language in which the evidence is to be recorded.

196. It shall be competent to the local Government to direct that in any District or part of a District to which this Act shall extend, or shall hereafter be extended, under the provisions of Section 445, the evidence of witnesses shall be taken down by the Magistrate with his own hand in the Vernacular language of the Magistrate, unless the Magistrate be prevented by any sufficient reason from taking down the evidence of any witness, in which case he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court. The evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Magistrate, and form part of the record. Provided that, if the Vernacular language of the Magistrate be not English or the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, the Magistrate may be directed by the local Government to take down the evidence in the English language or in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, instead of his own Vernacular.

Local Government may direct the evidence to be recorded in the vernacular language of the Magistrate.

Proviso.

197. If any question shall arise as to what is the language in ordinary use in any District in which a Court is held, that question shall, for the purposes of this Act, be determined by the Local Government.

Local Government to decide what is the language in ordinary use in any District.

198. The evidence shall not ordinarily be taken down in the form of question and answer, but in the form of a narrative. It shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate to take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, if there shall appear any special reason for so doing, or any person who is a prosecutor, or a person accused, or his Counsel or Agent, shall require it. When the evidence is completed, it shall be read over to the witness in the presence of the person accused if in attendance, or of his Agent when his personal attendance is dispensed with and he appears by Agent, and shall, if necessary, be corrected. If the witness shall deny the correctness of any part of the evidence when the same is read over to him, the Magistrate may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he may think necessary. If the evidence be taken down in a different language from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the witness may require his evidence as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given, or in a language which he understands.

How the evidence is to be recorded.

199. A memorandum to be signed by the Magistrate shall be attached to the evidence of each witness, and shall state that the evidence was read over to the witness in a language which he understood (naming the language), and if the fact is so, that the witness acknowledged such evidence to be correct. When the evidence is not taken down by the Magistrate with his own hand, the memorandum shall further state that the evidence was taken down in the presence and hearing of the Magistrate, and under his personal direction and superintendence.

Memorandum to be attached to the evidence.

200. If the evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him, in all cases where the accused is present in person. If the accused appears by Agent, and the evidence is given in a language other than the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, it shall be interpreted to such Agent in that language.

In what cases evidence to be interpreted to the accused or his Agent.

Examination of defendant.

203. No influence, by means of any promise or threat or otherwise, shall be used to the accused person to induce him to disclose or withhold any matter within his knowledge; but if the accused person shall, of his own accord, propose to confess the commission by him of the offence of which he is accused, the Magistrate shall require him to give an account of the facts and circumstances in detail, and shall examine him thereupon in the same manner as if he were a witness.

No influence to be used to induce disclosures.

Accused person not to be sworn.

205. The examination of the accused person, including every question put to him and every answer given by him, shall be recorded in full, and shall be shown or read to him, and he shall be at liberty to explain or add to his answers; and when the whole is made conformable to what he declares is the truth, the examination shall be attested by the signature of the Magistrate, who shall certify under his own hand that it was taken in his presence and in his hearing, and contains accurately the whole of the statement made by the accused person.

Any person attending may be detained for any offence committed by him.

206. Any person attending the Court of the Magistrate, although not upon an arrest or summons on a charge made, may be detained by the Magistrate for the purpose of examination, for any offence which from the evidence he may appear to have committed, and may be proceeded against as though he had been arrested or summoned on a charge made.

Discretionary with the Magistrate to take evidence for the defence.

207. It shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate to summon any witness who may be offered in behalf of the accused person to answer or disprove the evidence against him.

Witnesses for the defence.

208. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 of this Act shall be applicable to witnesses named in support of the defence.

209. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, recording his reason for so doing, to tender a pardon to any one or more of the persons supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in or privy to any offence specified in Column 7 of the Schedule annexed to this Act as triable by the Court of Session, on condition of his or their making a full, true, and fair disclosure of the whole of the circumstances within his or their knowledge relative to the crime committed, and every other person concerned in the perpetration thereof. If any person shall accept a tender of pardon under this Section, he shall be examined as a witness in the case under the rules applicable to the examination of witnesses. Such person, if not on bail, may, if the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall think proper, be detained in custody pending the termination of the trial.

When Sudder Court or Court of Session may direct a tender of pardon.

210. It shall be competent to a Court of Session at the time of trial, and also to the Sudder Court as a Court of reference, in cases tried with the aid of Assessors, to instruct the Magistrate in like manner to tender a pardon to one or more persons supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in or privy to any such offence, with the view of obtaining his or their evidence on the trial.

When Sudder Court or Court of Session may direct the commitment of a person to whom a pardon may have been tendered.

211. If it shall appear to a Court of Session at the time of trial, or to the Sudder Court as a Court of reference, that any person who shall have accepted an offer of pardon, has not conformed to the conditions under which the pardon was tendered, either by wilfully concealing any thing essential, or by giving false evidence or information, it shall be competent to such Court to direct the commitment of such person for trial for the offence in respect of which the pardon was tendered.

Bail not to be taken for certain offences.

When may be taken.

212. When any person shall appear or be brought before a Magistrate accused of any offence entered as not bailable in Column 5 of the Schedule annexed to this Act, such person shall not be admitted to bail, if there appear reasonable grounds for believing that he has been guilty of the crime imputed to him; but if the evidence given in support of the accusation shall, in the opinion of the Magistrate, not be such as to raise a strong presumption of the guilt of the accused person and to require his committal, or such evidence shall be adduced on behalf of the accused person as shall, in the opinion of the Magistrate, weaken the presumption of his guilt, but there shall appear to the Magistrate in either of such cases to be sufficient ground for further enquiry into his guilt, the accused person shall be admitted to bail pending such enquiry.

When bail shall be taken.

213. When any person shall appear or be brought before a Magistrate accused of any of the offences specified in Column 5 of the Schedule annexed to this Act, as bailable, he shall be admitted to bail.

Recognizance of accused and sureties.

214. When a Magistrate shall admit to bail any person accused or suspected of any offence, a recognizance in such sum of money as the Magistrate may think sufficient shall be entered into by the person so accused and one or more sureties, conditioned that such person shall attend during the preliminary enquiry, and if required, shall appear when called upon at the Court of Session to answer the charge.

Insufficient bail.

215. If through mistake or fraud insufficient bail has been taken, or if the sureties become afterwards insufficient, the accused may be ordered by the Magistrate to find sufficient sureties, and in default, may be committed to prison.

Bail may be taken at any time before conviction.

216. If the accused person cannot find sureties when called upon, he shall be admitted to bail upon finding the same at any time afterwards before conviction.

Discharge on bail.

217. After the recognizances shall have been duly entered into, the Magistrate, in case the accused person shall have appeared voluntarily, or shall be in the custody of some Officer, shall thereupon discharge him; and in case he shall be in some prison or other place of confinement, shall issue a warrant of discharge to the jailor or other person having him in his custody, and such jailor or other person shall thereupon liberate him.

Discharge of sureties.

218. The sureties for an accused person may, at any time, apply to the Magistrate to be discharged from their engagements. On such an application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his warrant, directing that such person be brought before him. On the appearance of such person pursuant to the warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate shall direct the recognizances of the sureties to be discharged, and shall call upon such person to find other sureties, and in default, may order him to be committed to prison.

219. Whenever by reason of default of appearance of the person executing the personal recognizance, the Magistrate shall be of opinion that proceedings should be had to compel payment of the penalty mentioned in the recognizance, he shall proceed to enforce the penalty by the attachment and sale of the moveable property belonging to such person, which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District.

Proceedings to compel payment of penalty by accused.

220. Whenever by reason of default of appearance by the person bailed, the Magistrate shall be of opinion that proceedings should be had to compel payment of the penalty mentioned in the recognizance of the surety or sureties, he shall give notice to the surety or sureties to pay the same, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and, if no sufficient cause be shown, the Magistrate shall proceed to recover the penalty from such surety or sureties by the attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to such surety or sureties which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and if the penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, such surety or sureties shall be liable to confinement, by order of the Magistrate, in the Civil jail, during a period not exceeding six months.

Proceedings to compel payment of penalty to sureties.

221. The powers given by the last two preceding Sections may be exercised by every Criminal Court in every case in which a personal recognizance or bail has been given for the appearance of a party or witness, if default is made by the non-appearance of such party or witness before such Court according to the conditions of such recognizance or bail.

In what cases the powers given by the last two Sections may be exercised.

222. Every warrant for the commitment of a person to custody shall be directed to some jailor, or other Officer or person having authority to receive and keep prisoners, and shall be in the form (C) given in the Appendix, or to the like effect.

Warrant of commitment how to be directed, &c.

223. The warrant of commitment shall be lodged with the jailor, if he be in the jail; and if he be not in the jail, with his deputy. If the jailor has no deputy, the warrant may be lodged with any Officer of the jail then being in the jail.

With whom to be lodged.

224. If from the absence of a witness or from any other reasonable cause, it shall become necessary or advisable to defer the examination, or further examination, of witnesses, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate by a written order, from time to time, to adjourn the enquiry, and to remand the accused person for such time as shall be deemed reasonable, not exceeding fifteen days; provided that, instead of detaining the accused person in custody during the period for which he shall be so remanded, the Magistrate may discharge him, upon his entering into a recognizance, with or without a surety or sureties, at the discretion of such Magistrate, conditioned for his appearance before the Magistrate at the time and place appointed for the continuance of such examination.

When Magistrate may adjourn the enquiry.

225. When a Magistrate finds that there are not sufficient grounds for committing the accused person to take his trial before the Court of Session or for remanding him, he shall discharge him, unless it shall appear to the Magistrate that such person should be put on his trial before himself, in which case he shall proceed under Chapter XIV of this Act.

When accused person to be discharged.

226. When evidence has been given before a Magistrate which appears to be sufficient for the conviction of the accused person of an offence which is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, or which, in the oipnion of the Magistrate, is one that ought to be tried by the Court of Session, the accused person shall be sent for trial by the Magistrate before the Court of Session. If the Magistrate is a Justice of the Peace and the accused person is a European British subject, he shall be sent for trial before the Supreme Court of Judicature.

When defendant to be committed for trial.

227. As soon as the charge on which the accused person is to be tried has been prepared as hereinafter directed, it shall be read to him, and a copy or translation of it shall be furnished to him, if he require it.

Copy of charge to be furnished to accused person.

The accused person shall be required at once to give in orally or in writing, a list of witnesses whom he may wish to be summoned to give evidence on his trial before the Court of Session or Supreme Court. It shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate to allow the accused person to give in any further list of witnesses at a subsequent time. The Magistrate shall receive the list, and summon the witnesses to appear before the Court before which the accused person is to be tried. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192, so far as they relate to the attendance of witnesses, shall be applicable to witnesses named by the accused in the list above mentioned.

Witnesses, for the defence on the trial.

228. If the Magistrate shall be of opinion that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay or of defeating the ends of justice, he may require the accused person to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that such witness is material, and if the Magistrate be not so satisfied, he shall not be bound to summon the witness, unless such a sum shall be deposited with the Magistrate as he shall consider necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness.

Magistrate may refuse to summon unnecessary witness, unless a deposit be made to defray the expenses of such witness.

229. When a commitment is made to the Court of Sessions, the record of the Magistrate shall be forwarded to such Court, together with any weapon or other article of property connected with the case. When a commitment is made to the Supreme Court of Judicature, such record and such weapon or other article shall be forwarded to the Clerk of the Crown, and if any part of such record shall not be in the English language, a translation thereof in the English language shall be forwarded therewith.

Record to be forwarded to the Superior Court.

Copies of depositions to be furnished to accused.

230. When the preliminary enquiry is concluded, the accused person shall, if he demands them at a reasonable time before the trial, be furnished with copies of the depositions, which shall be made at his expense.

When commitment is made, Magistrate to give notice to Government Pleader, &c.

231. When the accused person is committed to take his trial before the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall issue an order to the Government Pleader or other Officer appointed by the Government to conduct prosecutions before the Court of Session, notifying such commitment, and stating the offence in the same form as the charge. Nothing in this Section shall preclude the Magistrate, if he shall think fit, from appointing a person other than such Government Pleader or Officer to conduct the prosecution.

Recognizances of prosecutors and witnesses.

232. Prosecutors and witnesses for the prosecution, whose attendance may be necessary before the Court of Session, shall execute before the Magistrate recognizances in the Form (E) given in the Appendix or to the like effect to be in attendance when called upon at the Court of Session, to prosecute or to give evidence as the case may be. If any prosecutor or witness shall refuse to attend before the Court of Session or to execute the recognizance above directed, it shall be competent to the Magistrate to detain such prosecutor or witness in custody, until he shall execute such recognizance, or until the time when his attendance at the Court of Session is required, when the Magistrate shall forward such prosecutor or witness under custody to the Court of Session.

CHAPTER XIII.

Of the Charge.

What the charge is to contain.

233. When the Magistrate has determined to send the accused person before the Court of Session for trial, he shall make a written instrument under his hand and seal, declaring with what offence the accused person is charged, and shall direct the accused person to be tried by such Court on such charge. A copy of this instrument shall be forwarded with the record of the preliminary enquiry to the Court of Session before which the accused person is to be tried, and a copy shall also be sent to the Public Prosecutor or to the Officer appointed to conduct the prosecution.

How the offence is to be described.

Provided that in any such case the Magistrate, to whom such complaint shall be made, may for any sufficient reason, instead of issuing his warrant in the first instance, issue his summons, requiring the person complained against to appear to answer to such complaint.

Summons instead of warrant.

Issue of process.

149. The provisions of Chapter XII relating to the issuing of process for causing the attendance of the accused person, the taking of bail, the summoning and enforcing the attendance of witnesses, the examination of parties and witnesses, the mode of recording evidence, correction, attestation, and interpretation thereof, and the adjournment of a case, shall be applicable to cases tried under this Chapter. On completing the examination of a witness under this Section, the Magistrate, in addition to the memorandum required by Chapter XII, shall record such remarks as he may think material respecting the demeanor of any witness while under examination.

Charge.

250. When the evidence of the complainant and of the witnesses for the prosecution, and such examination of the accused person as the Magistrate shall consider necessary, have been taken, the Magistrate, if he find that no offence has been proved against the accused person, shall discharge him. If the Magistrate find that an offence is apparently proved against the accused person which falls within the definition in a certain Section of the Indian Penal Code, or within one or other of the definitions in several Sections of the said Code, he shall prepare in writing a charge against the accused person in the manner prescribed in Chapter XIII of this Act, all the provisions of which shall be applicable to charges prepared under this Section. In charges prepared under this Section the words "within my cognizance" shall be substituted for the words "within the cognizance of the Court of Session" at the end of the charge, and the words "by the said Court" omitted in the order.

In any trial before a Magistrate, in which it may appear at any stage of the proceedings that from any cause the case is one which the Magistrate is not competent to try, or which, in the opinion of such Magistrate, ought to be tried by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall stop further proceedings under this Chapter, and shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

CHAPTER XV.

Of Cases triable by the Magistrate in which a Summons on Complaint shall ordinarily issue.

Summons shall issue.

257. Whenever a complaint is made before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, that any person has committed or is suspected to have committed any offence triable by such Magistrate and punishable under the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue his summons directed to such person, stating shortly the matter of such complaint, and requiring him to appear at a certain time and place before such Magistrate to answer to the complaint. Provided that, if the Magistrate shall be satisfied or have reason to believe that the accused person is about to abscond, he may, instead of issuing a summons, issue his warrant in the first instance for the arrest of such accused person.

When warrant may issue.

Defendant may be admitted to bail or be at large upon personal recognizance.

258. If, upon the day appointed, the accused person shall appear voluntarily in obedience to the summons in that behalf served upon him, or shall be brought before the Magistrate by virtue of a warrant, it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate to admit the accused person to bail, or allow him to be at large upon his personal recognizance, as the Magistrate may direct. If the accused person cannot give bail, when required to do so, he shall be committed to custody.

Non-appearance of complainant.

259. If upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused person or any day subsequent thereto on which the case may be called on, the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint; unless for some reason he shall think proper to adjourn the hearing of the same to some other day, upon such terms as he shall think fit.

If summons be not obeyed, warrant.

260. If the person served with a summons shall not appear before the Magistrate at the time mentioned in such summons, and the Magistrate shall be satisfied that such summons was duly served in what shall be deemed by the Magistrate to be a reasonable time before the time therein appointed for appearing to the same, or if it shall appear to the Magistrate that after due diligence the summons could not be served according to the provisions of this Act, the Magistrate may issue his warrant to apprehend the accused person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of accused.

261. The Magistrate may, if he sees sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person complained against, and permit him to appear by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf. Provided that it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate at any stage of the proceedings to direct the personal attendance of such person. When the personal attendance of the accused person during the trial has been dispensed with, the sentence of the Magistrate, if the sentence be for fine only, may be pronounced in the presence of the Agent if the accused person has been permitted to appear by Agent, or the accused person may be required to attend to hear such sentence.

Summons to witness to attend and give evidence.

262. If it appear to the Magistrate that any person is likely to give material evidence on behalf of the complainant or the accused person, and that such person will not voluntarily appear for the purpose of being examined as a witness at the time and place appointed for the hearing of such complaint, the Magistrate shall issue his summons to such person under his signature and seal, requiring him to appear at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to testify what he knows concerning the matter of the complaint.

Magistrate may summon necessary evidence.

263. It shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate, at any stage of the trial, to summon and examine any witness whose evidence he may consider essential to the just decision of the case. The Magistrate may also examine as a witness any person in attendance, although not summoned as a witness.

Application of previous rules.

264. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 of this Act, shall be applicable to witnesses summoned according to the provisions of Sections 262 and 263.

Admission by accused of truth of complaint.

265. On the appearance of both parties on the day fixed for the trial, the substance of the complaint shall be stated to the accused person, and he shall be asked if he has any cause to show why he should not be convicted. If the accused person admit the truth of the complaint, and show no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate may convict him accordingly.

Proceeding when no such admission is made.

266. If the accused person do not admit the truth of the complaint, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant and such witnesses as he may produce in support of his complaint, and also to hear the accused person and such witnesses as he shall produce in his defence.

How the evidence is to be recorded.

267. The Magistrate shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness, as the examination of the witness proceeds. The memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such memorandum shall form part of the record. The Magistrate shall record such remarks as he shall think material respecting the demeanor of any witness whilst under examination.

Manner of recording evidence in certain cases.

268. In any case in which the Magistrate shall consider it necessary, it shall be competent to him, instead of taking down merely the substance of the evidence of any witness, to take down the evidence of the witness in the manner provided in Section 195 or in the manner provided by Section 196 if within the jurisdiction of such Magistrate the local Government shall have made an order as provided in that Section. In any such case the provisions of Sections 199 and 200 shall be applicable to the evidence so taken.

Adjournment.

269. Before or during the hearing of any complaint, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to adjourn the hearing of the same to a day, to be then appointed and stated in the presence and hearing of the party or parties; and if on the day to which such hearing or such further hearing shall have been so adjourned, the accused person shall not appear, the Magistrate may issue his warrant for the arrest of such person, and if the complainant shall not appear, the Magistrate may dismiss the complaint.

Magistrate may award amends in cases of frivolous and vexatious complaints.

270. In any case where the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint as frivolous and vexatious, it shall be lawful for him, in his discretion, by his order of dismissal, to award that the complainant shall pay to the accused person such amends, not exceeding fifty Rupees, as to such Magistrate shall seem just and reasonable. The sum so awarded shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the moveable property, belonging to the complainant, which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and in default of such distress, by imprisonment, in the Civil jail, for any time not exceeding thirty days, unless such amends shall be sooner paid.

Magistrate may permit withdrawal of the complaint.

271. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this Chapter, shall satisfy the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to draw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit such complainant to withdraw such complaint. A complaint withdrawn under this Section shall not again be entertained.

Acquittal or conviction.

272. If the Magistrate, in any case tried under this Chapter, shall find the accused person not guilty, he shall record a judgment of acquittal. If the accused person is convicted, the Magistrate shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

CHAPTER XVI.

Of Enquiries and Trials before the Subordinate Magistrates.

Reference of cases to Subordinate Magistrate.

273. Criminal cases brought before the Magistrate of the District or a Magistrate in charge of a division of a District, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer, may be referred by such Magistrate to any Magistrate subordinate to him. The reference shall be for enquiry or for trial if the offence be triable by such Subordinate Magistrate, or with a view to commitment to the Court of Session if such Magistrate is competent to commit to the Court of Session, or with a view to commitment to the Supreme Court of Judicature if such Subordinate Magistrate is competent to commit to such Supreme Court.

Proviso.

Provided that nothing in this Section shall prevent any Subordinate Magistrate from entertaining, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer (in cases in which the Subordinate Magistrate is authorized to receive such report), any case that such Magistrate is, by any law for the time being in force, competent to entertain.

Cases how to be referred.

274. When a criminal case is referred under this Chapter to a Subordinate Magistrate, the order of reference, if the case has been brought forward on the report of a Police Officer, shall be recorded on such report, and all processes issued for causing the attendance of the accused person or the witnesses, shall direct them to attend before such Court.

Subordinate Magistrates to follow the same rules of procedure as the Magistrate.

275. In the enquiry into or trial of cases under this Chapter, the Subordinate Magistrates shall be guided by the rules prescribed for the guidance of the Magistrate of the District in similar cases; and Police Officers and others shall be bound to obey all orders and processes issued in such cases in like manner as if such orders or processes had been issued by the Magistrate of the District.

How the Subordinate Magistrate is to proceed in cases beyond his jurisdiction.

276. If, in the course of a trial before a Subordinate Magistrate, the evidence shall appear to him to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence which such Magistrate is not competent to try or for which he is not competent to commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session, he shall stay proceedings and shall submit the case to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate. The Magistrate to whom the case is submitted shall either try the case himself or refer it to any Officer subordinate to him having jurisdiction, or he may commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session. In any such case, such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall examine the parties and witnesses, and shall proceed in all respects as if no proceedings had been held in any other Court.

In what cases Subordinate Magistrate shall not pass sentence, but may refer case to the Magistrate.

277. If in any case tried by a Subordinate Magistrate having jurisdiction in which the accused person is found guilty, such Magistrate shall consider the offence established against the accused person to call for a more severe punishment than he is competent to adjudge, he shall record the finding and submit his proceedings to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, and such Magistrate shall pass such sentence or order in the case as he may deem proper and as shall be according to law.

How the Magistrate is to proceed in such cases.

In any such case the Magistrate to whom the proceedings are submitted, may examine the parties, and recall and examine any witness who shall already have given evidence in the case, and he may call for or take any further evidence.

Subordinate Magistrate, if empowered to do so, may, instead of convicting the accused, commit him for trial before the Court of Session.

278. Nothing in the last preceding Section shall be held to prevent the Subordinate Magistrate in any such case as is therein described, if such Magistrate is empowered to hold the preliminary enquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session and to commit persons to take their trial before such Court, from committing the accused person for trial before the Court of Session instead of finding him guilty.

Mode of procedure in such cases.

If the Subordinate Magistrate shall be of opinion that the accused person should be committed for trial before the Court of Session, he shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

CHAPTER XVII.

Place where Preliminary Investigations and Trials held, an Open Court.

Place where investigation made, an open Court.

279. The place in which the Court of a Magistrate is held for the trial of any complaint or for the purpose of conducting any preliminary investigation into any case triable by a Court of Session or Supreme Court of Judicature, or any Superior Court, shall be deemed an open and public Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them; but it shall be lawful for any such Court, if it shall think fit, to order that during the investigation into any particular case triable by a Court of Session or by a Supreme Court of Judicature, no person shall have access to or be or remain in such room or building without the consent or permission of the Court.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Of Recognizance and Security to keep the Peace.

Personal recognizance to keep the peace in cases of conviction.

280. Whenever a person charged with rioting, assault, or other breach of the peace, or with abetting the same, or with assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, shall be convicted of such charge before any Court of Session or the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, and the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the accused person is convicted, or the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the final sentence or order in the case shall be passed, shall be of opinion that it is just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace, from the person so convicted, it shall be lawful to such Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid so convicting the accused person, or so passing the final sentence or order as aforesaid, in addition, to direct that the person so convicted be required to execute a formal engagement, in a sum proportionate to his condition in life and the circumstances of the case, for keeping the peace during such period as it may appear proper to fix in each instance, not exceeding one year if the sentence or order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the sentence or final order be passed by a Court of Session. When any accused person shall be convicted of any offence specified in this Section by an Officer not exercising the powers of a Magistrate, such Officer, if he consider it just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace from the person so convicted, shall report the case to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate to whom such Officer may be subordinate, who shall deal with the case as if the conviction had been before himself.

Security to keep the peace.

281. In cases in which it may appear necessary to require security for keeping the peace, in addition to the personal recognizance of the party so convicted, it shall also be lawful to the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, empowered to require a penal recognizance under the last preceding Section, to require security in addition thereto and to fix the amount of the security-bond to be executed by the surety or sureties; with a provision that, if the same be not given, the party required to find the security shall be kept in custody for any time not exceeding one year if the order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the order be passed by the Sudder Court or by a Court of Session.

Summons to any person to show cause why he should not enter into a bond to keep the peace.

282. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, whenever he shall receive credible information that any person, whether a European British subject or not, is likely to commit a breach of the peace, or to do any act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, to summon such person to attend at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to show cause why he should not be required to enter into a bond to keep the peace with or without sureties as such Magistrate shall think fit.

Form of summons.

283. The summons shall set forth the substance of the information, the amount of the bond and the term for which it is to be in force, and if security is called for, the number of sureties required, and the amount in which they are to be bound respectively. Such summons shall be served in the manner provided by this Act for the service of a summons on an accused person.

Penalty.

284. The penalty of such bond, which shall be in the Form (D) given in the Appendix or to the like effect, shall be fixed with a due regard to the circumstances of the case and the means of the party, and the amount in which the sureties shall be bound shall not exceed the said penalty.

Warrant of arrest.

285. If the person summoned shall not attend on the day appointed, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, if satisfied that the summons has been duly served, may issue a warrant for his arrest. Provided that, whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, upon the report of a Police Officer or upon other credible information, the substance of which report or information shall be recorded, that there is just reason to fear the commission of a breach of the peace, which may probably be prevented by the immediate arrest of any person, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate at any time to issue a warrant for the arrest of such person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of party informed against.

286. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he see sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person informed against and permit him to appear and enter into the required security, or show cause against such requisition by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf.

Discharge of party informed against.

287. If on the appearance of the person, or of his Agent if he is permitted to appear by Agent, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall not be satisfied that there is occasion to bind such person to keep the peace, he shall direct his discharge.

Consequence of not complying with order of Magistrate to enter into a bond.

288. If the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be satisfied that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to take a bond from such person with or without security, he shall make an order accordingly; and if the person shall fail to comply with the order, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to commit him to jail.

Limit for confinement.

289. The period for which the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may bind a person to keep the peace with or without security, shall not exceed one year. When a person shall be committed to jail under the last preceding Section, he shall not be detained by authority of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid beyond the term of one year, and shall be released whenever he shall comply with the order within that term.

290. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to bind a person beyond the term of one year, he may, before the expiration of the first year, record his opinion to that effect and the grounds thereof, and may refer the case for the orders of the Court of Sessions, and such Court, after examining the proceedings of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid and making such further enquiry as such Court may think necessary, may, if it shall see cause, authorize the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to extend the term for a further period not exceeding one year, and if the party shall fail to give a bond, with security if required, for his keeping the peace for such further period as the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct under the orders of the Court of Session, he may be kept in confinement for such further period or until he shall give such bond within that period.

Extension of period of confinement.

291. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he shall see sufficient cause, discharge any recognizance and surety for keeping the peace taken under the preceding Sections, and may order the release of the person confined for default in entering into such recognizance or giving such security.

Discharge of recognizances.

292. A surety for the personal appearance of another person may at any time apply to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to be relieved from his engagement as surety. On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his summons or warrant in order that the person for whom such surety is bound, may appear or be brought before him. On the appearance of the person to such warrant or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct the engagement of the surety to be cancelled and shall call upon such person to give fresh security, and in default thereof shall commit him to custody.

Discharge of sureties.

293. 347. The same Jury, if not objected to, may try, or the same Assessors may aid in the trial of, as many accused persons successively as to the Court shall seem expedient.

Whenever in the opinion of the Court it may be proper and convenient that the Jury or Assessors should have a view of the place in which the offence charged is said to have been committed, or of any other place in which any other transaction material to the enquiry in the trial took place, an order shall be made to that effect, and the Jury or Assessors shall be conducted in a body under the care of an Officer of the Court to the place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court, and it shall be the duty of the Officer not to suffer any other person to speak to or hold any communication with any of the Jury or Assessors, and they shall, when the view is finished, be immediately conducted back into Court.

The Court shall also at the same time in like manner cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons shall have been summoned for Jury trials at that Session. The names of the persons to be summoned shall be drawn by lot, excluding those who have served within six months, unless the number cannot be made up without them. From the whole number of persons returned, the Jurors who are to constitute the Jury shall be taken by lot in the manner prescribed in Section 342, until a Jury, containing the proper number of the races mentioned in Section 323, or a number approaching as nearly thereto as possible, has been obtained. The Jurors shall be liable to the same objections as any other Jurors. If a Jury containing the requisite number of the races mentioned in Section 323 be not obtained, the accused person may elect to be tried by the Judge with the aid of Assessors; otherwise he shall be tried by the Jury obtained by the means aforesaid.

If, prior to finding, any of the Jury be unable to proceed with the trial.

In any trial by Jury if the accused person is found guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is specified in that behalf in Section 328 of the Act, or if the accused be found not guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is therein in that behalf specified, the Jury shall be discharged, and in any such case as aforesaid there shall be a new trial before a Jury consisting entirely of other Jurors, and the accused person may be remanded or held to bail for such new trial. If, on any new trial by Jury, the accused shall not be found guilty by a majority consisting of such a number as aforesaid, he shall be acquitted.

When and how long Jury may retire for finding.

352. In any case in which a Jury shall be prepared to deliver their finding, the Judge shall ask the Jury whether they are unanimous, and if the foreman or one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Judge may require such Jury to retire for further consideration. If, after such a period as the Judge shall consider reasonable, the foreman or any one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Jury may deliver their verdict.

If either of the Assessors be unable to proceed with trial.

353. If, in the course of a trial with the aid of Assessors, at any time prior to the finding, any Assessor shall from any sufficient cause be prevented from attending through the trial, the trial shall proceed with the aid of the other Assessor or Assessors. Criminal jurisdiction and powers of punishment of Subordinate Judges and Principal Sudder Ameens.

355. The Subordinate Judges and Principal Sudder Ameens in the Presidency of Fort Saint George shall continue to exercise under this Act, subject to the provisions of the Indian Penal Code, the Criminal jurisdiction which they are competent to exercise under any law for the time being in force, and shall have the same powers of punishment as are given by this Act to an Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate.

What cases Subordinate Magistrates may commit and what cases they may refer to Magistrate.

356. Subordinate Magistrates of the first and second class in the Presidency of Fort St. George shall commit to the Court of Session any persons charged with offences triable exclusively by that Court, or shall, under such orders as the Sudder Court shall from time to time issue, either commit to the subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens the cases of persons accused of offences triable by such subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens, or refer such cases for the orders of the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate. If the case be referred to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer as aforesaid, such Magistrate or other Officer shall examine the parties and witnesses, and shall proceed in all respects as if no proceedings had been held in any other Court.

Subordinate Magistrate after trial may refer to Magistrate of the District.

357. If in any case tried by a subordinate Magistrate of the first or second class in the Presidency of Fort Saint George, in which the accused person is found guilty, such Magistrate shall consider the offence established against the accused person to call for a more severe punishment than such Magistrate is competent to adjudge, he shall record the finding and submit his proceedings to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, and the Magistrate of the District or other Officer as aforesaid shall pass such sentence or order in the case as he may deem proper and as shall be according to law. In any such case, the Magistrate or other Officer to whom the proceedings are submitted may examine the parties, and recall and examine any witness who shall already have given evidence in the case, and he may call for or take any further evidence.

Cases committed for trial before Subordinate Judges and Principal Sudder Ameens.

358. In cases committed for trial before the Subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens in the Presidency of Fort St. George, they shall be guided by the rules contained in this Act for the trial of cases before the Magistrate, which are hereby made applicable to such cases. The Subordinate Judges and Principal Sudder Ameens may commit any case to the Court of Session in which the evidence is such as to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence calling for a more severe punishment than such Subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens are authorized to adjudge.

CHAPTER XXV.

365. If any witness shall refuse to answer any question which shall be put to him, and shall not offer any just excuse for such refusal, the Court may commit such witness to custody for such reasonable time as it may deem proper, unless he shall in the meantime consent to be examined and to answer. Examination of accused before the Magistrate to be evidence at the trial.

366. The examination of the accused person before the Magistrate shall be given in evidence at the trial. The attestation of the Magistrate shall be sufficient primâ facie proof of such examination, and such attestation shall be admitted without proof of the signature to it, unless the Court shall see reason to doubt its genuineness.

Proof of such examination.

Court may summon necessary evidence.

371. The declaration of a deceased person, whether it be made in the presence of the accused person or not, may be given in evidence if the deceased person at the time of making such declaration believed himself to be in danger of approaching death, although he entertained at the time of making it hopes of recovery.

372. When the case for the prosecution has been brought to a close, the accused person shall be called upon to enter upon his defence, and to produce his evidence.

When accused person may be examined.

373. The Court, at the close of the evidence on behalf of the accused person if any evidence is adduced on his behalf, or otherwise at the close of the case for the prosecution, may put any question to the accused person which it may think proper. It shall be in the option of the accused person to answer such question.

When accused may address the Court.

374. The accused person or his Counsel or Agent may, at his option, address the Court at the close of the case for the prosecution, or at the close of any evidence that may be adduced on his behalf, or if any question shall be put to the accused person by the Court, after such question shall have been so put.

Of verdict of Jury.

379. In a trial by Jury, the Judge shall sum up the evidence on both sides, and the Jury shall then deliver their finding upon the charge. A statement of the Judge's direction to the Jury shall form part of the record. In trials not by Jury, the ground of the Judge's decision shall be recorded.

If the accused person shall be convicted of an offence which by the Indian Penal Code is punishable with death, and the Court shall sentence such person to any punishment other than death, the Court shall state the grounds upon which it omitted the punishment of death in the statement of trials to be periodically submitted to the Sudder Court, as hereinafter required, under the head of "Sentences passed upon the accused persons."

CHAPTER XXVI.

CHAPTER XXVII.

OF LUNATICS.

Procedure in case of accused person being lunatic.

388. When any person who is charged with an offence shall appear to the Magistrate having jurisdiction, to be of unsound mind and incapable, in consequence, of making a defence, the Magistrate shall institute an inquiry to ascertain the fact of such unsoundness of mind, and shall cause the accused person to be examined by the Civil Surgeon of the District or some other Medical Officer, and thereupon shall examine such Civil Surgeon or other Medical Officer, and shall reduce the examination into writing; and if the Magistrate shall be of opinion that the accused person is of unsound mind, he shall stay further proceedings in the case.

Procedure in case of person committed before a Court of Session being lunatic.

389. If any person who shall be committed for trial before a Court of Session, shall at his trial appear to the Court to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Court shall in the first instance try the fact of such unsoundness of mind, and if satisfied of the fact, shall give a special judgment that the accused person is of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, and thereupon the trial shall be postponed.

Release of lunatic pending investigation or trial.

390. In any case in which an accused person is found to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court of Session as the case may be, if the offence be bailable, may release such person on sufficient security being given that he shall be properly taken care of, and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance when required. If the offence be not bailable, or if the required bail be not given, the accused person shall be kept in safe custody in such place as the local Government to which the case shall be reported shall direct.

Resumption of investigation of case.

391. Whenever any investigation or trial of a case shall be postponed under Section 388 or Section 389 of this Act, the Magistrate or Court of Session, as the case may be, may at any time resume the investigation or trial, and require the accused person, if detained in custody, to be brought before such Magistrate or Court, or if the accused person has been released on security, may require his appearance. Until such investigation or trial is completed, the case shall be considered as pending before the Magistrate or Court of Session, and shall be included in any register of pending cases kept by such Magistrate or Court. The surety of such person shall be bound at any time to produce him to any Officer whom the Magistrate or Court of Session may appoint to inspect him, and the Certificate of such Officer shall have the same effect as the certificate of an Inspector of Jails or the Visitors of Lunatic Asylums granted under Section 395, Clause 2 of this Act.

Procedure on accused appearing or being brought before Magistrate or Court of Session.

392. If, when the accused person appears or is again brought before the Magistrate or the Court of Session as the case may be, it shall appear to such Magistrate or Court that the accused person is in a fit state of mind to make his defence, the investigation shall proceed or the accused person shall be put on his trial as the case may require. If it shall appear that the accused person is still of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court of Session shall again act according to the provisions of Section 388 or Section 389 of this Act.

Procedure in case of acquittal of accused person on the ground of being lunatic.

393. Whenever any person is acquitted, upon the ground that at the time at which he is charged to have committed an offence he was by reason of unsoundness of mind incapable of knowing the nature of the act charged or that he was doing what was wrong or contrary to law, the finding shall state specially whether he committed the act or not.

Person so acquitted to be disposed of by Magistrate or Court of Session for safe custody, &c.

394. Whenever such finding shall state that the accused person committed the act charged, the Magistrate or Court of Session before whom the trial was held, shall, if the act charged would, but for the incapacity found, have amounted to an offence, order such person to be kept in safe custody, in such place and manner as to the Magistrate or Court of Session shall seem fit, and shall report the case for the order of the local Government. The local Government may order such person to be kept in safe custody in a Lunatic Asylum or other suitable place of safe custody.

Lunatics to be visited and reported on by Inspector of Jails, &c.

395. Clause. 1. When any person is confined under the provisions of Section 390 or Section 394 of this Act, it shall be lawful for the Inspector of Jails if such person is confined in a Jail, or for the Visitors of Lunatic Asylums or any two of them if such person is confined in a Lunatic Asylum, to visit such person in order to ascertain his state of mind; and such person shall be visited once at least in every twelve months by such Inspector of Jails or by two of such Visitors as aforesaid, who shall make a special report as to the state of mind of such person.

If lunatic confined under Section 390 is reported capable of making his defence.

Clause 2. If such person is confined under Section 390 of this Act and such Inspector of Jails or such Visitors of Lunatic Asylums as aforesaid shall report that in his or their opinion such person is capable of making his defence, such person shall be before the Magistrate or Court of Session as the taken case may be, at such time as such Magistrate or Court of Session shall appoint; and such Magistrate or Court shall deal with such person under the provisions of Section 392, and may receive as evidence the certificate of such Inspector of Jails or such Visitors of Lunatic Asylums as aforesaid.

If lunatic confined under Section 394 is declared capable of being discharged.

Clause 3. If such person shall be confined under the provisions of Section 394 of this Act and such Inspector of Jails or such Visitors of Lunatic Asylums as aforesaid shall certify that in his or their judgment such person may be discharged without danger of his doing injury to himself or to any other person, the local Government shall thereupon either order his discharge or order such person to be transferred to a public Lunatic Asylum if he has not been already sent to such an Asylum, and shall within six months appoint a Commission consisting of a Judicial Officer not below the grade of a Sessions Judge, and two Medical Officers whereof the Chief Medical Officer attached to the Lunatic Asylum shall be one. The said Commission shall make formal enquiry into the state of mind of such person, taking such evidence as shall be necessary; and if they consider that he can be set at liberty without danger to himself or to any other person, he shall be discharged.

Person under sentence of imprisonment, appearing to be of unsound mind, may be removed to Lunatic Asylum, and kept till he shall again become of sound mind, &c.

396. Whenever it shall appear to the local Government that any person imprisoned by the sentence of any Court or Magistrate is of unsound mind, the local Government, by an order which shall set forth the grounds of belief that such prisoner is of unsound mind, may order the removal of such prisoner to a Lunatic Asylum, there to be kept and treated as the local Government shall direct during the remainder of the term of imprisonment ordered by the sentence, or if it shall be certified by a Medical Officer that it is necessary for the safety of the prisoner or others that he should be detained under care and treatment, then until he shall be discharged according to law; and when it shall appear to the local Government that such person has become of sound mind, the local Government by an order directed to the person having charge of him, shall remand such person to the custody from which he was removed, if then still liable to be kept in custody, or, if not, shall order him to be discharged out of custody. The provisions of Section IX of Act XXXVI of 1858 (relating to Lunatic Asylums) shall apply to persons confined in a Lunatic Asylum under this Section after the expiration of the imprisonment ordered by the sentence. The period during which a person shall be confined in a Lunatic Asylum shall be reckoned as part of the period of imprisonment ordered by the sentence.

When lunatic may be delivered over to the care and custody of a relative or friend.

397. Whenever any relative or friend of any person detained under the provisions of Section 394 of this Act is desirous that such person shall be delivered over to his care and custody, the local Government, upon the application of such relative or friend and on his giving security to the satisfaction of such Government that the person detained shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, may make an order that the person so detained may be delivered to such relative or friend. Whenever such person shall be so delivered over, it shall be upon condition that he shall be subject to the inspection of such Officer as the local Government shall think necessary to appoint, and at such times as such Government shall direct. The provisions of Section 395 shall apply to persons detained under the provisions of this Section, and the certificate of the Inspecting Officer appointed under this Section shall have the same effect as a certificate of an Inspector of Jails or the Visitors of Lunatic Asylums under the said Section.

If the case so referred shall have been tried by the Court of Session with the aid of Assessors, it shall be competent to the Sudder Court, if it think further enquiry or additional evidence upon any point bearing upon the guilt or innocence of the accused person to be necessary, to direct such enquiry to be made, or such additional evidence to be taken. The result of the further enquiry and the additional evidence shall be certified to the Sudder Court and the Sudder Court shall thereupon proceed to pass judgment of acquittal or such sentence as to the Court shall seem right.

402. If such enquiry is made by means of some person other than an Officer exercising any of the powers of a Magistrate or a Police Officer, such person shall exercise all the powers vested by this Act in an Officer in charge of a Police Station, except that he shall have no power to make an arrest. 183. If any person accused of an offence absconds or conceals himself, so that upon a warrant issued against him he cannot be found, the Magistrate shall, if satisfied that such person absconds or conceals himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, issue a written proclamation, requiring such person to appear to answer the complaint within a fixed period not less than thirty days. The proclamation shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person usually resides, and shall be affixed on some conspicuous part of the ordinary place of abode of such person, or on some conspicuous place of such town or village. Summons to a witness to attend and give evidence.

186. The Magistrate shall ascertain from the complainant, or otherwise, the names of any persons who may be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case, and who are likely to give evidence for the prosecution, and shall issue his summons to such persons, requiring them to appear at a time and place mentioned in the summons before such Magistrate to testify what they know concerning the complaint made against the accused person.

If warrant cannot be served.

189. If the warrant cannot be served, and the Magistrate is satisfied that the witness absconds or conceals himself for the purpose of avoiding the service thereof, the Magistrate may issue a proclamation, requiring the attendance of such witness to give evidence at a time and place to be named therein, to be affixed on some conspicuous part of his ordinary place of abode, and if such witness shall not attend at the time and place named in such proclamation, the Magistrate may order the attachment of any moveable property belonging to such witness to such amount as he shall deem reasonable, not being in excess of the amount of costs of attachment and of any fine to which such witness may be liable under the provisions of the following Section. If such witness shall not appear, or appearing, shall fail to satisfy the Magistrate that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to order the property attached, or any part thereof, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying all costs incurred in consequence of such attachment, together with the amount of any fine which the Magistrate may impose upon such witness under the provisions of Section 172 of the Indian Penal Code. The evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, by or in the presence and hearing and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Magistrate, and shall be signed by the Magistrate. When the evidence of a witness is given in English, the Magistrate may take it down in that language with his own hand, and an authenticated translation of the same in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, shall form part of the record. In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate, he shall be bound, as the examination of each witness proceeds, to make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall be annexed to the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so.

Local Government may direct the evidence to be recorded in the vernacular language of the Magistrate.

196. It shall be competent to the local Government to direct that in any District or part of a District to which this Act shall extend, or shall hereafter be extended, under the provisions of Section 445, the evidence of witnesses shall be taken down by the Magistrate with his own hand in the Vernacular language of the Magistrate, unless the Magistrate be prevented by any sufficient reason from taking down the evidence of any witness, in which case he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court. The evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Magistrate, and form part of the record. Provided that, if the Vernacular language of the Magistrate be not English or the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, the Magistrate may be directed by the local Government to take down the evidence in the English language or in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, instead of his own Vernacular.

197. If any question shall arise as to what is the language in ordinary use in any District in which a Court is held, that question shall, for the purposes of this Act, be determined by the Local Government.

198. The evidence shall not ordinarily be taken down in the form of question and answer, but in the form of a narrative. It shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate to take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, if there shall appear any special reason for so doing, or any person who is a prosecutor, or a person accused, or his Counsel or Agent, shall require it. When the evidence is completed, it shall be read over to the witness in the presence of the person accused if in attendance, or of his Agent when his personal attendance is dispensed with and he appears by Agent, and shall, if necessary, be corrected. If the witness shall deny the correctness of any part of the evidence when the same is read over to him, the Magistrate may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he may think necessary. If the evidence be taken down in a different language from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the witness may require his evidence as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given, or in a language which he understands.

Memorandum to be attached to the evidence.

199. A memorandum to be signed by the Magistrate shall be attached to the evidence of each witness, and shall state that the evidence was read over to the witness in a language which he understood (naming the language), and if the fact is so, that the witness acknowledged such evidence to be correct. In what cases evidence to be interpreted to the accused or his Agent.

200. If the evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him, in all cases where the accused is present in person. If the accused appears by Agent, and the evidence is given in a language other than the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, it shall be interpreted to such Agent in that language.

Any person attending the Court of the Magistrate, although not upon an arrest or summons on a charge made, may be detained by the Magistrate for the purpose of examination, for any offence which from the evidence he may appear to have committed, and may be proceeded against as though he had been arrested or summoned on a charge made.

247. In all cases of amendment or alteration of a charge, the accused person shall be allowed to recall and examine any witness who may have been examined.

CHAPTER XIV.

Of Cases triable by the Magistrate in which a Warrant on Complaint may issue.

Cases in which Magistrate may issue a warrant.

248. When a complaint is made before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, that any person has committed, or is suspected to have committed, any offence triable by such Magistrate, and punishable under the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a period exceeding six months, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue his warrant to apprehend such person. Provided that in any such case the Magistrate, to whom such complaint shall be made, may for any sufficient reason, instead of issuing his warrant in the first instance, issue his summons, requiring the person complained against to appear to answer to such complaint.

Summons instead of warrant.

Issue of process.

149. The provisions of Chapter XII relating to the issuing of process for causing the attendance of the accused person, the taking of bail, the summoning and enforcing the attendance of witnesses, the examination of parties and witnesses, the mode of recording evidence, correction, attestation, and interpretation thereof, and the adjournment of a case, shall be applicable to cases tried under this Chapter. On completing the examination of a witness under this Section, the Magistrate, in addition to the memorandum required by Chapter XII, shall record such remarks as he may think material respecting the demeanor of any witness while under examination.

Charge.

250. When the evidence of the complainant and of the witnesses for the prosecution, and such examination of the accused person as the Magistrate shall consider necessary, have been taken, the Magistrate, if he find that no offence has been proved against the accused person, shall discharge him. If the Magistrate find that an offence is apparently proved against the accused person which falls within the definition in a certain Section of the Indian Penal Code, or within one or other of the definitions in several Sections of the said Code, he shall prepare in writing a charge against the accused person in the manner prescribed in Chapter XIII of this Act, all the provisions of which shall be applicable to charges prepared under this Section. In charges prepared under this Section the words "within my cognizance" shall be substituted for the words "within the cognizance of the Court of Session" at the end of the charge, and the words "by the said Court" omitted in the order.

Plea.

251. The charge shall then be read to the accused person, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty or has any defence to make.

Plea of claim to be tried.

252. If the accused person have any defence to make to the charge, he shall be called upon to enter upon the same, and to produce his witnesses if in attendance, and shall be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution.

Evidence for the defence.

253. The Magistrate shall summon any witness and examine any evidence that may be offered in behalf of the accused person, to answer or disprove the evidence against him, and may, for this purpose, at his discretion, adjourn the trial from time to time, as may be necessary.

Witnesses for the defence.

254. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 of this Act shall be applicable to witnesses named in support of the defence.

Acquittal or conviction.

255. If the Magistrate shall find the accused person not guilty, he shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused person is convicted, the Magistrate shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

How the Magistrate is to proceed when, after commencement of trial, he finds the case beyond his jurisdiction.

256. In any trial before a Magistrate, in which it may appear at any stage of the proceedings that from any cause the case is one which the Magistrate is not competent to try, or which, in the opinion of such Magistrate, ought to be tried by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall stop further proceedings under this Chapter, and shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

CHAPTER XV.

Of Cases triable by the Magistrate in which a Summons on Complaint shall ordinarily issue.

Summons shall issue.

257. Whenever a complaint is made before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, that any person has committed or is suspected to have committed any offence triable by such Magistrate and punishable under the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue his summons directed to such person, stating shortly the matter of such complaint, and requiring him to appear at a certain time and place before such Magistrate to answer to the complaint. Provided that, if the Magistrate shall be satisfied or have reason to believe that the accused person is about to abscond, he may, instead of issuing a summons, issue his warrant in the first instance for the arrest of such accused person.

When warrant may issue.

Defendant may be admitted to bail or be at large upon personal recognizance.

258. If, upon the day appointed, the accused person shall appear voluntarily in obedience to the summons in that behalf served upon him, or shall be brought before the Magistrate by virtue of a warrant, it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate to admit the accused person to bail, or allow him to be at large upon his personal recognizance, as the Magistrate may direct. If the accused person cannot give bail, when required to do so, he shall be committed to custody.

Non-appearance of complainant.

259. If upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused person or any day subsequent thereto on which the case may be called on, the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint; unless for some reason he shall think proper to adjourn the hearing of the same to some other day, upon such terms as he shall think fit.

If summons be not obeyed, warrant.

260. If the person served with a summons shall not appear before the Magistrate at the time mentioned in such summons, and the Magistrate shall be satisfied that such summons was duly served in what shall be deemed by the Magistrate to be a reasonable time before the time therein appointed for appearing to the same, or if it shall appear to the Magistrate that after due diligence the summons could not be served according to the provisions of this Act, the Magistrate may issue his warrant to apprehend the accused person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of accused.

261. The Magistrate may, if he sees sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person complained against, and permit him to appear by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf. Provided that it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate at any stage of the proceedings to direct the personal attendance of such person. When the personal attendance of the accused person during the trial has been dispensed with, the sentence of the Magistrate, if the sentence be for fine only, may be pronounced in the presence of the Agent if the accused person has been permitted to appear by Agent, or the accused person may be required to attend to hear such sentence.

Summons to witness to attend and give evidence.

262. If it appear to the Magistrate that any person is likely to give material evidence on behalf of the complainant or the accused person, and that such person will not voluntarily appear for the purpose of being examined as a witness at the time and place appointed for the hearing of such complaint, the Magistrate shall issue his summons to such person under his signature and seal, requiring him to appear at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to testify what he knows concerning the matter of the complaint.

Magistrate may summon necessary evidence.

263. It shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate, at any stage of the trial, to summon and examine any witness whose evidence he may consider essential to the just decision of the case. The Magistrate may also examine as a witness any person in attendance, although not summoned as a witness.

Application of previous rules.

264. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 of this Act, shall be applicable to witnesses summoned according to the provisions of Sections 262 and 263.

Admission by accused of truth of complaint.

265. On the appearance of both parties on the day fixed for the trial, the substance of the complaint shall be stated to the accused person, and he shall be asked if he has any cause to show why he should not be convicted. If the accused person admit the truth of the complaint, and show no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate may convict him accordingly.

Proceeding when no such admission is made.

266. If the accused person do not admit the truth of the complaint, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant and such witnesses as he may produce in support of his complaint, and also to hear the accused person and such witnesses as he shall produce in his defence.

How the evidence is to be recorded.

267. The Magistrate shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness, as the examination of the witness proceeds. The memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such memorandum shall form part of the record. The Magistrate shall record such remarks as he shall think material respecting the demeanor of any witness whilst under examination.

Manner of recording evidence in certain cases.

268. In any case in which the Magistrate shall consider it necessary, it shall be competent to him, instead of taking down merely the substance of the evidence of any witness, to take down the evidence of the witness in the manner provided in Section 195 or in the manner provided by Section 196 if within the jurisdiction of such Magistrate the local Government shall have made an order as provided in that Section. In any such case the provisions of Sections 199 and 200 shall be applicable to the evidence so taken.

Adjournment.

269. Before or during the hearing of any complaint, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to adjourn the hearing of the same to a day, to be then appointed and stated in the presence and hearing of the party or parties; and if on the day to which such hearing or such further hearing shall have been so adjourned, the accused person shall not appear, the Magistrate may issue his warrant for the arrest of such person, and if the complainant shall not appear, the Magistrate may dismiss the complaint.

Magistrate may award amends in cases of frivolous and vexatious complaints.

270. In any case where the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint as frivolous and vexatious, it shall be lawful for him, in his discretion, by his order of dismissal, to award that the complainant shall pay to the accused person such amends, not exceeding fifty Rupees, as to such Magistrate shall seem just and reasonable. The sum so awarded shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the moveable property, belonging to the complainant, which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and in default of such distress, by imprisonment, in the Civil jail, for any time not exceeding thirty days, unless such amends shall be sooner paid.

Magistrate may permit withdrawal of the complaint.

271. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this Chapter, shall satisfy the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to draw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit such complainant to withdraw such complaint. A complaint withdrawn under this Section shall not again be entertained.

Acquittal or conviction.

272. If the Magistrate, in any case tried under this Chapter, shall find the accused person not guilty, he shall record a judgment of acquittal. If the accused person is convicted, the Magistrate shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

CHAPTER XVI.

Of Enquiries and Trials before the Subordinate Magistrates.

Reference of cases to Subordinate Magistrate.

273. Criminal cases brought before the Magistrate of the District or a Magistrate in charge of a division of a District, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer, may be referred by such Magistrate to any Magistrate subordinate to him. The reference shall be for enquiry or for trial if the offence be triable by such Subordinate Magistrate, or with a view to commitment to the Court of Session if such Magistrate is competent to commit to the Court of Session, or with a view to commitment to the Supreme Court of Judicature if such Subordinate Magistrate is competent to commit to such Supreme Court.

Proviso.

Provided that nothing in this Section shall prevent any Subordinate Magistrate from entertaining, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer (in cases in which the Subordinate Magistrate is authorized to receive such report), any case that such Magistrate is, by any law for the time being in force, competent to entertain.

Cases how to be referred.

274. When a criminal case is referred under this Chapter to a Subordinate Magistrate, the order of reference, if the case has been brought forward on the report of a Police Officer, shall be recorded on such report, and all processes issued for causing the attendance of the accused person or the witnesses, shall direct them to attend before such Court.

Subordinate Magistrates to follow the same rules of procedure as the Magistrate.

275. In the enquiry into or trial of cases under this Chapter, the Subordinate Magistrates shall be guided by the rules prescribed for the guidance of the Magistrate of the District in similar cases; and Police Officers and others shall be bound to obey all orders and processes issued in such cases in like manner as if such orders or processes had been issued by the Magistrate of the District.

How the Subordinate Magistrate is to proceed in cases beyond his jurisdiction.

276. If, in the course of a trial before a Subordinate Magistrate, the evidence shall appear to him to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence which such Magistrate is not competent to try or for which he is not competent to commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session, he shall stay proceedings and shall submit the case to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate. The Magistrate to whom the case is submitted shall either try the case himself or refer it to any Officer subordinate to him having jurisdiction, or he may commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session. In any such case, such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall examine the parties and witnesses, and shall proceed in all respects as if no proceedings had been held in any other Court.

In what cases Subordinate Magistrate shall not pass sentence, but may refer case to the Magistrate.

277. If in any case tried by a Subordinate Magistrate having jurisdiction in which the accused person is found guilty, such Magistrate shall consider the offence established against the accused person to call for a more severe punishment than he is competent to adjudge, he shall record the finding and submit his proceedings to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, and such Magistrate shall pass such sentence or order in the case as he may deem proper and as shall be according to law. In any such case the Magistrate to whom the proceedings are submitted, may examine the parties, and recall and examine any witness who shall already have given evidence in the case, and he may call for or take any further evidence.

How the Magistrate is to proceed in such cases.

Subordinate Magistrate, if empowered to do so, may, instead of convicting the accused, commit him for trial before the Court of Session.

278. Nothing in the last preceding Section shall be held to prevent the Subordinate Magistrate in any such case as is therein described, if such Magistrate is empowered to hold the preliminary enquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session and to commit persons to take their trial before such Court, from committing the accused person for trial before the Court of Session instead of finding him guilty. If the Subordinate Magistrate shall be of opinion that the accused person should be committed for trial before the Court of Session, he shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

Mode of procedure in such cases.

CHAPTER XVII.

Place where Preliminary Investigations and Trials held, an Open Court.

Place where investigation made, an open Court.

279. The place in which the Court of a Magistrate is held for the trial of any complaint or for the purpose of conducting any preliminary investigation into any case triable by a Court of Session or Supreme Court of Judicature, or any Superior Court, shall be deemed an open and public Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them; but it shall be lawful for any such Court, if it shall think fit, to order that during the investigation into any particular case triable by a Court of Session or by a Supreme Court of Judicature, no person shall have access to or be or remain in such room or building without the consent or permission of the Court.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Of Recognizance and Security to keep the Peace.

Personal recognizance to keep the peace in cases of conviction.

280. Whenever a person charged with rioting, assault, or other breach of the peace, or with abetting the same, or with assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, shall be convicted of such charge before any Court of Session or the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, and the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the accused person is convicted, or the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the final sentence or order in the case shall be passed, shall be of opinion that it is just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace, from the person so convicted, it shall be lawful to such Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid so convicting the accused person, or so passing the final sentence or order as aforesaid, in addition, to direct that the person so convicted be required to execute a formal engagement, in a sum proportionate to his condition in life and the circumstances of the case, for keeping the peace during such period as it may appear proper to fix in each instance, not exceeding one year if the sentence or order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the sentence or final order be passed by a Court of Session. When any accused person shall be convicted of any offence specified in this Section by an Officer not exercising the powers of a Magistrate, such Officer, if he consider it just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace from the person so convicted, shall report the case to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate to whom such Officer may be subordinate, who shall deal with the case as if the conviction had been before himself.

Security to keep the peace.

281. In cases in which it may appear necessary to require security for keeping the peace, in addition to the personal recognizance of the party so convicted, it shall also be lawful to the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, empowered to require a penal recognizance under the last preceding Section, to require security in addition thereto and to fix the amount of the security-bond to be executed by the surety or sureties; with a provision that, if the same be not given, the party required to find the security shall be kept in custody for any time not exceeding one year if the order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the order be passed by the Sudder Court or by a Court of Session.

Summons to any person to show cause why he should not enter into a bond to keep the peace.

282. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, whenever he shall receive credible information that any person, whether a European British subject or not, is likely to commit a breach of the peace, or to do any act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, to summon such person to attend at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to show cause why he should not be required to enter into a bond to keep the peace with or without sureties as such Magistrate shall think fit.

Form of summons.

283. The summons shall set forth the substance of the information, the amount of the bond and the term for which it is to be in force, and if security is called for, the number of sureties required, and the amount in which they are to be bound respectively. Such summons shall be served in the manner provided by this Act for the service of a summons on an accused person.

Penalty.

284. The penalty of such bond, which shall be in the Form (D) given in the Appendix or to the like effect, shall be fixed with a due regard to the circumstances of the case and the means of the party, and the amount in which the sureties shall be bound shall not exceed the said penalty.

Warrant of arrest.

285. If the person summoned shall not attend on the day appointed, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, if satisfied that the summons has been duly served, may issue a warrant for his arrest. Provided that, whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, upon the report of a Police Officer or upon other credible information, the substance of which report or information shall be recorded, that there is just reason to fear the commission of a breach of the peace, which may probably be prevented by the immediate arrest of any person, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate at any time to issue a warrant for the arrest of such person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of party informed against.

286. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he see sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person informed against and permit him to appear and enter into the required security, or show cause against such requisition by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf.

Discharge of party informed against.

287. If on the appearance of the person, or of his Agent if he is permitted to appear by Agent, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall not be satisfied that there is occasion to bind such person to keep the peace, he shall direct his discharge.

Consequence of not complying with order of Magistrate to enter into a bond.

288. If the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be satisfied that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to take a bond from such person with or without security, he shall make an order accordingly; and if the person shall fail to comply with the order, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to commit him to jail.

Limit for confinement.

289. The period for which the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may bind a person to keep the peace with or without security, shall not exceed one year. When a person shall be committed to jail, under the last preceding Section, he shall not be detained by authority of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid beyond the term of one year, and shall be released whenever he shall comply with the order within that term.

290. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to bind a person beyond the term of one year, he may, before the expiration of the first year, record his opinion to that effect and the grounds thereof, and may refer the case for the orders of the Court of Sessions, and such Court, after examining the proceedings of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid and making such further enquiry as such Court may think necessary, may, if it shall see cause, authorize the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to extend the term for a further period not exceeding one year, and if the party shall fail to give a bond, with security if required, for his keeping the peace for such further period as the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct under the orders of the Court of Session, he may be kept in confinement for such further period or until he shall give such bond within that period.

Extension of period of confinement.

291. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he shall see sufficient cause, discharge any recognizance and surety for keeping the peace taken under the preceding Sections, and may order the release of the person confined for default in entering into such recognizance or giving such security.

Discharge of recognizances.

292. A surety for the personal appearance of another person may at any time apply to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to be relieved from his engagement as surety. On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his summons or warrant in order that the person for whom such surety is bound, may appear or be brought before him. On the appearance of the person to such warrant or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct the engagement of the surety to be cancelled and shall call upon such person to give fresh security, and in default thereof shall commit him to custody.

Discharge of sureties.

293. Whenever it may be proved before the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that any recognizance or other bond taken under this Chapter has been forfeited, he shall record the grounds of such proof and shall call upon the person bound by the bond to pay the penalty thereof or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if sufficient cause be not shown and the penalty be not paid, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall proceed to recover the same by the attachment and sale of any of the moveable property belonging to the person bound thereby which shall be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and if the penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, the party shall be liable to imprisonment by order of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid in the Civil Jail, for a period not exceeding six months.

Enforcement of penalty against the principal party.

294. Whenever it may be proved before the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that any bond with a surety has been forfeited, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may at his discretion give notice to the surety to pay the penalty to which he has thereby become liable, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if no sufficient cause be shown, and the penalty be not paid, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may proceed to recover payment of the penalty from such surety in the same manner as from the principal party.

Recovery of penalty from surety.

CHAPTER XIX.

Security for Good Behaviour.

295. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate of the District or to an Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate that any person is lurking within his jurisdiction not having any ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself, it shall be competent to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to require security for the good behaviour of such person for a period not exceeding six months.

When Magistrate may require security for good behaviour for six months.

296. Whenever it shall appear to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid from the evidence as to general character adduced before him, that any person is by repute a robber, housebreaker, or thief, or a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or of notoriously bad livelihood, it shall be competent to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to require security for the good behaviour of such person for a period not exceeding one year.

When Magistrate may require security for good behaviour for one year.

297. Whenever it shall appear to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid from the evidence as to general character adduced before him, that any person is by habit a robber, house-breaker, or thief, or a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or of a character so desperate and dangerous as to render his release, without security, at the expiration of the limited period of one year, hazardous to the community, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall record his opinion to that effect, with an order specifying the amount of security which should, in his judgment, be required from such person, as well as the number of sureties, and the period, not exceeding three years, for which the sureties should be responsible for such person's good behaviour.

How to proceed in cases beyond one year.

298. If the person required to furnish security as provided in the last preceding Section, shall not furnish the security so required, the proceedings shall be laid, as soon as conveniently may be, before the Court of Session, which, after examining them and requiring any further information or evidence which it may judge necessary, shall be competent to pass orders on the case, either confirming, modifying, or annulling the orders of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid as it may judge proper.

Case to be laid before the Court of Session.

299. If the Court of Session shall not think it safe to direct the immediate discharge of such person, it shall fix a limited period for his detention, not exceeding three years, in the event of his not giving the security required from him.

Court of Session may require security not exceeding three years.

What the order for security is to contain.

300. In every instance in which security for good behaviour shall be required by the Court of Session or the Magistrate or other Officer as foresaid, the amount of the security, the number of sureties, and the period of time for which the sureties are to be responsible for the good conduct of the person required to furnish security, shall be stated in the order. The security-bond shall be in the Form (F.) given in the Appendix, or to the like effect.

In default of security, party to be committed to prison.

301. In the event of any person required to give security under the provisions of the foregoing Sections, failing to furnish the security so required, he shall be committed to prison until he furnish the same.

Proviso.

Provided that no party shall be kept in prison for a longer period than that for which the security has been required from him.

When Magistrate may release persons under requisition of security.

302. The Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate is empowered at any time, to exercise his discretion in releasing, without reference to any other authority, any prisoner confined under requisition of security for good behaviour, whether by his own order or by the order of any Officer subordinate to him, provided he shall be of opinion that such person can be released without hazard to the community.

When he must report.

303. In any case in which a Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be of opinion that any person confined under requisition of security for good behaviour by order of a Court of Session, can be safely released without such security, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall make an immediate report of the case for the orders of the Court which shall have required the person to furnish the security.

Discharge of surety.

304. A surety for the good behaviour of a person may at any time apply to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to be relieved from his engagement as surety. On such application being made, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall issue his summons or warrant in order that the person may appear or be brought before him. On the appearance of the party pursuant to the warrant or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct the engagement of the surety to be cancelled, and shall call upon the person to give fresh security, and in default thereof shall commit him to custody.

Proceeding to compel payment of penalty by sureties.

305. Whenever the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be of opinion that, by reason of an offence proved to have been committed by the person for whose good behaviour security has been given, subsequent to his having given such security, proceedings should be had upon the bond executed by the surety, he shall give notice to the surety to pay the penalty, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if no sufficient cause be shown, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall proceed to recover the penalty from such surety by the attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to such surety which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District; and if the penalty be not paid, and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, such surety shall be liable to imprisonment by order of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid in the Civil jail for a period not exceeding six months.

Issue of summons and warrant of arrest.

306. The several provisions of the last preceding Chapter relating to the issue of summons and warrant of arrest for securing the personal attendance of the party informed against, shall apply to proceedings taken under this Chapter against persons required to give security for their good behaviour.

Manner of taking evidence under Chapter XVIII or this Chapter.

307. Any evidence taken under Chapter XVIII or this Chapter, shall be taken in the manner prescribed by Section 267, subject to the provision contained in Section 268 of this Act.

CHAPTER XX.

Of Local Nuisances.

Magistrate may order removal of nuisances.

308. Whenever the Magistrate of a District or of a division of a District may consider that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any thoroughfare or public place, or that any trade or occupation, by reason of its being injurious to the health or comfort of the community, should be suppressed or should be removed to a different place, or that the construction of any building or the disposal of any combustible substance, as likely to occasion conflagration, should be prevented, or that any building is in such a state of weakness that it is likely to fall, and thereby cause injury to persons passing by, and that its removal in consequence is necessary, or that any tank or well adjacent to any public thoroughfare should be fenced in such a manner as to prevent danger arising to the public, he may issue an order to the person causing such obstruction or nuisance or carrying on such trade or occupation, or being the owner or in possession of, or having control over, such building, substance, tank, or well as aforesaid, calling on such person within a time to be fixed in the order to remove such obstruction or nuisance, or to suppress or remove such trade or occupation, or to stop the construction of, or to remove such building, or to alter the disposal of such substance, or to fence such tank or well, (as the case may be,) or to appear before such Magistrate within the time mentioned in the order, and show cause why such order should not be enforced.

Service or notification of order.

309. Such order shall, if practicable, be served personally on the person to whom it is issued; but if personal service is found to be impracticable, the order shall be notified by proclamation, and a written notice thereof shall be stuck up at at such place or places as may be best adapted for conveying the information to such person.

Person ordered shall obey the order, or may claim a Jury.

310. The person to whom such order is issued, shall be bound, within the time specified in the order, to obey the same or to appear before the Magistrate to show cause as aforesaid, or he may apply to the Magistrate by petition for an order for a Jury to be appointed to try whether the order is reasonable and proper. On receiving such petition, the Magistrate shall forthwith appoint a Jury which shall consist of not less than five persons, whereof the President and one-half of the Members shall be nominated by such Magistrate, and the remaining Members by the party petitioning. The Magistrate shall suspend the execution of the order pending such enquiry, and be guided by the decision of the Jury, which shall be according to the opinion of the majority. If the petitioner shall, by neglect or in any other way, prevent the appointment of a Jury, or if from any cause the Jury so appointed shall not decide and report within a reasonable time to be fixed in the order for the appointment, their functions shall cease from the date of the expiration of such period, unless they be continued by special order of the Magistrate, and if from any of the above causes no decision be made by the Jury, the order of the Magistrate shall be carried into effect as hereinafter provided.

Constitution of Jury.

Proceeding in case of neglect by Jury.

311. The same Jury or Assessors may try in succession several offenders.

347. The same Jury, if not objected to, may try, or the same Assessors may aid in the trial of, as many accused persons successively as to the Court shall seem expedient.

348. Whenever in the opinion of the Court it may be proper and convenient that the Jury or Assessors should have a view of the place in which the offence charged is said to have been committed, or of any other place in which any other transaction material to the enquiry in the trial took place, an order shall be made to that effect, and the Jury or Assessors shall be conducted in a body under the care of an Officer of the Court to the place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court, and it shall be the duty of the Officer not to suffer any other person to speak to or hold any communication with any of the Jury or Assessors, and they shall, when the view is finished, be immediately conducted back into Court.

The Court shall also at the same time in like manner cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons shall have been summoned for Jury-trials at that Session. The names of the persons to be summoned shall be drawn by lot, excluding those who have served within six months, unless the number cannot be made up without them. From the whole number of persons returned, the Jurors who are to constitute the Jury shall be taken by lot in the manner prescribed in Section 342, until a Jury, containing the proper number of the races mentioned in Section 323, or a number approaching as nearly thereto as possible, has been obtained. The Jurors shall be liable to the same objections as any other Jurors. If a Jury containing the requisite number of the races mentioned in Section 323 be not obtained, the accused person may elect to be tried by the Judge with the aid of Assessors; otherwise he shall be tried by the Jury obtained by the means aforesaid.

In any trial by Jury if the accused person is found guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is specified in that behalf in Section 328 of the Act, or if the accused be found not guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is therein in that behalf specified, the Jury shall be discharged, and in any such case as aforesaid there shall be a new trial before a Jury consisting entirely of other Jurors, and the accused person may be remanded or held to bail for such new trial. If, on any new trial by Jury, the accused shall not be found guilty by a majority consisting of such a number as aforesaid, he shall be acquitted.

When and how long Jury may retire for finding.

352. At the close of the trial, and after the Judge has summed up the evidence as hereinafter provided by Section 379 of this Act, the Jury may retire to consider their finding, and it shall be the duty of an Officer of the Court not to suffer any person to speak to or hold any communication with any member of such Jury. In any case in which a Jury shall be prepared to deliver their finding, the Judge shall ask the Jury whether they are unanimous, and if the foreman or one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Judge may require such Jury to retire for further consideration. If, after such a period as the Judge shall consider reasonable, the foreman or any one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Jury may deliver their verdict.

If either of the Assessors be unable to proceed with trial.

353. If, in the course of a trial with the aid of Assessors, at any time prior to the finding, any Assessor shall from any sufficient cause be prevented from attending through the trial, the trial shall proceed with the aid of the other Assessor or Assessors. If all the Assessors are prevented from attending through the trial, the proceedings shall be stayed, and a new trial shall be held with the aid of fresh Assessors.

Penalty for non-attendance of Juror or Assessor.

The Subordinate Judges and Principal Sudder Ameens may commit any case to the Court of Session in which the evidence is such as to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence calling for a more severe punishment than such Subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens are authorized to adjudge.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF INDIA.

ACT No. XXVI OF 1861.

An Act to regulate the occupation of land in the Settlement of Malacca.

Preamble.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the power of Her Majesty to convey in fee simple in the District of Malacca (within the Setlement of Malacca), the lands in which certain rights and interests were surrendered to the Honorable the East India Company in the years 1828 and 1829, and whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts, and to declare the rights of Her Majesty in respect to such lands, and otherwise to amend the law relating to the occupation of land situate within the Settlement of Malacca; It is enacted as follows:—

Certain lands surrendered to the East India Company declared to be vested in the Queen.

I. The lands in the District of Malacca in which certain rights and interests were surrendered to the East India Company in the years 1828 and 1829, on condition that a certain amount then settled and agreed upon should be paid by the Government annually, so long as the British rule in the said District continued, to every person making such surrender, and on condition also that every such person in the event of the cessation of the British rule in the said District should resume the rights then conditionally surrendered to the British Government, are hereby declared to be vested in fee simple in Her Majesty the Queen, Her Heirs, and Successors (saving always any rights or interests lawfully vested in any under-tenants and cultivators holding or occupying any portion of such lands), and any conveyance which after the passing of this Act shall be made by Her Majesty, Her Heirs, and Successors of any of the said lands in fee simple or otherwise (not inconsistent with the rights or interests aforesaid of such under-tenants and cultivators) shall be good and valid for all intents and purposes whatsoever.

Payment of annuities to the grantees or proprietors of the surrendered estates.

II. The annuities stipulated to be paid to the persons who surrendered the rights and interests aforesaid shall be paid as a perpetual annuity to the said persons, or their heirs or representatives by the Government of India, but it shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council to commute the perpetual annuity payable to any such annuitant, for such sum and on such terms as may with such annuitant be agreed upon, in full discharge of the perpetual annuity so commuted and of all rights or obligations whatsoever connected therewith. In the event of a cessation of British rule in the said District, nothing in this Section shall interfere with the claim of any person then enjoying an uncommuted annuity under this Section to a money compensation from the Government, equal to the then value of any right or interest in land surrendered by him as described in the last Section, which but for the passing of this Act would then have reverted to him. No such surrendered right or interest in such land shall then revert to or revive in any such annuitant, nor shall any such annuitant have a claim in connection with any such right or interest to aught but a money compensation from the Government.

Cultivators and tenants subject to payment to Government of one-tenth of produce.

III. All cultivators and resident tenants of the lands referred to in the first Section of this Act as well as in the District of Naning who hold their lands by prescription, are hereby declared to be and shall be subject to a payment of one-tenth part of the produce thereof to Government; such payment to be made in kind or in the form of a sum of money fixed in commutation of the payment in kind; and all other cultivators and under-tenants who now occupy or hold or shall occupy or hold any of such lands as aforesaid, are hereby declared to have been and shall be liable, as directed in Section II of Act XVI of 1839 (relating to Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca) to be assessed in such manner, at such rate, and under such conditions as the Resident Councillor of Malacca, with the authority of the Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, may determine. Nothing in this Section shall be taken to affect any engagement entered into for a specific time or upon specific conditions between any cultivator or tenant and the Resident Councillor or other person acting on behalf of the local Government during the pendency thereof.

Proviso.

IV. It shall be lawful for the Governor of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca to commute the payment, whether in kind or money, to which any person is liable under the last preceding Section, for a sum to be fixed at the discretion of the said Governor and for an annual quit-rent, and on the payment of the sum and quit-rent so fixed upon, the lands in respect of which such commutation is made shall be held subject to the terms of such commutation and free from liability to the payment provided for in the last preceding Section.

Commutation of a fixed sum for an annual payment.

V. It shall be lawful for the Governor aforesaid, any provision in Section V of the said Act XVI of 1839 to the contrary notwithstanding, to direct any lease granted or to be granted under that Section, to be granted in perpetuity or for such term as to such Governor may seem proper, and, subject to such quit-rent as may be agreed upon, to transfer to, and vest absolutely in, any person or persons any portion of the waste or forest land situated within the lands aforesaid or within the District of Naning, on the payment of a sum fixed as provided in the last foregoing Section, free of any liability for the payment of annual rent.

VI. It shall not be competent to any party to claim, on the ground of prescriptive right or of possession, any forest, waste, or other uncultivated land situated within the lands, grants, or estates aforesaid or within the District of Naning, unless the same, having been before cultivated or occupied for some beneficial purpose, shall have fallen out of cultivation or use within three years from the passing of this Act; provided that any tenant, cultivator, or other occupier of cultivated land within the lands or District aforesaid, shall be permitted to engage for unoccupied, forest, waste, or other uncultivated land situated within or next adjoining the boundaries of the cultivated land held or occupied by him, to the extent of one-fourth thereof; and any order made in this matter by any person empowered in that behalf by the Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca shall be final, subject only to revision by such Governor in any case in which he may think revision called for.

Claims to waste lands.

VII. It shall be lawful for the Governor aforesaid to cause a survey or measurement to be made of all the land of the Settlement of Malacca and of the District of Naning or any portion thereof, at such time and by one or more persons as he may direct, and any person so empowered by the Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca may require by a summons under his hand any person resident within such Settlement or District to attend before him, and if necessary to produce any document relating to the right to any land or interest in land situated within such Settlement or District; and the person empowered as aforesaid may examine upon oath or solemn affirmation having the force of an oath, any person so summoned touching the right to any such land or interest in such land.

Survey or measurement of land.

VIII. If any person, resident within the said Settlement of Malacca, who shall be required by a summons issued under the last preceding Section to appear at a certain place and time for the purpose of attending at a survey or measurement under the said Section, or to produce before any person empowered under the said Section any such document as is mentioned in the said Section, intentionally omits to attend at that place or time or departs from the place where he is bound to attend without the permission of the person so empowered, or intentionally omits to produce such document before such person, he shall, on summary conviction before any Criminal Court within whose jurisdiction the offence is committed, be liable to be punished with simple imprisonment in the Civil Jail for a term that may extend to one month, or with fine that may extend to one hundred Rupees, or with both.

Penalty for non-attendance when summoned to a measurement.

IX. Any person so empowered as aforesaid may define by such marks as he may think fit the boundaries of any land held or occupied by any tenant, cultivator, or other occupier; and if, in the course of survey or measurement or in the course of making any settlement, transfer, or assignment, any dispute shall arise as to the right of possession of any land between two or more persons claiming to possess the same as tenants, cultivators, or occupiers, or between one or more such persons and any grantee or proprietor of any lands in the Settlement of Malacca not surrendered in the manner recited in Section I of this Act, or any person holding under such grantee or proprietor, any person empowered as aforesaid shall after enquiry make an order in favor of the party who may appear to have the best title and shall put in possession the party in whose favor an award is so made.

Adjudication of disputed possession.

X. Any award made under the last foregoing Section shall be final, unless within two months from the date of the award any of the parties thereto shall move the Court of Judicature of Malacca to set it aside, and such Court may on such motion confirm, set aside, or modify such award.

Effect of award under preceding Section.

XI. Sections VII, VIII, IX, X, XIV, and XV of Act X of 1837 (relating to claims to lands in Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca) shall, so far as applicable, be read as part of this Act.

Construction.

XII. The Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, in the exercise of any authority vested in him by this Act, shall be guided by such instructions as he shall from time to time receive from the Governor-General of India in Council.

Governor to be guided by instructions from the Government of India.

XIII. Nothing in this Act shall be held to warrant any exemption being granted or allowed in favor of any owner or occupier of land in respect of the Municipal rates and taxes levied under Act XXV of 1856 (to comprise in one Act the provisions necessary for the assessment and collection of Municipal rates and taxes in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and the several Stations of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca) or Act XXVII of 1856 (for appointing Municipal Commissioners, and for levying rates and taxes in the several Stations of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca).

No Officer on detached Command of less than three troops or companies, or of a Detachment numerically equal to three troops or companies, and not being on the line of march or on board a ship or other vessel, shall carry into effect any punishment awarded by a Court Martial held by his order, until the sentence shall have been confirmed by the Officer Commanding the Regiment or Corps to which the offender belongs, or by the nearest Superior Officer holding a Command of not less than a Regiment, who is hereby authorized to confirm every such sentence in like manner as an Officer Commanding a Regiment or Corps might do. Provided that in detached situations beyond the Sea or out of the British Territories in India, or when on service in the field, or in cases where an immediate example is necessary and reference cannot be made to such Commanding or Superior Officer without detriment to the service, the Officer Commanding such Detachment may exercise the powers which are vested in an Officer Commanding a Regiment or Corps.

The proceedings on such summary trial shall be conducted, so far as may be practicable, and shall be recorded, in the same manner as is provided in Article 81 for summary trials by an Officer Commanding a Regiment or Corps, and shall, in like manner, be signed and forwarded to the Officer Commanding the Division within which such Detachment shall be at the time, who is hereby authorized to set aside the trial for the same reasons that an Officer Commanding a Division is authorized by Article 81 to set aside a trial by an Officer Commanding a Regiment or Corps. Provided that every sentence so awarded by an Officer Commanding any such Detachment, or by any other Officer holding a trial under this Article, may be carried out without waiting for its approval by the reviewing Officer.

In awarding a sentence of death, a General Court Martial shall specify that the offender shall "suffer death by being hanged by the neck until he be dead," or "by being shot to death," as the Court in their discretion shall deem expedient, and such sentence, if confirmed, shall be carried into effect accordingly.

ARTICLE 87.

Whenever the sentence of a General Court Martial shall adjudge transportation, or sentence of death shall be commuted by competent authority to transportation, the offender shall be delivered over to the Officer in charge of the nearest Jail, and such Officer, in giving effect to the sentence, shall be guided by such order as he shall receive from the local Government.

Imprisonment with hard labor or solitary confinement.

Whenever any sentence of a Court Martial shall adjudge imprisonment with or without hard labor, or with solitary confinement, or both, or whenever the sentence of a Court Martial shall be commuted to any such imprisonment, it shall be the duty of every Officer in charge of a Jail, to give effect to such sentence, on the offender being delivered into his custody, with an authenticated copy of the sentence passed on the offender.

The period for which such person is in custody during such removal shall be reckoned as part of the original period of imprisonment, for which such person was sentenced. The Governor-General of India in Council may order the removal of any such person from any place of confinement in British India to any other place of confinement therein.

ARTICLE 90.

Powers of Commander-in-Chief of a Presidency to pardon certain offenders.

The Commander-in-Chief of any Presidency shall have power to pardon any person belonging to the Military Forces of such Presidency who shall have been convicted by a Court Martial of any offence against the Articles of War, which offence, wherever committed, is not punishable otherwise than by sentence of a Court Martial. Instead of granting a full pardon to any such person, the Commander-in-Chief of the Presidency may remit any part of the punishment awarded for the offence.

In any such case the Commander-in-Chief of the Presidency shall, together with a copy of the warrant or other instrument under which the offender is kept in custody in execution of the sentence, issue a warrant under his own hand, setting forth the offence of which the offender has been convicted, and pardoning or remitting such part of the punishment awarded for such offence as to him shall seem fit.

The said warrant shall be countersigned by the Magistrate of the zillah or city in which the offender is undergoing his sentence; or if he is confined in any prison within the limits of a Supreme Court of Judicature, shall be countersigned by a Judge of such Court; if it shall appear to such Magistrate or Judge that the offence, wherever committed, is not punishable by any authority other than that of a Court Martial; but not otherwise.

The Judge Advocate or Superintending Officer shall then cause the following Affirmation to be made by each Member:—

The duties of the Provost Marshal so appointed are to take charge of prisoners confined for offences of a general description; to preserve good order and discipline; and to prevent breaches of the same by Soldiers and followers of the Army. The Provost Marshal may punish on the spot, on the same day, any Soldier or follower who, in his view or in the view of any of his assistants, shall commit any breach of good order and Military discipline: Provided that the punishment be limited to the necessity of the case, and accord with the orders which the Provost Marshal may, from time to time, receive from the Officer commanding the troops. The local Government shall within the limits aforesaid fix the amount of the fee to be paid for such licenses respectively.

It shall be lawful for the local Government to compound, with any person licensed under this Act to manufacture and refine Saltpetre and to separate and purify Salt educed in the process of such manufacturing and refining, for the Duty payable on the Salt estimated to be separated by such person. The composition shall be made for one year only, and may be annually renewed, and shall be in such form, and subject to such provisions and pecuniary penalties, as the local Government shall prescribe. Such provisions and penalties shall be expressed in such license, and the person licensed shall sign a bond embodying such provisions and penalties, and binding him to the fulfilment of all conditions of such license.

VIII. Every manufactory of Saltpetre in the North-Western Provinces licensed under this Act, and a space not exceeding one hundred yards around such manufactory if the manufactory be also a refinery of Saltpetre, and not exceeding fifty yards if the manufactory be licensed for the manufacture of Saltpetre only, to be fixed by the local Government under Section III Act XIV of 1843 (for regulating the levy of Customs Duties and the manufacture of Salt in the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Bengal), shall be included in the Customs jurisdiction of the said Provinces; and the provisions of the said Act XIV of 1843 and of Act XXXVI of 1855 (to empower Officers of Customs and Land Revenue to search houses and other enclosed places for contraband Salt in the North-Western Provinces) shall apply to Salt manufactured, separated, or purified contrary to the provisions of this Act, and to such Customs jurisdiction.

It shall be lawful for the local Government of the North-Western Provinces, and of any other Presidency or place to which this Act shall be extended as hereinafter provided, to frame rules, which shall not be contrary to the provisions of this Act, for securing the Duty payable on Salt separated or purified under licenses to manufacture and refine Saltpetre and to separate and purify Salt educed in manufacturing and refining the same, for compositions under Section VII of this Act, and for the removal of Salt for which composition has been made, and otherwise to give effect to this Act. Such rules shall be published in the Official Gazette of such local Government, and shall have the same force and effect as if they were contained in this Act.

To what substances &c. this Act is applicable.

XI. The provisions of this Act, wherever it may be in force, shall apply to the manufacture of Russee, Sujjee, and all other substances manufactured from saline earth, and of Kharee Noon, or Glauber's Salt, and every other form of Sulphate of Soda, and to the works at which any such substance is manufactured.

XV. If upon the return of such warrant it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had whereon to levy such fine, and the same shall not be forthwith paid, or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of such Officer, by the confession of the offender or otherwise, that he has not sufficient goods and chattels whereupon such fine or sum of money could be levied if a warrant of distress were issued, any such Officer may, by warrant under his hand, commit the offender, provided he is not a European British subject, to prison, there to be imprisoned, according to the discretion of such Officer, for any term not exceeding two calendar months when the amount of fine shall not exceed fifty Rupees, and for any term not exceeding four calendar months when the amount shall not exceed one hundred Rupees, and for any term not exceeding six calendar months in any other case, the commitment to be determinable in each of the cases aforesaid on payment of the amount.

M. WYLIE,
Clerk of the Council.

ACT No. XXXII OF 1861.

An Act to postpone the operation of a portion of Clause 8 Section I of Act XIV of 1859 (to provide for the Limitation of Suits).

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to postpone the operation of so much of Act XIV of 1859 (to provide for the Limitation of Suits) as limits the period for the commencement of suits for the amount of bills for articles sold by retail; It is enacted as follows:—

Part of Clause 8 Section I of Act XIV of 1859 not to take effect before 1st July 1862.

I. That part of Clause 8 Section I of the said Act which relates to bills for articles sold by retail shall not take effect or have any operation before the 1st day of July 1862.

M. WYLIE,
Clerk of the Council.

THE 7TH SEPTEMBER 1861.

THE following Bill was read a second time in the Legislative Council of India on the 31st August 1861, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 11th of November next:—

A Bill to improve the system of Zemindary Dawks in the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the conveyance of letters on the public service between Police Stations and the Magisterial Offices of the Districts subject to the Government of Bengal as authorized by law is defective, irregular, and uncertain: and whereas the payment of the dawk-runners now appointed by the Zemindars to perform the duty of conveying such letters is not properly provided for: and whereas the whole system requires to be amended and placed on a better footing; It is enacted as follows:—

Section X Regulation XX. 1817 repealed.

I. From and after the passing of this Act, the provisions of Section X Regulation XX. 1817 shall cease to have effect in the Lower Provinces of Bengal.

Appointment, remuneration, and removal of dawk-runners, &c.

II. From and after the passing of this Act the appointment of dawk-runners and other officials necessary for the performance of the service of transporting all letters or packets conveyed between Police Stations and Magistrates of Districts or Officers in charge of Sub-divisions, shall be vested exclusively in the Magistrate of the District, or in such Officers as the local Government may from time to time direct; and no proprietor or farmer of land and no local Agent of such proprietor or farmer shall have any concern in the appointment of pykes, peons, or runners for the above duty. The decision of all questions regarding the salaries or the removal of such runners or other subordinate officers shall rest with the Magistrate or with such other Officer as the Government may appoint, and with no one else.

Collection of funds and assessment of amount payable by each Zemindar.

III. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or for such Officers as the local Government may direct, to collect the funds necessary for the payment of the establishments required for the transport of letters by such zemindary dawks, from the Zemindars paying revenue direct to Government, or from the farmers of land in each District, and to apportion, rateably, the sums to be paid on this account by each Zemindar.

Mode of assessment.

IV. The Magistrate or other Officer shall, in the performance of this duty, first fix the total sum necessary for the efficient service of the zemindary dawks on the various lines of his District, and shall then proceed to apportion the above amount rateably, to the Zemindars of the whole District being Sudder Proprietors or farmers of land. No Zemindar or farmer of land shall hereafter be exempted from liability on the ground that no zemindary dawk passes through any portion of his estates.

Appointment, &c., of local Committee for assessment.

V. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer nominated by Government to perform this duty, to appoint a local Committee composed of such of the District authorities and the Zemindars as he may think fit, in order to determine the amount payable by each Zemindar for the purposes of this Act. The Magistrate shall be the President of any such Committee and shall have a casting vote at all deliberations. One appeal and no more shall lie to the Commissioner of the Division from any final order of a Magistrate or other Officer or of a local Committee, imposing any pecuniary liability above the sum of ten Rupees a quarter on any Zemindar or farmer of land for the defrayal of the above Postal service.

Exemption.

VI. It shall be competent to the local Government, by an order to that effect, to exempt from the above liability any Zemindars or farmers the Sudder

Jumma of whose estates in any one District does not exceed the sum of fifty Rupees a year.

Mode of collection.

VII. The sums leviable under the apportionment of the Magistrate or local Committee under this Act shall be collected quarterly and in advance from the parties liable, by the Magistrate or other Officer appointed; and any Zemindar or farmer, and any local Agent refusing or delaying to pay the quota imposed on him shall be liable to a fine of one hundred Rupees for each offence, such fine to be leviable by distraint and sale of moveable property, or, in default of assets, to be commutable to one month's imprisonment in the Civil Jail. The sums leviable under this Act for the purposes of the dawks shall be made good also by the above process, in all cases of default. Cases under this Act may be instituted either in the District where the estate on account of which the rate is imposed is situated, or in the District where the owner or farmer of such estate habitually resides.

Operation of Act.

VIII. This Act shall take effect in the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, but shall not apply to the Province of Arracan or to that of Assam with the exception of the District of Gowalparah.

Local Government to frame general rules.

IX. It shall be competent for the local Government to frame general rules for the guidance of the authorities and for the transport of the dawks established by this Act, provided such rules be not incompatible with its provisions, or with the provisions of Act XVII of 1854 (for the management of the Post Office, for the regulation of the duties of Postage, and for the punishment of offences against the Post Office.)

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Fort William, the 12th September 1861.

No. 806 of 1861.—The following paragraphs of a Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 297 of the 25th July 1861, are published for general information:—

1. The 30th Clause of your General Order, No. 332 of the 10th April, lays down generally the Rule regarding pay and promotion of Officers of the Indian Artillery Regiments "who are willing to serve out of India, and may be permitted to do so."

2. It has now become necessary to determine more specifically the conditions under which Officers of Artillery and Engineers may be permitted to avail themselves of the option of general service.

3. It must be clearly understood, in the first place, that India has the first claim to the services of all the Officers who have entered the Indian Armies, and that no Officer can be available for employment out of India (except during Furlough) unless the Government of the Presidency to which he belongs is willing to dispense with his services; and further, that it will rest with His Royal Highness the General Commanding-in-Chief to give or not to give employment to Officers volunteering for general service out of India, whose services are placed at his disposal by the Secretary of State, on the recommendation of the Indian Government.

4. Of the Officers of Artillery, it is not improbable that a proportion may be available for this service without public inconvenience. Their organization into fourteen Brigades provides in each Presidency a surplus of Officers above the complement of the Batteries which it is at present intended to maintain for duty with Irregular Native Artillery and for other detached employment; and, irrespective of the Officers who may possibly be spared without detriment to the public interests for service out of India, there would be no objection to permit Artillery Officers of the late Indian Army, who may wish for service out of India, to exchange with Artillery Officers of corresponding rank serving elsewhere, provided that the services of Officers with Indian experience can be spared in that country; but of course no such arrangement can take effect without the formal consent of the General Commanding-in-Chief of the British Army, of the Secretary of State for India, and of the Government of the Presidency to which the Indian Officer wishing to exchange may belong.

5. In such cases, the Officer of Royal Artillery undertaking service in India will be on the same footing as all other Officers of the Royal Artillery serving in that country.

6. The Indian Officer exchanging for service out of India will be on the same footing as Officers of Royal Artillery serving out of India, except that he will be permitted to reckon for retiring Pension under the Indian Regulations only half the time of his employment out of India. His position with respect to the Military and Orphan Funds of his Presidency will be governed by the rules of those Institutions respectively. His promotion will go on in the list of the Regiment of late Indian Artillery to which he may have belonged.

7. In accordance with the usual practice in all similar cases, the Officers so exchanging will not be entitled to passage money at the public charge.

8. Exchanges will be permitted, on terms and conditions similar to those above described, between Officers of the Royal and late Indian Engineer Corps; but, in accordance with the provisions of the 42nd paragraph of your General Order, the Officers of Royal Engineers undertaking service in India must be prepared to perform the several duties required from Engineer Officers in the Public Works Department, and will be subject in all respects to the rules of that Department for the time being.

9. Officers of Artillery and Engineers of the former Indian Service wishing to avail themselves of the terms above described may submit their applications through their Commanding Officer or the Heads of their Departments respectively to the Adjutant-General of the Army in India, by whom they will be forwarded, with such remarks as His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief may think proper, to the Secretary to Government in the Military Department, and it will rest with the Local Government to transmit the names of such Officers from time to time for the information of the Secretary of State for India.

10. The sanction of the Government of India having been obtained, it will rest with Officers of the late Indian Regiments to make arrangements for exchange with Officers of equal rank serving in any other part of the world, and to submit their joint applications to the Adjutant-General of the Forces at the Horse Guards for the approval of His Royal Highness the General Commanding-in-Chief.

No. 807 of 1861.—The following paragraphs of a Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 320, dated 10th August 1861, and the document referred to in paragraph 11 thereof, are published for general information:—

INDIA OFFICE,
London, 10*th August* 1861.

MILITARY.
No. 320.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,—I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your Military Despatch No. 61, dated 4th May 1861, transmitting a copy of the third Report by the Commission appointed at Calcutta to arrange the details of the re-organization of the Army.

2. I have carefully considered in Council the proposal contained in that Report for inducing a large number of the Senior Officers of Her Majesty's Indian Forces to retire from the Service by the offer of enhanced Pensions, together with the Minutes thereon recorded by the Members of your Government, including that subsequently received from His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief; and I have now to inform you of the conclusions which Her Majesty's Government have arrived at on the perusal of these important papers.

6. In calculating the number of Officers likely to become Supernumerary under the new arrangements, the Commission have assumed that the complement of Officers with Native Regiments in all the Presidencies will be at once reduced to six; but this assumption, as observed in your Despatch, is erroneous. The ultimate adoption of what has hitherto been called the irregular system in the Native Armies of the three Presidencies has, indeed, been determined upon; but, the introduction of this change in the few Regiments of the Bengal Army, which have retained their old organization, and in the Armies of Madras and Bombay, was intended to be gradual. The views expressed on this subject in the 41st paragraph of your Despatch, No. 65 of the 4th May, are entirely in accordance with the intentions of Her Majesty's Government.

7. Under these circumstances there could be no advantage in making so large a reduction of the number of Officers in the Madras and Bombay Presidencies; and even in Bengal the retention of a moderate number of Officers in excess of that exactly calculated for the present wants of the Service will be a measure of prudence and public convenience. It will afford time to test by experience the estimate of the future requirements of the Service, and will furnish for some time, after the first formation of the Staff Corps, a valuable reserve, from which to draw Officers of some Indian experience to fill vacancies, which must otherwise be supplied by taking Officers from the Line Regiments to an inconvenient extent.

8. The Estimates of the number of Officers that will be surplus under the new organization are very discordant; that put forward by the Commission is, as I have before observed, greatly exaggerated, and, on the other hand, I am not prepared to admit the necessity for so large a reserve of Officers for Native Regiments as that proposed by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

9. It is certain, however, that, in consequence of the reductions which have been and will be effected in the number of Native Regiments in the Armies of the three Presidencies, there will be a considerable number of Officers in the ranks of Lieutenant-Colonel and Major beyond those for whom suitable employment can now be found in Regimental Commands, and in the higher positions of the Army Staff; and that this is especially the case in the Bengal Presidency, where the old Native Army was almost entirely broken up by the Mutiny, and the new Levies raised to take the place of the Regular Native Regiments were organized and are now commanded by younger men.

10. Under the changes which have thus taken place, a considerable proportion of the Field Officers of the Native Armies are deprived of the advantage which they enjoyed under the old system, of continuing to serve in India in Command of Regiments until entitled to Colonel's allowances; and I concur in the opinion expressed by your Government, and by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, that it would be just and expedient to facilitate the retirement of such Officers by the offer of any terms which would not entail an undue financial loss on the State.

11. After much consideration I have resolved to offer to the Regimental Field Officers of the [illegible]ncies annuities (in addition to the [illegible]hich they may be entitled under the [illegible]according to the accompanying Gra[illegible]e, in the preparation of which I have abstained from attempting to make any [illegible] calculation of the value of each Officer's Major, and have thrown the whole of such Officers into groups, allotting an annuity of the same amount to every Officer in each group.

12. With this Scale as your guide, you are authorized to offer to the whole of the Field Officers of Cavalry and Infantry of Her Majesty's Indian Forces, as they stand on the Effective Lists of Lieutenant-Colonels and Majors Regimentally in their several Presidencies, the option of retiring from the Service, at a given prospective date, upon the annuities to which they may become entitled under this scheme.

13. In carrying this plan into effect, I desire that you will cause to be prepared and published, as soon as possible, after the 1st October next, Nominal Rolls of the Field Officers of Cavalry and Infantry as they stand on the Effective Lists of Lieutenant-Colonels and Majors Regimentally, according to the Official Records of the Adjutants-General of the three Presidencies on the 1st of October, grouped after the principle exhibited in the accompanying Scale, with a Notification to these Officers that they will be permitted to retire with the annuities placed opposite their respective names, provided their applications are received and laid before their respective Governments on or before the 15th December next.

14. It is to be clearly understood that the annuity granted to each Officer will be that due to his position in the above Nominal Roll, and that no change whatever in that position, or in the annuity assigned to him, will be admitted as a consequence of any casualty that may occur or become known at the Adjutant-General's Office subsequent to the 1st October.

15. All retirements under this scheme will date from the 31st December next, and promotions arising out of such retirements will take effect from 1st January following, and will be carried on in the manner and to the extent to be now explained.

16. In a former Despatch,* I stated my intention of gradually reducing the number of Colonels in receipt of Colonels' allowance, by making for the future three promotions only for every four casualties among their rank.

* No. 27, para. 8.

17. Considering the very liberal provision now offered to the Senior Effective Officers of the Indian Army, and the very great expense that will be entailed upon the Government of India thereby, the most obvious and equitable mode of effecting the reduction, so as at once to make compensation for the severe strain that would otherwise be imposed upon our Finances, will be to retain upon the list of Lieutenant-Colonels in the several Presidencies the names (printed in italics) of such of their body as retire under the conditions now offered, and to regulate the succession to Colonel and to Colonel's allowance thereby. This arrangement, therefore, will supersede that detailed in paragraph 8 of my Despatch No. 27.

18. The working of the system may be illustrated thus:—Should the Senior Lieutenant-Colonel be among those who retire under the scheme, his name will remain in the usual place on the list until his death, or until a casualty occurs among the Colonels, in either of which cases his name will be removed, no promotion being made. On another casualty occurring among the Regimental Colonels, should the name then at the head of the list of Lieutenant-Colonels be that of an Officer who has not retired under the operation of the present scheme, he will succeed as usual to the rank and allowances of Colonel, and promotions will be made in succession.

19. I further propose that promotion in succession to the Lieutenant-Colonels, who retire under this order, shall be made in the proportion of one to two of such retirements, these promotions being made on the principle illustrated in paragraphs 59 and 60 of your General Order of the 10th April 1861.

20. By this course you will observe that very great promotion will be at once given to the Captains and to the junior Officers of the Army; that the establishment of Lieutenant-Colonels will be immediately reduced to a certain extent; and that of Colonel in receipt of Colonel's allowance, gradually brought down to a strength (to be hereafter defined) proportionate to the number of Commissioned Officers remaining on the General List.

21. The future strength of the establishment of Colonels in receipt of Colonel's allowance will depend on the result of the several measures, now in progress, connected with the re-organization of the Indian Army. When those results are fully known, I shall be in a position to communicate to you my intentions upon this point.

22. Should the numbers of Field Officers, who make application to retire upon these terms fall short of 300 (in the three Presidencies), you are authorized to offer annuities of £120 per annum to so many of the Regimental Captains of the three Armies as may suffice to make up that number, making the offer to them in succession, according to length of service, reckoned from date of first Commission, and confining the offer to men of or above twenty-five years' service. It will be necessary, therefore "in promulgating this scheme, to call upon all Regimental Captains of or above twenty-five years' service to declare their wishes as to retiring under the above conditions should the opportunity be eventually afforded them.

23. I have considered and adopted the resolution now made known to you, under the impression that it is most desirable to put an end to the suspense under which Officers have been suffering, and in order that they may know their exact position and prospects, and may be enabled to make their election without further delay.

24. It is my wish that the option of retiring upon these terms may be given to all Regimental Lieutenant-Colonels and Majors of Cavalry and Infantry on the Effective List of the three Presidencies, including such as may have already elected for the new Line Regiments or the Staff Corps.

25. Notification of this measure will be published in the London Gazette for the information of Officers in this country, who will be informed that their applications to be permitted to retire on additional Pension under the above scheme must be addressed to the Secretary to Government in the Military Department of their respective Presidencies, and it will be intimated that it is a final arrangement, and that no further proposals connected with schemes for the retirement of Indian Officers will be entertained.

26. I desire that you will give a similar intimation in promulgating the scheme to the Officers of the Indian Army.

27. It will be observed that, in accordance with the proposal of the Amalgamation Commission, I have not contemplated extending the option of retirement with enhanced Pension to Field Officers of Artillery and Engineers. These Regiments stand on a very different footing from the rest of the Army with regard to the recent changes. Their organization is modified, not broken up, and the modifications are, on the whole, very favorable to the Officers. Nor am I prepared to admit any claim of the nature referred to in the 55th paragraph of the Commission's Report, on account of compensation for the presumed extinction of their retiring funds. These funds, though permitted, have never been officially recognized by the late Court of Directors, nor by Her Majesty's Government. The Officers joining them have already received some value for their subscriptions, in the shape of accelerated Regimental promotion, and in a more early succession to Commands and Staff appointments. The routine of promotion being maintained without disturbance in the Indian Ordnance Corps, there is no reason why their retiring funds should now be abruptly closed, should the Officers wish to continue them; but, admitting that some loss may eventually fall on individual Officers on this account, it is not of a nature to form a proper subject for compensation.

FORT WILLIAM,
The 10th September 1861.

Notification.

THE attention of Treasury Officers is solicited to the Notification issued from this Office on the 4th instant (see Calcutta Gazette, page 2695), and to the following rules for the preparation of the "Monthly Estimate of probable Receipts and Disbursements":—

Collectors are reminded that correctness in these Estimates is of the utmost importance, as it is otherwise utterly impossible for this Office to render reliable statements or accurate information to the Financial Department of the Supreme Government.

1. The object of the first and second columns on the debit and credit side of the Return has already been explained, and it is only necessary to add that the information required by their headings should not be lumped at the top of the column, but given item by item and totalled at foot.

2. "Probable Receipts."—This column has been carefully prepared, and is intended to include every possible item of receipt. No additions should, therefore, be ever made to it in manuscript without the express authority of the Accountant-General. The same rule applies to the heading of "Probable Disbursements."

3. The three items of Land Revenue, Sayer, and Abkarree, under "Land Revenue," should be carefully kept distinct.

4. "Income Tax" should be distinctly detailed under the three headings given of one, two, and three per centum.

5. Cash Remittances should not be entered unless notice has been received from the Civil Pay-Master to the effect that a remittance has been ordered, and in such case the name of the remitting Treasury should be shewn in the column of "remarks."

6. The "Total Receipts" of a month should include the cash balance on the 1st of the month.

7. A "probable deficiency" should only be shewn where a deficiency is actually expected by the disbursements being in excess of the sum of the cash balance and receipts; the amount of disbursements should not, as has been done in many cases, be exhibited as a deficiency, by which an erroneous "Grand Total" of Receipts and Disbursements is given.

8. The opening Balance of the Sheet should correspond with the "Cash Balance Report" of the close of the preceding month, with this exception that, while the latter should give the exact sum in a Treasury, so as to tally with the Monthly Treasury Accounts, the Estimate should exhibit no fractions of a Rupee and Rupees (where practicable), in even hundreds only, thus:—

9. PROBABLE DISBURSEMENTS.—Rule 5 will apply to expected Disbursements by Cash Remittances, which should not be calculated in anticipation of the Civil Pay-Master's orders.

10. The name of the Treasury to which the Remittance is to be made should appear in the column of remarks.

11. Transfer Remittances should be estimated and explained under column of remarks.

12. The "Cash Balance" at the foot of the column refers to the last day of the month.

13. The closing Cash Balance of one month forms the opening Cash Balance ("Probable Receipts") of the next.

14. The Grand Totals on the two sides of the account should tally.

15. Printed Forms (to be had at the Alipore Jail Press) should always be used for Treasury Estimates.

Civil Pay-Master.

Financial Department.

Assessment of the Income Tax in the City of Benares.

From SIR GEORGE COUPER, BART., Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces, to C. H. LUSHINGTON, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of India, in the Financial Department,—(dated Nynee Tal, 17th July 1861.)

SIR,—I AM directed by the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor to forward to you, for the information of His Excellency the Viceroy in Council, copies of a letter from the Secretary to the Sudder Board of Revenue dated 22nd ultimo, and of its enclosures, relative to the lump assessment in the City of Benares and the completion of operations for 1860-61, in the Benares District, and to offer the following remarks of the Lieutenant-Governor thereon:—

2. It appears to His Honor that the lump assessment has been carried out by the Native Committee with great judgment and impartiality, as shewn by their Report, and by the paucity of complaints against their distribution of the burthen. But if, as may be fairly assumed from the high respectability of the Members, there is truth in their statements, and in the assertion that, after taxing every person liable to duties under the Act to the utmost allowable limit, the more opulent of the residents have had to take upon themselves the payment of Rupees 25,000 to make up the amount agreed upon, a strong argument is furnished against recognizing generally the principal of lump assessments.

3. It was, indeed, in view of the probability that it would tell against the interest of the poorer classes, rather than of the well-to-do residents, that the Lieutenant-Governor objected to the system of lump assessments, but it is no more right that the Government should benefit by undue exaction from the latter than that they should benefit by the oppression of the poor; and it would seem, from the experience which has been gained at Allahabad and Benares, that one or the other contingency is likely to happen.

4. The Sudder Board of Revenue will be informed of His Honor's view, and advised that, unless the City of Benares should solicit the repetition of a lump assessment for the next year, whether at the old rate, or at any other reasonable rate, the Income Tax must be assessed according to the general provisions of the Act.

5. Notwithstanding what the Committee say as to the inability of the City to pay Rupees 1,25,000, the average rate per tax payer of Rupees 17-3-7, and of 10 annas 1 pie per head of the City population, is not materially in excess of the like averages in semi-rural Districts, as will be seen on reference to the enclosures of my letter No. 207*a*, dated the 24th ultimo.

6. The Report of the Native Committee curiously confirms the opinions which have been expressed by the majority of the Officers under this Government, and which the Lieutenant-Governor himself entertains, that (1*st*) the Natives of this country are totally indifferent as to secrecy in respect of the amounts assessed upon them, though they will not disclose the sources thereof; and (2*ndly*) that correct Returns of Income will never be obtained. "We know," say the Committee, "there are very few men who are disposed to give a true statement of their incomes, and we know how difficult it is to prove the exact amount of one's income without a tedious and irritating enquiry." This testimony is valuable as coming from Natives of the highest respectability, especially at the present time, when the Government of India is seeking suggestions for the improved working of the Income Tax Act.

7. The Native Committee, under the guidance of Rajah Deo Narain Sing Bahadoor, have, in His Honor's judgment, accomplished the arduous and invidious duty which they undertook with much ability, integrity, and conscientiousness, and are entitled to commendation. There has been no complaint of oppression from their hands; the appeals from their allotment have been few; those in which success has been obtained are fewer still; and the Lieutenant-Governor thinks that the arguments advanced in their own intelligent Report go to shew that, while true to their engagement, they and the richer residents of the City have overtaxed themselves to fulfil it; they have spared no man liable to the duty nor brought under the operation of the Act any man not fairly liable. They have acted with complete openness and fairness throughout.

8. His Honor will make known to Rajah Deo Narain Sing the great value which he attaches to his services at the Head of the Native Committee, and will request him to convey his thanks to his associates. If it should please the Governor General to convey the expression of his approval to the Rajah, it will be highly gratifying to him.

From W. H. Lowe, Esq., Secretary to the Sudder Board of Revenue of the North-Western Provinces, Allahabad, to Sir George Couper, Bart., and C. B., Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces,—(dated Allahabad, 22nd June 1861.)

Sir,—With reference to paragraph 6 of the orders of Government, in the Revenue (Income Tax) Department, dated the 14th December last, I am directed by the Sudder Board of Revenue to submit, for the consideration and orders of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, copies of papers relative to the lump assessments of the Income Tax in the City, and completion of operations for 1860-61, in the Benares District.

2. The Committee appear to have discharged their duty in a most satisfactory and impartial manner. There have been no complaints of oppression or of unjust assessment, and, owing to the City having been taxed without any charge for Establishment, the percentage of cost for the whole District amounts only to the small sum of Rupees 2-8-8.

3. The Board have not the means of ascertaining the amount that might be realized from the City of Benares by individual assessment; but it the inhabitants are willing to renew the lump assessment for the same amount, Rupees 1,25,000, for next year, the Board would recommend that their offer be accepted.

4. The Board would suggest that a letter of acknowledgment of his services would be very acceptable to Rajah Deo Narain Sing, the President of the Committee, and he might be requested to convey to the Members of the Committee His Honor's approbation of the valuable aid which they have afforded.

5. I am to add that Sheo Suhai will, in due course, be recommended for the appointment of Deputy Collector.

From the Collector of Benares, to W. H. Lowe, Esq., Secretary to the Sudder Board of Revenue, North-Western Provinces, Allahabad,—(dated 29th April 1861.)

Sir,—I have the honor to submit a letter, in original, addressed to me by the leading Members of the Committee for distributing the lump assessment sanctioned by Government for the City of Benares among the residents.

2. In soliciting sanction to the lump assessment, I represented to the Board the wishes of the residents of Benares, with respect to the conditions contained in their agreement, that they were not to be assessed for profits under Schedule II., and for house property under Schedule I., in any other District or place save in Benares, or, in other words, that those receiving profits from transactions or house property in other Districts were to be assessed for the same at Benares and at no other place, and in consideration of this condition they were willing to exempt from assessment in Benares the residents of other Districts similarly situated These conditions were adopted on the same principle as the arrangements made at Allahabad. The Lieutenant-Governor was pleased to consent to these terms as the basis of the lump assessment.

3. The manner in which operations were commenced is partially described in the enclosure. The wealthy men of the City assembled and put down their names for certain sums rather in the shape of subscriptions towards the lump assessment than as the quotas due from them; many of these who would have escaped under an individual assessment for small sums subscribed double the amount for which they were liable. I could give instances of these were it necessary. The object was to raise as much as possible at first starting among the respectable citizens, so that the burden might fall more lightly on the poorer classes.

4. The Members of the Committee also undertook among themselves to make up any deficiency that might exist after a fair assessment had been fixed on the people.

5. The result is shewn in paragraph 7 of the Committee's Report. After including the subscriptions alluded to, and assessments from all the people, there was still a deficiency of Rupees 25,000. The Committee, as you will see, thought at one time of making up this sum by an additional assessment at the rate of 25 per cent. from the people; but to their credit, be it said, they soon abandoned this idea, and by contributions from among themselves they raised the money. The burden of the tax has then essentially fallen on the wealthy and respectable class, and although the poorer classes have also contributed, still the tax has not fallen oppressively on them at the same time that they appear to have been fairly taxed.

6. The result of these operations has, to my mind, borne out the opinion I formerly expressed as to the amount of Income Tax derivable from the City of Benares.

7. The work of assessing incomes has proved to be so much more arduous than was anticipated, that, notwithstanding the Committee have labored incessantly, they are only just now completing their work. The accompanying Abstract Statement will shew in a measure the extent of the Committee's labors; the detailed Statement has been kept in the Collector's Office. Six thousand eight hundred and four persons have been taxed in the aggregate Rupees 1,21,467-14-0; one or two Mohullas still remain to be assessed, so that the members of the payers will be much larger, the proportion distributed on the above numbers gives the average rate of Rupees 17-13-7 per head. But of those taxed, I find, by a reference to the detailed papers, that forty-nine persons have been assessed in the sum of Rupees 53,035, or at the rate of Rupees 1,082-5-6 per head as per margin.

8. I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the excellent service rendered by Lalla Sheo Suhai.

I have been repeatedly told by Members of the Committee that but for the aid afforded by Sheo Suhai, the Committee's labors would have been much prolonged. I trust the Board may view favorably this assistance, and express their approbation of Sheo Suhai.

9. I beg to enclose an expression of the Committee's opinion regarding Sheo Suhai.

10. I regret that circumstances should have prevented me from incorporating in this Report the result of the Income Tax arrangements for the rest of the Benares District. The assessments are completed, but the delay caused by the necessity of giving the persons assessed an opportunity of objecting to the surcharges invariably imposed has prevented the preparation of statistical information on the subject.

11. In conclusion, I have only to remark that I consider the Committee of the City Lump Assessment have exercised a wise discretion in their proceedings. Objections have certainly been made, but explanations from the working Members of the Committee have invariably demonstrated the unreasonableness of such objections. I consider that I am under an obligation to the Committee for relieving me of so arduous a task as the assessment of the City, a matter which, from the novelty of the Law, would have entailed very considerable labor; I beg therefore to record my thanks to them.

From SOMBHU NARAYANA SUILA, RAJAH DEO NARAYANA SUILA BAHADOOR, and NARAYANA COT, to F. M. LIND, Esq., Collector of Benares,—(dated 27th April 1861.)

SIR,—As our labors have now drawn towards a close, we have the honor to submit, for your information, a brief Report of our operations in assessing this City and levying the Income Tax.

2. It was agreed at first that the papers of assessment should not be made public, but as we have no object to gain by keeping them secret, and as they may assist future Assessors, to a great degree, in the performance of their work, we have resolved unanimously to submit them also to you with this Report.

3. It is to be borne in mind that here neither did Government appoint "Punches" to assess the City, nor did a few men, having elected themselves as "Punches," take upon themselves to assist it. The bargain was closed between the Government and the whole population of Benares. The Government fixed the amount at one lac and twenty-five thousand Rupees, and left the arrangement of assessment and collection entirely to the population, with a proviso that you should have power to hear all complaints and cancel their assessment when you thought proper to do so.

4. In an assembly of about 400 men of all guilds and professions, forming a complete and perfect representation of the City, the first step to be taken was to elect a Committee. The persons noted in the margin were noted without a division, and every body expressed his satisfaction with the selection. The Members of the Committee, having no object to gain, and running a great risk of becoming unpopular in the course of the discharge of their duty, hesitated to accept such an arduous post; but as the people assembled would not make other selection, and as the interest of all Benares were concerned, they consented, though reluctantly, to be placed upon the Committee.

5. The first request that the Members of the Committee made to the people assembled was to assess them on the spot, and so the Members of the Committee were assessed by the people assembled on the spot to universal satisfaction; and many of them, to set a good example, voluntarily increased the amount which was fixed for them by the people. This was necessary, otherwise those who are unacquainted with the facts might have thought that the rich men of Benares had shifted their burden to the shoulders of the poor.

6. Your allowing Moonshee Sheo Suhai to become our Secretary was a great boon to us. He had already prepared a very correct Register, from Chowkeedaree Registers and enquiries from Mukhtars of Mohullas, of those persons who were considered to be liable to taxation. This we made the basis of our proceedings. We sent for these persons, Mohulla by Mohulla, through the Phatuckhbundees, and when they came before our Committee, which regularly met at the house of Rajah Deo Narain Sing Bahadoor every afternoon for the last five months, we asked every one of them personally and individually what he would pay. It was no use to ask what was his income. We Natives do not like such a question to be put to us, we take it as an insult. We know there are very few men who are disposed to give a true statement of their incomes, and we know how difficult it is to prove the exact amount of one's income without a tedious and irritating enquiry. The man to be assessed of course named the smallest sum he dared, but it required little time, by giving examples and by disclosing some of the facts connected with his wealth and transactions with one or the other, of which it was impossible that even one of our Members should not be acquainted, to make him agree to pay such a sum as was thought proper by the Committee according to his known "Haisujat." As soon as he agreed, his name was written down in a Register kept for the purpose, with the amount of his assessment, and he had to sign his name opposite to it. As soon as the men were assessed, they lodged the money for the whole year with Baba Huruck Chund, our Treasurer, and took a printed receipt from his Kothee.

7. With all the trouble which we have taken not to allow any one to escape without assessment or with a light assessment, we could not raise the amount beyond a lac of Rupees. To speak conscientiously, had we adhered strictly to the rules laid down in the Act, we could not have raised it even to Rupees eighty thousand. We met and consulted. We could have increased the whole assessment by 25 per cent. to make up the deficiency, as had been agreed beforehand; but we were conscious that many a poor man had already been assessed as highly as he could bear, and that any increase would be ruinous to him. We took the additional burden upon ourselves, and upon our class, the richest and wealthiest in Benares, and we thus raised Rupees 25,000 more. This includes the assessment of a few temples and priests also whom we have exempted, and for whom we have taken upon ourselves to pay the tax.

8. From the annexed papers you will see that 6,804 men have been taxed. Of these one pays four thousand, another three thousand, seventeen pay more than one thousand, forty more than five hundred, forty-eight more than two hundred, 145 more than one hundred, 256 more than fifty, 1,186 more than twenty-five, 2,567 more than four, and 2,513 four Rupees.

9. Out of a population of 184,000 souls 6,804 men are taxed. The average* comes to Rupees 17-13-7 per man taxed, or 10 annas 1 pie per soul in the City. If we give four souls to one family out of 46,000 families in Benares, only 6,804 families have been taxed.

* The average is struck from Rupees 1,21,467-14-0, which is the amount of assessment up to this date.

10. Though we have tried to our utmost to discharge our duties most conscientiously, yet we find it beyond our power to convince those who form their opinions without any enquiry or examination of the facts how the case really stands. The calumnies raised against us can easily be resolved into two: First, that Benares has cheated the Government; it could afford more. Second, that the rich men have escaped lightly, and the poor have been oppressed. For the first, we challenge any person who is disposed to take the trouble to name a single man who could have been taxed and whom we have not taxed, or who has escaped with an under-assessment; we were not mad to exempt others, or under-assess them, only to take a further burden of Rupees 25,000 upon ourselves. For the second, it is enough to state that the very wealthy men are not many, and it is not difficult for you to satisfy yourself of their circumstances. Benares is a place of wealth, but not of great active trade. Benares is full of Capitalists, but has not much income. The tax can amount to Rupees 1,25,000 when those of the citizens, whose incomes exceed Rupees 500, receive a net profit of Rupees 31,25,000 per annum. Rai Narain Doss has been taxed Rupees 4,000. Now, who will say that his annual income is a clear lac of Rupees? Babu Hurshunkerpershaud Sing has paid Rupees 1,100, and that only for two houses, which cannot be let even at a rack-rent for more than Rupees 3,600 per annum; he is in debt, and his debt increases every year. Raja Kalkaparsad has paid Rupees 300; he has no income; he periodically sells some of the jewels which he brought from Hyderabad, and lives upon the produce. As the Register of assessment is annexed herewith, we need not multiply such instances. We have noted down our remarks in the Register. Some even go so far as to say that we have included in our assessment many of those whose income does not amount to Rupees 200. Now, if even 6,804 men in Benares cannot come under the operation of the Law, how was it that Rupees 1,25,000 was fixed for Benares? We shall be obliged to any one who can point out a single untaxed man richer than those whom we have taxed.

11. In conclusion, we beg to bring the valuable services of Moonshee Sheo Suhai to your favorable notice. Without him we could have done nothing. He has acted all along with the greatest zeal and perfect honesty. We cannot detain him longer from returning to his post in your Office, but shall be obliged by his devoting an hour or two to our assistance till the accounts are finally settled.

12. The names of those few persons who are still to be assessed shall be submitted to you in the form of an addendum, and if there is any money left in excess of Rupees 1,25,000, after paying a few hundred Rupees on account of Stationery, Contingencies, &c., the remainder will be divided proportionably and returned to those who, over and above the sums in which they were severally assessed, have made up the deficiency of Rupees 25,000.

RESOLUTION, DATED THE 16TH AUGUST 1861.

THE Governor General in Council observes, on a consideration of the above-mentioned papers, that the Report regarding the working of the lump assessment of the Income Tax in the City of Benares is a remarkable paper; and that the conclusion which His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor draws from it as to lump assessment, is a legitimate one.

* * * * * * * *

His Excellency in Council desires that the thanks of the Governor General in Council be communicated to Rajah Deo Narain Sing, the President of the Benares Committee, for his services.

Proviso.

CHAPTER III.

Preliminary Rules.

43. In all Criminal Courts complainants and witnesses shall be examined upon oath or affirmation, or otherwise, according to the provisions of the law for the time being in force in relation to the examination of witnesses.

Complainants and witnesses to be examined according to law for time being in force.

44. In cases in which by the sentence or order of any Criminal Court a fine is imposed upon a conviction for any offence made punishable by fine, whether the offence be punishable or punished by fine only or otherwise, it shall be lawful for such Court to order that the fine or any part thereof, not exceeding the loss appearing to be caused to the person who has suffered by such offence, and any special damage of a pecuniary nature that may have resulted to such person by such offence, and any expenses incurred by the complainant in the prosecution, as the Court may consider reasonable and proper, be paid to or for the benefit of such person according to the discretion of the Court, and in every such case the fine when levied or paid shall be paid and distributed accordingly. If the fine be awarded by a Court whose decision is subject to revision, the amount awarded to the person injured shall not be paid to such person until a period of two months shall have elapsed from the date of the award.

Court may apply portion of fine in compensation for loss or damage caused, &c.

45. In every case punishable with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment, the Criminal Courts shall be guided by the provisions of Sections 64 and 65 of the Indian Penal Code in awarding the period of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine. Provided that, in every such case decided by a Magistrate, the period of imprisonment awarded in default of payment of the fine shall, in no case, exceed one-fourth of the period of imprisonment which such Magistrate is competent to inflict as punishment for the offence otherwise than as imprisonment in default of payment of the fine.

Imprisonment in default of payment of fine.

Proviso.

Sentence in cases of conviction of two or more offences.

46. When a person shall be convicted at one time of two or more offences punishable under the same or different Sections of the Indian Penal Code, it shall be lawful for the Court to sentence such person for the offences of which he shall have been convicted to the several penalties prescribed by the said Code which such Court is competent to inflict; such penalties when consisting of imprisonment to commence the one after the expiration of the other. It shall not be necessary for the Court, by reason only of the aggregate punishment for the several offences being in excess of the punishment which such Court is competent to inflict on conviction of a single offence, to send the offender for trial before a higher Court. Provided that in no case shall the person be sentenced to imprisonment for a longer period than fourteen years; and provided also that, if the case be tried by a Magistrate, the punishment shall not in the aggregate exceed twice the extent of punishment which such Magistrate is by his ordinary jurisdiction competent to inflict.

Proviso.

Currency of sentence of escaped convicts.

47. When sentence shall be passed on an escaped convict for such escape or for any other offence, the Court may direct such sentence to take effect immediately, or after such escaped convict shall have suffered imprisonment or transportation, as the case may be, for a further period equal to that which remained unexpired of his former sentence at the time of his escape.

Judgment on offender already imprisoned under sentence for another crime.

48. When sentence shall be passed on a person already under sentence of imprisonment or transportation for another offence, the Court, if the sentence be for imprisonment, shall direct that such imprisonment shall commence at the expiration of the imprisonment or transportation to which such person shall have been previously sentenced, or if such person shall be undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, and the sentence on such subsequent conviction be for transportation, the Court may direct that the sentence shall commence immediately, or at the expiration of the imprisonment to which such person shall have been previously sentenced.

Proviso.

Provided that nothing in this Section shall be held to excuse such person from any part of the punishment to which he is liable upon such former or subsequent conviction.

Local Government may order removal of a prisoner from one Jail to another.

49. 186. The Magistrate shall ascertain from the complainant, or otherwise, the names of any persons who may be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case, and who are likely to give evidence for the prosecution, and shall issue his summons to such persons, requiring them to appear at a time and place mentioned in the summons before such Magistrate to testify what they know concerning the complaint made against the accused person.

If warrant cannot be served.

189. If the warrant cannot be served, and the Magistrate is satisfied that the witness absconds or conceals himself for the purpose of avoiding the service thereof, the Magistrate may issue a proclamation, requiring the attendance of such witness to give evidence at a time and place to be named therein, to be affixed on some conspicuous part of his ordinary place of abode, and if such witness shall not attend at the time and place named in such proclamation, the Magistrate may order the attachment of any moveable property belonging to such witness to such amount as he shall deem reasonable, not being in excess of the amount of costs of attachment and of any fine to which such witness may be liable under the provisions of the following Section. If such witness shall not appear, or appearing, shall fail to satisfy the Magistrate that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to order the property attached, or any part thereof, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying all costs incurred in consequence of such attachment, together with the amount of any fine which the Magistrate may impose upon such witness under the provisions of Section 172 of the Indian Penal Code. Refusing to answer, may be committed to custody.

192. If any person summoned or brought before a Magistrate, shall refuse to answer such questions as shall be put to him, without offering any just excuse for such refusal, the Magistrate may, by warrant, under his hand and seal, commit the person refusing, to custody for any term not exceeding seven days, unless he shall, in the meantime, consent to be examined and to answer, after which, in the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of Section 163 of this Act.

The evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, by or in the presence and hearing and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Magistrate, and shall be signed by the Magistrate. When the evidence of a witness is given in English, the Magistrate may take it down in that language with his own hand, and an authenticated translation of the same in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, shall form part of the record. In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate, he shall be bound, as the examination of each witness proceeds, to make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall be annexed to the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so.

Local Government may direct the evidence to be recorded in the vernacular language of the Magistrate.

196. It shall be competent to the local Government to direct that in any District or part of a District to which this Act shall extend, or shall hereafter be extended, under the provisions of Section 445, of this Act the evidence of witnesses shall be taken down by the Magistrate with his own hand in the Vernacular language of the Magistrate, unless the Magistrate be prevented by any sufficient reason from taking down the evidence of any witness, in which case he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court. The evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Magistrate, and form part of the record. Provided that, if the Vernacular language of the Magistrate be not English or the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, the Magistrate may be directed by the local Government to take down the evidence in the English language or in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, instead of his own Vernacular.

When the evidence is completed, it shall be read over to the witness in the presence of the person accused if in attendance, or of his Agent when his personal attendance is dispensed with and he appears by Agent, and shall, if necessary, be corrected. If the witness shall deny the correctness of any part of the evidence when the same is read over to him, the Magistrate may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he may think necessary. If the evidence be taken down in a different language from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the witness may require his evidence as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given, or in a language which he understands.

199. A memorandum to be signed by the Magistrate shall be attached to the evidence of each witness, and shall state that the evidence was read over to the witness in a language which he understood (naming the language), and if the fact is so, that the witness acknowledged such evidence to be correct. When the evidence is not taken down by the Magistrate with his own hand, the memorandum shall further state that the evidence was taken down in the presence and hearing of the Magistrate, and under his personal direction and superintendence.

In what cases evidence to be interpreted to the accused or his Agent.

200. If the evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him, in all cases where the accused is present in person. 212. When any person shall appear or be brought before a Magistrate accused of any offence entered as not bailable in Column 5 of the Schedule annexed to this Act, such person shall not be admitted to bail, if there appear reasonable grounds for believing that he has been guilty of the crime imputed to him; but if the evidence given in support of the accusation shall, in the opinion of the Magistrate, not be such as to raise a strong presumption of the guilt of the accused person and to require his committal, or such evidence shall be adduced on behalf of the accused person as shall, in the opinion of the Magistrate, weaken the presumption of his guilt, but there shall appear to the Magistrate in either of such cases to be sufficient ground for further enquiry into his guilt, the accused person shall be admitted to bail pending such enquiry.

248. When a complaint is made before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, that any person has committed, or is suspected to have committed, any offence triable by such Magistrate, and punishable under the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a period exceeding six months, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue his warrant to apprehend such person. Provided that in any such case the Magistrate, to whom such complaint shall be made, may for any sufficient reason, instead of issuing his warrant in the first instance, issue his summons, requiring the person complained against to appear to answer to such complaint.

Summons instead of warrant.

Issue of process.

149. The provisions of Chapter XII relating to the issuing of process for causing the attendance of the accused person, the taking of bail, the summoning and enforcing the attendance of witnesses, the examination of parties and witnesses, the mode of recording evidence, correction, attestation, and interpretation thereof, and the adjournment of a case, shall be applicable to cases tried under this Chapter. On completing the examination of a witness under this Section, the Magistrate, in addition to the memorandum required by Chapter XII, shall record such remarks as he may think material respecting the demeanor of any witness while under examination.

Charge.

250. When the evidence of the complainant and of the witnesses for the prosecution, and such examination of the accused person as the Magistrate shall consider necessary, have been taken, the Magistrate, if he find that no offence has been proved against the accused person, shall discharge him. If the Magistrate find that an offence is apparently proved against the accused person which falls within the definition in a certain Section of the Indian Penal Code, or within one or other of the definitions in several Sections of the said Code, he shall prepare in writing a charge against the accused person in the manner prescribed in Chapter XIII of this Act, all the provisions of which shall be applicable to charges prepared under this Section. In charges prepared under this Section the words "within my cognizance" shall be substituted for the words "within the cognizance of the Court of Session" at the end of the charge, and the words "by the said Court" omitted in the order.

Plea.

251. The charge shall then be read to the accused person, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty or has any defence to make.

Plea of claim to be tried.

252. If the accused person have any defence to make to the charge, he shall be called upon to enter upon the same, and to produce his witnesses if in attendance, and shall be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution.

Evidence for the defence.

253. The Magistrate shall summon any witness and examine any evidence that may be offered in behalf of the accused person, to answer or disprove the evidence against him, and may, for this purpose, at his discretion, adjourn the trial from time to time, as may be necessary.

Witnesses for the defence.

254. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 of this Act shall be applicable to witnesses named in support of the defence.

Acquittal or conviction.

255. If the Magistrate shall find the accused person not guilty, he shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused person is convicted, the Magistrate shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

How the Magistrate is to proceed when, after commencement of trial, he finds the case beyond his jurisdiction.

256. In any trial before a Magistrate, in which it may appear at any stage of the proceedings that from any cause the case is one which the Magistrate is not competent to try, or which, in the opinion of such Magistrate, ought to be tried by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall stop further proceedings under this Chapter, and shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

CHAPTER XV.

Of Cases triable by the Magistrate in which a Summons on Complaint shall ordinarily issue.

Summons shall issue.

257. Whenever a complaint is made before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, that any person has committed or is suspected to have committed any offence triable by such Magistrate and punishable under the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue his summons directed to such person, stating shortly the matter of such complaint, and requiring him to appear at a certain time and place before such Magistrate to answer to the complaint. Provided that, if the Magistrate shall be satisfied or have reason to believe that the accused person is about to abscond, he may, instead of issuing a summons, issue his warrant in the first instance for the arrest of such accused person.

When warrant may issue.

Defendant may be admitted to bail or be at large upon personal recognizance.

258. If, upon the day appointed, the accused person shall appear voluntarily in obedience to the summons in that behalf served upon him, or shall be brought before the Magistrate by virtue of a warrant, it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate to admit the accused person to bail, or allow him to be at large upon his personal recognizance, as the Magistrate may direct. If the accused person cannot give bail, when required to do so, he shall be committed to custody.

Non-appearance of complainant.

259. If upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused person or any day subsequent thereto on which the case may be called on, the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint; unless for some reason he shall think proper to adjourn the hearing of the same to some other day, upon such terms as he shall think fit.

If summons be not obeyed, warrant.

260. If the person served with a summons shall not appear before the Magistrate at the time mentioned in such summons, and the Magistrate shall be satisfied that such summons was duly served in what shall be deemed by the Magistrate to be a reasonable time before the time therein appointed for appearing to the same, or if it shall appear to the Magistrate that after due diligence the summons could not be served according to the provisions of this Act, the Magistrate may issue his warrant to apprehend the accused person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of accused.

261. The Magistrate may, if he sees sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person complained against, and permit him to appear by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf. Provided that it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate at any stage of the proceedings to direct the personal attendance of such person. When the personal attendance of the accused person during the trial has been dispensed with, the sentence of the Magistrate, if the sentence be for fine only, may be pronounced in the presence of the Agent if the accused person has been permitted to appear by Agent, or the accused person may be required to attend to hear such sentence.

Summons to witness to attend and give evidence.

262. If it appear to the Magistrate that any person is likely to give material evidence on behalf of the complainant or the accused person, and that such person will not voluntarily appear for the purpose of being examined as a witness at the time and place appointed for the hearing of such complaint, the Magistrate shall issue his summons to such person under his signature and seal, requiring him to appear at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to testify what he knows concerning the matter of the complaint.

Magistrate may summon necessary evidence.

263. It shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate, at any stage of the trial, to summon and examine any witness whose evidence he may consider essential to the just decision of the case. The Magistrate may also examine as a witness any person in attendance, although not summoned as a witness.

Application of previous rules.

264. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 shall be applicable to witnesses summoned according to the provisions of Sections 262 and 263 of this Act.

Admission by accused of truth of complaint.

265. On the appearance of both parties on the day fixed for the trial, the substance of the complaint shall be stated to the accused person, and he shall be asked if he has any cause to show why he should not be convicted. If the accused person admit the truth of the complaint, and show no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate may convict him accordingly.

Proceeding when no such admission is made.

266. If the accused person do not admit the truth of the complaint, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant and such witnesses as he may produce in support of his complaint, and also to hear the accused person and such witnesses as he shall produce in his defence.

How the evidence is to be recorded.

267. The Magistrate shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness, as the examination of the witness proceeds. The memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such memorandum shall form part of the record. The Magistrate shall record such remarks as he shall think material respecting the demeanor of any witness whilst under examination.

Manner of recording evidence in certain cases.

268. In any case in which the Magistrate shall consider it necessary, it shall be competent to him, instead of taking down merely the substance of the evidence of any witness, to take down the evidence of the witness in the manner provided in Section 195 or in the manner provided by Section 196 of this Act if within the jurisdiction of such Magistrate the local Government shall have made an order as provided in that Section. In any such case the provisions of Sections 199 and 200 shall be applicable to the evidence so taken.

Adjournment.

269. Before or during the hearing of any complaint, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to adjourn the hearing of the same to a day, to be then appointed and stated in the presence and hearing of the party or parties; and if on the day to which such hearing or such further hearing shall have been so adjourned, the accused person shall not appear, the Magistrate may issue his warrant for the arrest of such person, and if the complainant shall not appear, the Magistrate may dismiss the complaint.

Magistrate may award amends in cases of frivolous and vexatious complaints.

270. In any case where the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint as frivolous and vexatious, it shall be lawful for him, in his discretion, by his order of dismissal, to award that the complainant shall pay to the accused person such amends, not exceeding fifty Rupees, as to such Magistrate shall seem just and reasonable. The sum so awarded shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the moveable property, belonging to the complainant, which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and in default of such distress, by imprisonment, in the Civil jail, for any time not exceeding thirty days, unless such amends shall be sooner paid.

Magistrate may permit withdrawal of the complaint.

271. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this Chapter, shall satisfy the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to draw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit such complainant to withdraw such complaint. A complaint withdrawn under this Section shall not again be entertained.

Acquittal or conviction.

272. If the Magistrate, in any case tried under this Chapter, shall find the accused person not guilty, he shall record a judgment of acquittal. If the accused person is convicted, the Magistrate shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

CHAPTER XVI.

Of Enquiries and Trials before the Subordinate Magistrates.

Reference of cases to Subordinate Magistrate.

273. Criminal cases brought before the Magistrate of the District or a Magistrate in charge of a division of a District, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer, may be referred by such Magistrate to any Magistrate subordinate to him. The reference shall be for enquiry or for trial if the offence be triable by such Subordinate Magistrate, or with a view to commitment to the Court of Session if such Magistrate is competent to commit to the Court of Session, or with a view to commitment to the Supreme Court of Judicature if such Subordinate Magistrate is competent to commit to such Supreme Court.

Proviso.

Provided that nothing in this Section shall prevent any Subordinate Magistrate from entertaining, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer (in cases in which the Subordinate Magistrate is authorized to receive such report), any case that such Magistrate is, by any law for the time being in force, competent to entertain.

Cases how to be referred.

274. When a criminal case is referred under this Chapter to a Subordinate Magistrate, the order of reference, if the case has been brought forward on the report of a Police Officer, shall be recorded on such report, and all processes issued for causing the attendance of the accused person or the witnesses, shall direct them to attend before such Court.

Subordinate Magistrates to follow the same rules of procedure as the Magistrate.

275. In the enquiry into or trial of cases under this Chapter, the Subordinate Magistrates shall be guided by the rules prescribed for the guidance of the Magistrate of the District in similar cases; and Police Officers and others shall be bound to obey all orders and processes issued in such cases in like manner as if such orders or processes had been issued by the Magistrate of the District.

How the Subordinate Magistrate is to proceed in cases beyond his jurisdiction.

276. If, in the course of a trial before a Subordinate Magistrate, the evidence shall appear to him to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence which such Magistrate is not competent to try or for which he is not competent to commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session, he shall stay proceedings and shall submit the case to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate. The Magistrate to whom the case is submitted shall either try the case himself or refer it to any Officer subordinate to him having jurisdiction, or he may commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session. In any such case, such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall examine the parties and witnesses, and shall proceed in all respects as if no proceedings had been held in any other Court.

In what cases Subordinate Magistrate shall not pass sentence, but may refer case to the Magistrate.

277. If in any case tried by a Subordinate Magistrate having jurisdiction, in which the accused person is found guilty, such Magistrate shall consider the offence established against the accused person to call for a more severe punishment than he is competent to adjudge, he shall record the finding and submit his proceedings to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, and such Magistrate shall pass such sentence or order in the case as he may deem proper and as shall be according to law. In any such case the Magistrate to whom the proceedings are submitted, may examine the parties, and recall and examine any witness who shall already have given evidence in the case, and he may call for or take any further evidence.

How the Magistrate is to proceed in such cases.

Subordinate Magistrate, if empowered to do so, may, instead of convicting the accused, commit him for trial before the Court of Session.

278. Nothing in the last preceding Section shall be held to prevent the Subordinate Magistrate in any such case as is therein described, if such Magistrate is empowered to hold the preliminary enquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session and to commit persons to take their trial before such Court, from committing the accused person for trial before the Court of Session instead of finding him guilty. If the Subordinate Magistrate shall be of opinion that the accused person should be committed for trial before the Court of Session, he shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

Mode of procedure in such cases.

CHAPTER XVII.

Place where Preliminary Investigations and Trials held, an Open Court.

Place where investigation made, an open Court

279. The place in which the Court of a Magistrate is held for the trial of any complaint or for the purpose of conducting any preliminary investigation into any case triable by a Court of Session or Supreme Court of Judicature, or any Superior Court, shall be deemed an open and public Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them; but it shall be lawful for any such Court, if it shall think fit, to order that during the investigation into any particular case triable by a Court of Session or by a Supreme Court of Judicature, no person shall have access to or be or remain in such room or building without the consent or permission of the Court.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Of Recognizance and Security to keep the Peace.

Personal recognizance to keep the peace in cases of conviction.

280. Whenever a person charged with rioting, assault, or other breach of the peace, or with abetting the same, or with assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, shall be convicted of such charge before any Court of Session or the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, and the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the accused person is convicted, or the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the final sentence or order in the case shall be passed, shall be of opinion that it is just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace, from the person so convicted, it shall be lawful to such Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid so convicting the accused person, or so passing the final sentence or order as aforesaid, in addition, to direct that the person so convicted be required to execute a formal engagement, in a sum proportionate to his condition in life and the circumstances of the case, for keeping the peace during such period as it may appear proper to fix in each instance, not exceeding one year if the sentence or order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the sentence or final order be passed by a Court of Session. When any accused person shall be convicted of any offence specified in this Section by an Officer not exercising the powers of a Magistrate, such Officer, if he consider it just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace from the person so convicted, shall report the case to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate to whom such Officer may be subordinate, who shall deal with the case as if the conviction had been before himself.

Security to keep the peace.

281. In cases in which it may appear necessary to require security for keeping the peace, in addition to the personal recognizance of the party so convicted, it shall also be lawful to the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, empowered to require a penal recognizance under the last preceding Section, to require security in addition thereto and to fix the amount of the security-bond to be executed by the surety or sureties; with a provision that, if the same be not given, the party required to find the security shall be kept in custody for any time not exceeding one year if the order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the order be passed by the Sudder Court or by a Court of Session.

Summons to any person to show cause why he should not enter into a bond to keep the peace.

282. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, whenever he shall receive credible information that any person, whether a European British subject or not, is likely to commit a breach of the peace, or to do any act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, to summon such person to attend at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to show cause why he should not be required to enter into a bond to keep the peace with or without sureties as such Magistrate shall think fit.

Form of summons.

283. The summons shall set forth the substance of the information, the amount of the bond and the term for which it is to be in force, and if security is called for, the number of sureties required, and the amount in which they are to be bound respectively. Such summons shall be served in the manner provided by this Act for the service of a summons on an accused person.

Penalty.

284. The penalty of such bond, which shall be in the Form (D) given in the Appendix or to the like effect, shall be fixed with a due regard to the circumstances of the case and the means of the party, and the amount in which the sureties shall be bound shall not exceed the said penalty.

Warrant of arrest.

285. If the person summoned shall not attend on the day appointed, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, if satisfied that the summons has been duly served, may issue a warrant for his arrest. Provided that, whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, upon the report of a Police Officer or upon other credible information, the substance of which report or information shall be recorded, that there is just reason to fear the commission of a breach of the peace, which may probably be prevented by the immediate arrest of any person, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate at any time to issue a warrant for the arrest of such person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of party informed against.

286. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he see sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person informed against and permit him to appear and enter into the required security, or show cause against such requisition by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf.

Discharge of party informed against.

287. If on the appearance of the person, or of his Agent if he is permitted to appear by Agent, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall not be satisfied that there is occasion to bind such person to keep the peace, he shall direct his discharge.

Consequence of not complying with order of Magistrate to enter into a bond.

288. If the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be satisfied that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to take a bond from such person with or without security, he shall make an order accordingly; and if the person shall fail to comply with the order, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to commit him to jail.

Limit for confinement.

289. The period for which the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may bind a person to keep the peace with or without security, shall not exceed one year. When a person shall be committed to jail under the last preceding Section, he shall not be detained by authority of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid beyond the term of one year, and shall be released whenever he shall comply with the order within that term.

290. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to bind a person beyond the term of one year, he may, before the expiration of the first year, record his opinion to that effect and the grounds thereof, and may refer the case for the orders of the Court of Session, and such Court, after examining the proceedings of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid and making such further enquiry as such Court may think necessary, may, if it shall see cause, authorize the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to extend the term for a further period not exceeding one year, and if the party shall fail to give a bond, with security if required, for his keeping the peace for such further period as the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct under the orders of the Court of Session, he may be kept in confinement for such further period or until he shall give such bond within that period.

Extension of period of confinement.

291. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he shall see sufficient cause, discharge any recognizance and surety for keeping the peace taken under the preceding Sections, and may order the release of the person confined for default in entering into such recognizance or giving such security.

Discharge of recognizances.

292. A surety for the personal appearance of another person may at any time apply to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to be relieved from his engagement as surety. On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his summons or warrant in order that the person for whom such surety is bound, may appear or be brought before him. On the appearance of the person to such warrant or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct the engagement of the surety to be cancelled and shall call upon such person to give fresh security, and in default thereof shall commit him to custody.

Discharge of sureties.

293. Whenever it may be proved before the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that any recognizance or other bond taken under this Chapter has been forfeited, he shall record the grounds of such proof and shall call upon the person bound by the bond to pay the penalty thereof or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if sufficient cause be not shown and the penalty be not paid, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall proceed to recover the same by the attachment and sale of any of the moveable property belonging to the person bound thereby which shall be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and if the penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, the party shall be liable to imprisonment by order of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid in the Civil Jail, for a period not exceeding six months.

Enforcement of penalty against the principal party.

294. Whenever it may be proved before the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that any bond with a surety has been forfeited, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may at his discretion give notice to the surety to pay the penalty to which he has thereby become liable, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if no sufficient cause be shown, and the penalty be not paid, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may proceed to recover payment of the penalty from such surety in the same manner as from the principal party.

Recovery of penalty from surety.

CHAPTER XIX.

Security for Good Behaviour.

295. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate of the District or to an Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate that any person is lurking within his jurisdiction not having any ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself, it shall be competent to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to require security for the good behaviour of such person for a period not exceeding six months.

When Magistrate may require security for good behaviour for six months.

296. Whenever it shall appear to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid from the evidence as to general character adduced before him, that any person is by repute a robber, housebreaker, or thief, or a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or of notoriously bad livelihood, it shall be competent to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to require security for the good behaviour of such person for a period not exceeding one year.

When Magistrate may require security for good behaviour for one year.

297. Whenever it shall appear to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid from the evidence as to general character adduced before him, that any person is by habit a robber, house-breaker, or thief, or a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or of a character so desperate and dangerous as to render his release, without security, at the expiration of the limited period of one year, hazardous to the community, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall record his opinion to that effect, with an order specifying the amount of security which should, in his judgment, be required from such person, as well as the number of sureties, and the period, not exceeding three years, for which the sureties should be responsible for such person's good behaviour.

How to proceed in cases beyond one year.

298. If the person required to furnish security as provided in the last preceding Section, shall not furnish the security so required, the proceedings shall be laid, as soon as conveniently may be, before the Court of Session, which, after examining them and requiring any further information or evidence which it may judge necessary, shall be competent to pass orders on the case, either confirming, modifying, or annulling the orders of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid as it may judge proper.

Case to be laid before the Court of Session.

299. If the Court of Session shall not think it safe to direct the immediate discharge of such person, it shall fix a limited period for his detention, not exceeding three years, in the event of his not giving the security required from him.

Court of Session may require security not exceeding three years.

What the order for security is to contain.

300. In every instance in which security for good behaviour shall be required by the Court of Session or the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, the amount of the security, the number of sureties, and the period of time for which the sureties are to be responsible for the good conduct of the person required to furnish security, shall be stated in the order. The security-bond shall be in the Form (F.) given in the Appendix, or to the like effect.

In default of security, party to be committed to prison.

301. In the event of any person required to give security under the provisions of the foregoing Sections, failing to furnish the security so required, he shall be committed to prison until he furnish the same. Provided that no party shall be kept in prison for a longer period than that for which the security has been required from him.

Proviso.

When Magistrate may release persons under requisition of security.

302. The Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate is empowered at any time, to exercise his discretion in releasing, without reference to any other authority, any prisoner confined under requisition of security for good behaviour, whether by his own order or by the order of any Officer subordinate to him, provided he shall be of opinion that such person can be released without hazard to the community.

When he must report.

303. In any case in which a Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be of opinion that any person confined under requisition of security for good behaviour by order of a Court of Session, can be safely released without such security, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall make an immediate report of the case for the orders of the Court which shall have required the person to furnish the security.

Discharge of surety.

304. A surety for the good behaviour of a person may at any time apply to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to be relieved from his engagement as surety. On such application being made, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall issue his summons or warrant in order that the person may appear or be brought before him. On the appearance of the party pursuant to the warrant or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct the engagement of the surety to be cancelled, and shall call upon the person to give fresh security, and in default thereof shall commit him to custody.

Proceeding to compel payment of penalty by sureties.

305. Whenever the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be of opinion that, by reason of an offence proved to have been committed by the person for whose good behaviour security has been given, subsequent to his having given such security, proceedings should be had upon the bond executed by the surety, he shall give notice to the surety to pay the penalty, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if no sufficient cause be shown, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall proceed to recover the penalty from such surety by the attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to such surety which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District; and if the penalty be not paid, and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, such surety shall be liable to imprisonment by order of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid in the Civil jail for a period not exceeding six months.

Issue of summons and warrant of arrest.

306. The several provisions of the last preceding Chapter relating to the issue of summons and warrant of arrest for securing the personal attendance of the party informed against, shall apply to proceedings taken under this Chapter against persons required to give security for their good behaviour.

Manner of taking evidence under Chapter XVIII or this Chapter.

307. Any evidence taken under Chapter XVIII or this Chapter, shall be taken in the manner prescribed by Section 267, subject to the provision contained in Section 268 of this Act.

CHAPTER XX.

Of Local Nuisances.

Magistrate may order removal of nuisances.

308. Whenever the Magistrate of a District or of a division of a District may consider that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any thoroughfare or public place, or that any trade or occupation, by reason of its being injurious to the health or comfort of the community, should be suppressed or should be removed to a different place, or that the construction of any building or the disposal of any combustible substance, as likely to occasion conflagration, should be prevented, or that any building is in such a state of weakness that it is likely to fall, and thereby cause injury to persons passing by, and that its removal in consequence is necessary, or that any tank or well adjacent to any public thoroughfare should be fenced in such a manner as to prevent danger arising to the public, he may issue an order to the person causing such obstruction or nuisance or carrying on such trade or occupation, or being the owner or in possession of, or having control over, such building, substance, tank, or well as aforesaid, calling on such person within a time to be fixed in the order to remove such obstruction or nuisance, or to suppress or remove such trade or occupation, or to stop the construction of, or to remove such building, or to alter the disposal of such substance, or to fence such tank or well, (as the case may be,) or to appear before such Magistrate within the time mentioned in the order, and show cause why such order should not be enforced.

Service or notification of order.

309. Such order shall, if practicable, be served personally on the person to whom it is issued; but if personal service is found to be impracticable, the order shall be notified by proclamation, and a written notice thereof shall be stuck up at at such place or places as may be best adapted for conveying the information to such person.

Person ordered shall obey the order, or may claim a Jury.

310. The person to whom such order is issued, shall be bound, within the time specified in the order, to obey the same or to appear before the Magistrate to show cause as aforesaid, or he may apply to the Magistrate by petition for an order for a Jury to be appointed to try whether the order is reasonable and proper. On receiving such petition, the Magistrate shall forthwith appoint a Jury which shall consist of not less than five persons, whereof the President and one-half of the Members shall be nominated by such Magistrate, and the remaining Members by the party petitioning. The Magistrate shall suspend the execution of the order pending such enquiry, and be guided by the decision of the Jury, which shall be according to the opinion of the majority. If the petitioner shall, by neglect or in any other way, prevent the appointment of a Jury, or if from any cause the Jury so appointed shall not decide and report within a reasonable time to be fixed in the order for the appointment, their functions shall cease from the date of the expiration of such period, unless they be continued by special order of the Magistrate; and if from any of the above causes no decision be made by the Jury, the order of the Magistrate shall be carried into effect as hereinafter provided.

Constitution of Jury.

Proceeding in case of neglect by Jury.

311. 347. The same Jury, if not objected to, may try, or the same Assessors may aid in the trial of, as many accused persons successively as to the Court shall seem expedient.

Whenever in the opinion of the Court it may be proper and convenient that the Jury or Assessors should have a view of the place in which the offence charged is said to have been committed, or of any other place in which any other transaction material to the enquiry in the trial took place, an order shall be made to that effect, and the Jury or Assessors shall be conducted in a body under the care of an Officer of the Court to the place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court, and it shall be the duty of the Officer not to suffer any other person to speak to or hold any communication with any of the Jury or Assessors, and they shall, when the view is finished, be immediately conducted back into Court.

The Court shall also at the same time in like manner cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons shall have been summoned for Jury trials at that Session. The names of the persons to be summoned shall be drawn by lot, excluding those who have served within six months, unless the number cannot be made up without them. From the whole number of persons returned, the Jurors who are to constitute the Jury shall be taken by lot in the manner prescribed in Section 342, until a Jury, containing the proper number of the races mentioned in Section 323, or a number approaching as nearly thereto as possible, has been obtained. The Jurors shall be liable to the same objections as any other Jurors. If a Jury containing the requisite number of the races mentioned in Section 323 be not obtained, the accused person may elect to be tried by the Judge with the aid of Assessors; otherwise he shall be tried by the Jury obtained by the means aforesaid.

If, prior to finding, any of the Jury be unable to proceed with the trial.

351. In any trial by Jury if the accused person is found guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is specified in that behalf in Section 328 of this Act, or if the accused be found not guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is therein in that behalf specified, the Jury shall be discharged, and in any such case as aforesaid there shall be a new trial before a Jury consisting entirely of other Jurors, and the accused person may be remanded or held to bail for such new trial. If, on any new trial by Jury, the accused shall not be found guilty by a majority consisting of such a number as aforesaid, he shall be acquitted.

When and how long Jury may retire for finding.

352. At the close of the trial, and after the Judge has summed up the evidence as hereinafter provided by Section 379 of this Act, the Jury may retire to consider their finding, and it shall be the duty of an Officer of the Court not to suffer any person to speak to or hold any communication with any member of such Jury. In any case in which a Jury shall be prepared to deliver their finding, the Judge shall ask the Jury whether they are unanimous, and if the foreman or one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Judge may require such Jury to retire for further consideration. If, after such a period as the Judge shall consider reasonable, the foreman or any one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Jury may deliver their verdict.

If either of the Assessors be unable to proceed with trial.

353. If, in the course of a trial with the aid of Assessors, at any time prior to the finding, any Assessor shall from any sufficient cause be prevented from attending through the trial, the trial shall proceed with the aid of the other Assessor or Assessors. If all the Assessors are prevented from attending through the trial, the proceedings shall be stayed, and a new trial shall be held with the aid of fresh Assessors.

The Subordinate Judges and Principal Sudder Ameens may commit any case to the Court of Session in which the evidence is such as to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence calling for a more severe punishment than such Subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens are authorized to adjudge.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF INDIA.

ACT No. XXVI OF 1861.

An Act to regulate the occupation of land in the Settlement of Malacca.

Preamble.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the power of Her Majesty to convey in fee simple in the District of Malacca (within the Setlement of Malacca), the lands in which certain rights and interests were surrendered to the Honorable the East India Company in the years 1828 and 1829, and whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts, and to declare the rights of Her Majesty in respect to such lands, and otherwise to amend the law relating to the occupation of land situate within the Settlement of Malacca; It is enacted as follows:—

Certain lands surrendered to the East India Company declared to be vested in the Queen.

I. The lands in the District of Malacca in which certain rights and interests were surrendered to the East India Company in the years 1828 and 1829, on condition that a certain amount then settled and agreed upon should be paid by the Government annually, so long as the British rule in the said District continued, to every person making such surrender, and on condition also that every such person in the event of the cessation of the British rule in the said District should resume the rights then conditionally surrendered to the British Government, are hereby declared to be vested in fee simple in Her Majesty the Queen, Her Heirs, and Successors (saving always any rights or interests lawfully vested in any under-tenants and cultivators holding or occupying any portion of such lands), and any conveyance which after the passing of this Act shall be made by Her Majesty, Her Heirs, and Successors of any of the said lands in fee simple or otherwise (not inconsistent with the rights or interests aforesaid of such under-tenants and cultivators) shall be good and valid for all intents and purposes whatsoever.

Payment of annuities to the grantees or proprietors of the surrendered estates.

II. The annuities stipulated to be paid to the persons who surrendered the rights and interests aforesaid shall be paid as a perpetual annuity to the said persons, or their heirs or representatives by the Government of India, but it shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council to commute the perpetual annuity payable to any such annuitant for such sum and on such terms as may with such annuitant be agreed upon, in full discharge of the perpetual annuity so commuted and of all rights or obligations whatsoever connected therewith. In the event of a cessation of British rule in the said District, nothing in this Section shall interfere with the claim of any person then enjoying an uncommuted annuity under this Section to a money compensation from the Government, equal to the then value of any right or interest in land surrendered by him as described in the last Section, which but for the passing of this Act would then have reverted to him. No such surrendered right or interest in such land shall then revert to or revive in any such annuitant, nor shall any such annuitant have a claim in connection with any such right or interest to aught but a money compensation from the Government.

Cultivators and tenants subject to payment to Government of one-tenth of produce.

III. All cultivators and resident tenants of the lands referred to in the first Section of this Act as well as in the District of Naning who hold their lands by prescription, are hereby declared to be and shall be subject to a payment of one-tenth part of the produce thereof to Government; such payment to be made in kind or in the form of a sum of money fixed in commutation of the payment in kind; and all other cultivators and under-tenants who now occupy or hold or shall occupy or hold any of such lands as aforesaid, are hereby declared to have been and shall be liable, as directed in Section II of Act XVI of 1839 (relating to Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca) to be assessed in such manner, at such rate, and under such conditions as the Resident Councillor of Malacca, with the authority of the Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, may determine. Nothing in this Section shall be taken to affect any engagement entered into for a specific time or upon specific conditions between any cultivator or tenant and the Resident Councillor or other person acting on behalf of the local Government during the pendency thereof.

Proviso.

IV. It shall be lawful for the Governor of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca to commute the payment, whether in kind or money, to which any person is liable under the last preceding Section, for a sum to be fixed at the discretion of the said Governor and for an annual quit-rent, and on the payment of the sum and quit-rent so fixed upon, the lands in respect of which such commutation is made shall be held subject to the terms of such commutation and free from liability to the payment provided for in the last preceding Section.

Commutation of a fixed sum for an annual payment.

V. It shall be lawful for the Governor aforesaid, any provision in Section V of the said Act XVI of 1839 to the contrary notwithstanding, to direct any lease granted or to be granted under that Section, to be granted in perpetuity or for such term as to such Governor may seem proper, and, subject to such quit-rent as may be agreed upon, to transfer to, and vest absolutely in, any person or persons any portion of the waste or forest land situated within the lands aforesaid or within the District of Naning, on the payment of a sum fixed as provided in the last foregoing Section, free of any liability for the payment of annual rent.

VI. It shall not be competent to any party to claim, on the ground of prescriptive right or of possession, any forest, waste, or other uncultivated land situated within the lands, grants, or estates aforesaid or within the District of Naning, unless the same having been before cultivated or occupied for some beneficial purpose, shall have fallen out of cultivation or use within three years from the passing of this Act; provided that any tenant, cultivator, or other occupier of cultivated land within the lands or District aforesaid, shall be permitted to engage for unoccupied, forest, waste, or other uncultivated land situated within or next adjoining the boundaries of the cultivated land held or occupied by him, to the extent of one-fourth thereof; and any order made in this matter by any person empowered in that behalf by the Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca shall be final, subject only to revision by such Governor in any case in which he may think revision called for.

Claims to waste lands.

VII. It shall be lawful for the Governor aforesaid to cause a survey or measurement to be made of all the land of the Settlement of Malacca and of the District of Naning or any portion thereof, at such time and by one or more persons as he may direct, and any person so empowered by the Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca may require by a summons under his hand any person resident within such Settlement or District to attend before him, and if necessary to produce any document relating to the right to any land or interest in land situated within such Settlement or District; and the person empowered as aforesaid may examine upon oath or solemn affirmation having the force of an oath, any person so summoned touching the right to any such land or interest in such land.

Survey or measurement of land.

VIII. If any person, resident within the said Settlement of Malacca, who shall be required by a summons issued under the last preceding Section to appear at a certain place and time for the purpose of attending at a survey or measurement under the said Section, or to produce before any person empowered under the said Section any such document as is mentioned in the said Section, intentionally omits to attend at that place or time or departs from the place where he is bound to attend without the permission of the person so empowered, or intentionally omits to produce such document before such person, he shall, on summary conviction before any Criminal Court within whose jurisdiction the offence is committed, be liable to be punished with simple imprisonment in the Civil Jail for a term that may extend to one month, or with fine that may extend to one hundred Rupees, or with both.

Penalty for non-attendance when summoned to a measurement.

IX. Any person so empowered as aforesaid may define by such marks as he may think fit the boundaries of any land held or occupied by any tenant, cultivator, or other occupier; and if, in the course of survey or measurement or in the course of making any settlement, transfer, or assignment, any dispute shall arise as to the right of possession of any land between two or more persons claiming to possess the same as tenants, cultivators, or occupiers, or between one or more such persons and any grantee or proprietor of any lands in the Settlement of Malacca not surrendered in the manner recited in Section I of this Act, or any person holding under such grantee or proprietor, any person empowered as aforesaid shall after enquiry make an order in favor of the party who may appear to have the best title and shall put in possession the party in whose favor an award is so made.

Adjudication of disputed possession.

X. Any award made under the last foregoing Section shall be final, unless within two months from the date of the award any of the parties thereto shall move the Court of Judicature of Malacca to set it aside, and such Court may on such motion confirm, set aside, or modify such award.

Effect of award under preceding Section.

XI. Sections VII, VIII, IX, X, XIV, and XV of Act X of 1837 (relating to claims to lands in Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca) shall, so far as applicable, be read as part of this Act.

Construction.

XII. The Governor of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, in the exercise of any authority vested in him by this Act, shall be guided by such instructions as he shall from time to time receive from the Governor-General of India in Council.

Governor to be guided by instructions from the Government of India.

XIII. Nothing in this Act shall be held to warrant any exemption being granted or allowed in favor of any owner or occupier of land in respect of the Municipal rates and taxes levied under Act XXV of 1856 (to comprise in one Act the provisions necessary for the assessment and collection of Municipal rates and taxes in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and the several Stations of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca) or Act XXVII of 1856 (for appointing Municipal Commissioners, and for levying rates and taxes in the several Stations of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca).

Provided that in detached situations beyond the Sea or out of the British Territories in India, or when on service in the field, or in cases where an immediate example is necessary and reference cannot be made to such Commanding or Superior Officer without detriment to the service, the Officer Commanding such Detachment may exercise the powers which are vested in an Officer Commanding a Regiment or Corps.

The Commander-in-Chief of any Presidency shall have power to pardon any person belonging to the Military Forces of such Presidency who shall have been convicted by a Court Martial of any offence against the Articles of War, which offence, wherever committed, is not punishable otherwise than by sentence of a Court Martial. Instead of granting a full pardon to any such person, the Commander-in-Chief of the Presidency may remit any part of the punishment awarded for the offence.

In any such case the Commander-in-Chief of the Presidency shall, together with a copy of the warrant or other instrument under which the offender is kept in custody in execution of the sentence, issue a warrant under his own hand, setting forth the offence of which the offender has been convicted, and pardoning or remitting such part of the punishment awarded for such offence as to him shall seem fit.

The said warrant shall be countersigned by the Magistrate of the zillah or city in which the offender is undergoing his sentence; or if he is confined in any prison within the limits of a Supreme Court of Judicature, shall be countersigned by a Judge of such Court; if it shall appear to such Magistrate or Judge that the offence, wherever committed, is not punishable by any authority other than that of a Court Martial; but not otherwise.

3. A period of five years' service in the Staff Corps is required to entitle a Lieutenant-Colonel to the rank of Brevet-Colonel. As respects Officers of this rank, the present rule, as to leave of absence to be allowed to reckon as part of the service for promotion, will remain in force.

Despatch to India, 31st July 1860, No. 288.

No. 825 of 1861.—The following paragraphs of a Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 318, dated 10th August 1861, are published for general information:—

PARA. 1.—It appears to me that paragraph 98 of your General Order does not accurately express the intentions of Her Majesty's Government, and is liable to misapprehensions on the part of the Officers of the Army. The words "Officers of the Staff Corps, under the rank of Major-General, whom the Governments of India may not see fit to employ in any capacity," used in the paragraph, would appear to contemplate Officers whom the India Governments, in point of fact, considered to be unfit for employment. Such Officers ought to be removed from the Staff Corps under the authority specified in the 7th paragraph of the Staff Warrant, and placed upon half-pay or pension under the provisions of the 10th paragraph of the same Warrant.

2. The directions contained in paragraph 33 of my Despatch No. 27 of January 1861, were intended to apply not to Officers unfit for employment, "whom the Governments of India may not see fit to employ in any capacity," but to Officers who are perfectly fit for employment, but who, from circumstances of one kind or another, may be out of employment, for example, such as those who, in consequence of having overstayed the prescribed limit of absence, with retention of appointment, may find themselves, on their return to India, out of employment.

3. I proceed, therefore, to give you more precise directions on this subject.

4. Such Officers are, on their return to India, to be placed on the rate of pay specified, for their respective ranks, in the Staff Warrant for Officers "while required to remain in India," and they will retain this rate of pay for a year, before the expiration of which I expect that you will have an opportunity of placing them in some suitable situation. This it will be your duty to do at the earliest period, so that the revenues of India may not be charged for more unemployed Officers than is inevitable under the circumstances at the time.

5. If, however, no opportunity should occur within the year of placing such an Officer in a situation that you consider suited to him, you are authorized to continue such allowance until a suitable opening can be found.

6. I desire, however, that every such case shall be forthwith reported to me, and that a quarterly list of all such unemployed Officers in India, at the date of their return to India, may be punctually transmitted to me.

7. * You will modify the 98th paragraph of your General Order in accordance herewith.

No. 826 of 1861.—With reference to the foregoing Despatch, paragraph 98 of the General Order No. 832, dated 10th of April 1861, is cancelled, and the following is substituted for it:—

98. Officers of the Staff Corps under the rank of Major-General, who may be considered unfit for employment, will be removed from the Staff Corps under the authority specified in the 7th paragraph of the Royal Warrant, and placed upon half-pay or pension under the provisions of the 10th paragraph of the same Warrant.

Officers who are perfectly fit for employment, but who, from any circumstances, as, for example, from having exceeded the prescribed limit of leave of absence, with retention of appointment, may be out of employment, will, on their return to India, be placed on the rates of pay specified in the Royal Warrant for Officers respectively "while required to remain in India," and such rates of pay they will retain for one year, within which time it will be the duty of the Government of India to find suitable employment for them if possible, but failing in this, the allowances above noted will be continued until an opening for employing them can be found.

No. 827 of 1861.—The following paragraphs of a Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 319, dated 10th August 1861, and the Act referred to in paragraph 16 thereof, are published for general information:—

PARA. 1.—I have received and considered in Council your Despatches, No. 23 of 8th March 1861, and No. 65 of 4th May, reporting the measures which you have taken for giving effect to the instructions of Her Majesty's Government for the formation of Staff Corps in each of the Presidencies, and the consolidation generally of the two Branches of Her Majesty's Forces serving in India.

2. I have much pleasure in conveying to you the acknowledgments of Her Majesty's Government for the great care with which this important subject has been treated by your Government, and for the anxious consideration which you have given to it, in order to make these great changes as acceptable as possible to the various classes affected by them.

13. A reference has been made to the War Office regarding the retention of honorary distinctions of the Local Artillery Regiments. It was the practice in the Royal Artillery for every Brigade, Battalion, Troop, or Battery to bear its distinctive records of service according to the present usage of the Indian Regiments. But in the year 1832 His late Majesty William IV. determined that the mottoes "Ubique" and "Quo fas et gloria ducunt" should be conferred on the Corps of Royal Artillery and Engineers, in lieu of all other titles and distinctions which had become so ample as to render it impracticable to repeat their enumeration without inconvenience.

14. The Secretary of State for War and His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief concur in opinion that the Indian Artillery and Engineers will suffer no loss of honor if the record of their proud achievements, necessarily performed on a less extended field than that which has been open to the Royal Corps, should merge in the comprehensive mottoes which declare the services of the Regiments they join.

These sentiments are quite in accordance with my own views, and I feel confident that they will commend themselves to the judgment and public spirit of the Officers and Men of the Indian Artillery.

16. With reference to the subject (adverted to in paragraph 23) of the declaration to be made by the Soldiers volunteering for general service, an Act has lately been passed by the Legislature rendering lawful the enlistment of persons transferred from the Indian to the General Forces of Her Majesty. A copy of this Act is forwarded for your information: 24 and 25 Vic., Cap. 74

21. It must be borne in mind that the object of assimilating the organization of the Indian Ordnance Corps with those of the British Service was to facilitate the ultimate consolidation of the whole into one Regiment of Royal Artillery, and one of Royal Engineers. It was not supposed that a large increase to the number of Field Officers of Artillery and Engineers was required by the exigencies of the Service; but unless the number of Officers of the several grades in each Brigade had corresponded with the organization of the British Corps, the promotion of a Royal Artillery or Engineer Officer for every vacancy in the Indian Regiments would not have given the requisite proportions in the ultimately consolidated Corps. But there is no reason for carrying the assimilation further than is necessary for this object. The effect of making promotions in place of Supernumerary Colonels-Commandant would be to burthen the Goverment with the expense of maintaining a large number of Officers, in superior and highly-paid grades, for whom there is no suitable employment, and to cause a needless amount of supersession in the other branches of the Service.

22. In paragraph 28 of the Despatch you request some definite instructions in regard to the Officers of the Indian Artillery Regiments to whom Commissions in the Royal Artillery will be given. In my Despatch No. 29, paragraphs 7 and 11, two classes of Officers were named to receive Commissions in the Royal Artillery, viz., the Officers who may volunteer for general service out of India, and those, even if not volunteers for general service, who may be appointed to do duty with Batteries manned by Gunners who either have originally enlisted for Royal Artillery, or have volunteered for that Regiment from the Local Service. These instructions were given, necessarily, in ignorance of the proportions of men that would volunteer for general service, and of those who would remain under their present conditions, and it was desirable to provide Officers for both; but, since there is reason to believe that a great majority of the men have volunteered for general service, there is no longer any reason why all the Officers of the Indian Artillery should not at once receive Commissions in the Royal Artillery.

23. In the case of the Engineer Corps, which had no European Soldiers attached to them, it has been already determined that all the Officers should receive Commissions in the Royal Engineers.

24. In paragraph 30 of your Despatch you advert to the position of Officers of the Indian Artillery and Engineers, now on Staff employ, who may not elect to join the Staff Corps. You have rightly understood the intention of the Despatch, that such Officers, like all others now in Her Majesty's Indian Forces, may continue to hold Staff appointments without joining the Staff Corps, and that they, as well as Officers of the Indian Artillery and Engineers in general, will, in common with those of the rest of the Army, be available for any duty to which they may be appointed.

25. In the 71st paragraph of the Despatch you propose that, in accordance with the recommendation of the Commission, and with the practice in the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers, the Officers of the Indian Brigades of Artillery and Engineers in miscellaneous Staff employ shall be "seconded" It does not seem desirable, for the present at least, to adopt that course. The assimilation of the Indian with the British Ordnance Corps is indispensable, so far as it is necessary to their ultimate consolidation; but there may be points, not required for that purpose, in which the principle of assimilation could only be carried out at a sacrifice of the public interests. I would further observe that the practice of "seconding," which obtains in the British Regiments, is connected with their internal economy rather than with their organization, and it is the less necessary in the Indian Brigades of Artillery, because it is not intended to complete the full number of Batteries in each Brigade, so that there will be an available surplus of Officers, and it would be an additional objection that, as admitted by the Commission, the introduction of the practice of seconding in the Indian Corps, by causing the promotion of a great number of Officers, would give these Corps a great advantage over the other Arms of the Service

26. I have referred to the Secretary of State for War regarding the nature of the Commissions to be granted to Officers of the new representative Line Regiments, and have been informed that he concurs with His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief in thinking that all Officers of Artillery and Engineers, and all Officers appointed to the several new Regiments of the Line, should receive one Commission only, namely, a Regimental Commission, signed by the Queen, bearing the same date as that which they now hold. The transfer of all those Officers should be published in the London Gazette, but such publication and Commission involves no obligation on Officers of Artillery and Engineers who have not volunteered for general service to serve out of India, nor does it affect the scheme for promotion on separate lists, adopted in the General Order of 10th April.

27. The course to be followed in regard to the Regular Native Regiments in the three Presidencies, as described in paragraph 41 of the Despatch, is strictly in accordance with the intentions of Her Majesty's Government. It was intended ultimately to reduce the number of Officers serving with these Regiments to six, exclusive of a Medical Officer, and to give them eventually the organization of what has hitherto been called the irregular system, but it was not contemplated to effect any sudden or violent change in the present position of those Regiments.

30. The 65th paragraph of the General Order, referred to in the 44th paragraph of the Despatch, introduces an important change in the conditions of future service, out of India, of the Officers who may be transferred to the new Regiments of the Line, and of the Artillery Officers who may volunteer for general service with the new Brigades of Royal Artillery. Though I cannot altogether concur with your Government as to the necessity or expediency of permitting Officers to reckon towards retiring pension, under Indian regulations, and payable from Indian revenues, the whole of their future service in any part of the world, I am prepared to ratify the promise held out in your General Order; but it will be necessary to define very carefully the nature of the duty which will confer a claim to reckon service in full or in part for the retiring pension.

31. I am disposed to think that the privilege of reckoning full time should be restricted to the following cases:—

1*st*. That of Officers transferred in the first instance to the twelve new Regiments of Cavalry and Infantry of the Line, who will be entitled to reckon all their future Regimental service in those Regiments in any part of the world.

2*nd*. That of Officers of Artillery who, having volunteered for general service, and being attached to Batteries of Royal Artillery, may be ordered Home with those Batteries, such Officers will continue to enjoy the privilege as long as they may be performing Regimental service with the Royal Artillery in any part of the world.

3*rd*. That of the Officers of Cavalry and Infantry who may be appointed under the provisions of my Despatch, No. 154, dated 8th April, to fill vacancies in Line Regiments caused by the transfer of Officers from those Regiments to the Staff Corps, such Officers will continue to enjoy the privilege only so long as they may serve Regimentally with the Regiments to which they may be originally transferred, and that all Military service performed with the sanction of Government by Indian Officers out of India, otherwise than as as above specified, shall be reckoned as service for Indian retiring pension only in the proportion of one year to two.

34. The question as to whether the five years' tenure is intended to apply to the Department in which an Officer may be serving, or to the actual appointment, has been referred for the opinion of the Secretary of State for War and the General Commanding-in-Chief, and I learn that, under the existing rule, Officers hold the appointments on the Staff for which they may be selected for five years.

The appointments noted in the margin are considered in the same category; and if an Officer be transferred from one of these situations to another, his whole continuous service would count towards the completion of five years.

Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General.
Deputy Assistant Quarter-Master General.
Brigade-Major.

35. So with Assistant Adjutants-General and Assistant Quarter-Masters General. If an Officer in either of these positions should be transferred from one Division to another on home service, his previous service in either appointment would be considered part of the whole period allotted to him. But His Royal Highness reserves to himself the power of considering an Officer on the General Staff, transferred from one Division at home to another abroad, either to have a fresh appointment from the date of transfer, or to count the home service as part of his term, as His Royal Highness may be pleased to determine in each case.

If an Officer on the Staff be promoted to a higher appointment, his reckoning of time begins anew.

36. You will observe that, under the system pursued in Her Majesty's Service, the limitation of five years' tenure applies to the office or rank in the Department, and not to employment in the Department generally. It seems desirable to adopt the same principle in the application of the rule to appointments on the General Staff of the Army specified in paragraph 15 of my Despatch No. 27 of January last.

The general rule only can be given, to which there may be exceptions, under circumstances, to be duly considered by your Goverment in each case, and referred to me according to existing practice.

39. In the same (55th) paragraph of your Despatch, you express an opinion that the boon of twenty months' leave on Sick Certificate, with retention of appointment, granted to Officers of the Staff Corps, may be extended to all Officers of the other branches of the Service. I have much pleasure in acceding to this recommendation, and I authorize you to give it effect immediately in the three Presidencies. I have no objection to extending this boon to Officers now on Furlough in all cases in which you may think it desirable to recommend it.

40. In the 96th paragraph of your General Order (paragraph 56 of Despatch) you have properly ruled that the names of Officers on the Half pay List of the Staff Corps, returning to effective service in India, will not be restored to their old cadres; but it must be understood, that Officers of the Staff Corps will not be placed on the Half-pay List, except under the operation of one or other of the two Clauses, 7 and 10, of the Royal Warrant, and that such Officers will very rarely be permitted to return to effective service in India.

43. In regard to the question raised in the 69th paragraph of the Despatch, though I am disposed to concur in the opinion expressed by your Government that it would not be advisable, at the present time, to urge the Officers of Artillery to elect at once between local and general service, yet it is desirable that all Officers of the Local Artillery, who may desire it, should have their names recorded for general service; and it would be advantageous to arrange, as far as the convenience of the public service will admit, that such Officers should, in preference, be posted to the new Batteries of Royal Artillery, which will be formed out of the men who have volunteered for general service, and from the recruits enlisted for Royal Artillery.

44. With reference to the question raised in paragraph 67, whether Officers of the Line entering the Staff Corps are to receive the value of their Commissions, I have communicated with the Secretary of State for War, and I am informed that His Royal Highness the General Commanding-in-Chief is of opinion that Officers of the Line are not to receive the value of their Commissions on entering the Staff Corps. They transfer their services by their own choice, and must consider for themselves the gain or loss of the proceeding.

49. The point referred to in paragraph 60 of your Despatch is one of the great importance to the Officers whose interests may be affected by it; and I desire, therefore, to draw your particular attention to the subject, and to make known to you the construction which I have put upon paragraph 103 of the General Order of 10th April 1861, in replying to inquiries from Officers in England.

50. The paragraph states that "all promotions "in the Staff Corps, in the case of Officers who "may join the Staff Corps within six months of "the publication of the Royal Warrant, will take "effect from the 18th February 1861, the date "of the receipt of the Warrant in India;" and in your Despatch under acknowledgment, paragraph 60, you observed, "the announcement contained "in the 103rd paragraph of the General Order "referred to a point of detail adjusted in con- "formity with the customs and usages of the "service;" and you added that, as Officers "are "to be allowed six months within which to make "up their minds on the subject of most important "changes now instituted for the first time, it is "but just to all Officers that their Regimental "position in the first establishment of the Staff "Corps, and not subsequent accidental alterations "of rank, should settle their place on entering "that Corps."

51. I understand by this that all Officers joining the Staff Corps, within the six months referred to, will be considered as having joined on the 18th February 1861, in the rank which they held in their Regiments on that date, whether such rank be known at the time or be due to previous casualties and subsequent re-adjustment. The rank here referred to is irrespective of that to which they may claim promotion under Clauses 1, 2, and 3 of the Staff Corps Warrant.

52. Thus, should an Officer, being a Lieutenant, elect to join the Staff Corps during the six months, he will be considered as having been a Lieutenant at the time of joining, although he should not have expressed his intention till the month of June, and might have been in the month of March promoted to Captain in his own Regiment. On the other hand an Officer, joining the Staff Corps, being a Lieutenant, who should find himself, by a casualty not then known, virtually a Captain, from a date prior to the 18th February 1861, will be considered as having been a Captain at the time of joining, and his subsequent promotion in the Staff Corps will be regulated accordingly.

53. It is quite clear, with respect to Officers who may be posted to the new Line Regiments, that no change can be made in their position subsequently to the formation of those Regiments, such position being determined with reference to the rank they actually held in their Regiments on a given day, viz., the 18th February 1861.

54. The difficulties attending such re-adjustment of rank in their case, affecting, as it would, the whole body of Officers, would be so great, as to be fairly pronounced insuperable. No such serious difficulties, however, would attend the same system of re-adjustment in the case of Officers of the Staff Corps.

You will be guided by this principle, not only on the first formation of the Corps, but in all subsequent appointments to it.

2. The Provisions of the Act of the First Year of Her Majesty, Chapter Twenty-nine, intituled An Act for enabling Her Majesty to grant the Rank of General Officers to Foreigners now bearing Her Majesty's Commission, and to permit the Enlistment of Foreigners under certain Restrictions, shall not apply to the Case of Officers or Soldiers in the Indian Forces of Her Majesty, not being natural-born Subjects, who have been or may be transferred to Her Majesty's General Forces under the Condition of the said Order; but every such Officer or Soldier shall be upon the same Footing, for the purposes of Military Service and Promotion, and every Act or Thing done or to be done in respect of the Enlistment and Attestation of any such Soldier shall be as legal for all Purposes as if he were a natural-born Subject of Her Majesty.

Rights of Persons so transferred to Pensions for Service in Her Majesty's General Forces.

4. No Enlistment or Attestation of any Soldier or Person into Her Majesty's General or Indian Forces which shall have taken place within Her Majesty's Dominions in India, or within the Territories of any Foreign State in India, prior to the Publication of this Act in the said Dominions, before any Person appointed in that Behalf by the Governor of any Presidency in India, shall be invalid only by reason that no Warrant had, at the time of such Appointment or of such Enlistment or Attestation, been signed by the Secretary at War in accordance with the Provisions of any Act of Parliament for the Punishment of Mutiny and Desertion, or that the Person so appointed had not Authority to act out of Her Majesty's Dominions; but every Soldier or Person so attested shall be deemed to be an attested Soldier to the same Effect as if such Warrant had been signed as aforesaid, and such Enlistment or Attestation had taken place within Her Majesty's Dominions; and no Person so appointed who shall have enlisted and attested any Soldier or Person for Her Majesty's General or Indian Forces shall be deemed to have acted illegally in so doing by reason that no such Warrant had been issued as aforesaid, or that such Enlistment or Attestation did not take place within Her Majesty's Dominions.

No Enlistment in India invalid by reason of the absence of a Warrant from the Secretary at War, or because made out of Her Majesty's Dominions.

No. 833 of 1861.—His Excellency the Governor General in Council directs the publication of the subjoined questions on subjects of general interest, and the answers given by Government in continuation of those published in Government General Order No. 801, dated 10th September 1861:—

Question 106.—An unlimited service Soldier completed seventeen years' service on the 15th March 1861, i. e., twenty-six days after the date fixed in paragraph 20 for regulating the amount of bounty payable to men who volunteer for Her Majesty's General Service, and bounty

Paragraphs 19 and 20.

Answer 106.—He may be allowed to volunteer, and will receive bounty for the remaining period of his service under paragraph 20.

was paid to him on his re-engagement for a further period of three years from the 15th March 1861, under the Regulations then in force. The man has volunteered for General Service. How is the case to be dealt with?

Question 107.—If an Artillery Officer elects to serve out of India, will his pay and allowances, while serving in India, undergo any alteration from the existing rates?

Paragraph 30.

Answer 107.—His pay and allowances will not be altered.

Question 108.—It is presumed that Officers of Artillery, now holding appointments either on the General Staff, with Batteries of Native Artillery, in the Ordnance Department, or as Superintendents of Ordnance Manufacturing Establishments in India, are not required to vacate their appointments should they declare themselves willing to serve out of India, and that Officers now doing Regimental duty, and who are willing to serve out of India, will be eligible for appointment hereafter to Artillery and Ordnance Staff situations.

Paragraphs 30 and 45.

Answer 108.—Artillery Officers who volunteer will retain their appointments, and those who have no appointments will be eligible to Staff employ.

Question 109.—What is the meaning of the term "General Service" and might an Officer's prospects of Promotion, of Command of Station in his present Corps, and his pay and allowances, at any time be affected thereby; in fact, does an Officer by so volunteering relinquish any of the rights guaranteed him by Act of Parliament, and place his services at the disposal of the Crown without reserve?

Paragraph 50.

Answer 109.—The term "General Service" means service in any part of the world where an Officer might be required by the Crown to serve. The Officers who are placed in the new Line Regiments from among those who volunteer will join on the terms of General Service, but will be allowed their claims to the Indian Pensions. Those who do not join these Corps will remain on precisely the same terms as before, the simple fact of their volunteering making no change.

Question. 110.—A Staff Officer having been directed temporarily to rejoin his Regiment on Field Service or for Garrison duty, when circumstances have required for a time the presence of additional Officers, will the period he may thus have been temporarily serving with his Regiment count as Staff Service for promotion in the Staff Corps?

Paragraph 84.

Answer. 110.—The period during which a Staff Officer may temporarily serve with his Regiment will not reckon as Staff Service unless he has joined his Regiment in the Field.

Question. 111.—Whether the twenty months' leave counts from the date of leaving the Regiment and return to it, or from port of embarkation and return to India?

Answer. 111.—The period will be reckoned as at present, from departure from port of embarkation to date of return within the limits of the Presidency to which an Officer belongs.

Question 112.—An Officer of Her Majesty's British Forces now on the Staff was Interpreter (P.) to his Regiment for three years.

Will this be allowed to count as "Staff Employ?" By Article 69 the appointment of Interpreter to Local European Regiments is allowed so to reckon, but no mention is made of Interpreters to Her Majesty's British Regiments although the appointment is exactly the same.

Answer 112.—Yes, provided he has passed the Interpreter's Examination, and has been regularly appointed.

Question. 113.—Is service in India considered to be within the limits of the Charter of the late East India Company, or only of India Proper? For instance, if an Officer volunteers for service and is sent to Egypt, China, the Mauritius, &c., would such places be considered out of India and come under paragraphs 30 and 65 of the Amalgamation Order?

Answer 113.—If an Officer volunteers for General Service, and is sent to Egypt, China, &c., he would go on the same terms as Officers of Her Majesty's Line Regiments, or of the Royal Artillery, or Royal Engineers. Paragraphs 30 and 65 of the General Order would be applicable to the case. By service in India is meant service in the Territories formerly governed by the East India Company, which were, by Act XXI. and XXII. Vic. cap. 106, declared to be vested in Her Majesty, or in Territories which may become so in virtue of any rights previously vested in or exercised by the East India Company which were declared by the said Act to be vested in Her Majesty or Service with or attached to any portion of Her Majesty's Indian Military Forces in any Foreign Country whatever to which those Forces may be sent.

Notification.

The attention of Treasury Officers is solicited to the Notification issued from this Office on the 4th instant (see Calcutta Gazette, page 2695), and to the following rules for the preparation of the "Monthly Estimate of probable Receipts and Disbursements" :—

Collectors are reminded that correctness in these Estimates is of the utmost importance, as it is otherwise utterly impossible for this Office to render reliable statements or accurate information to the Financial Department of the Supreme Government.

1. The object of the first and second columns on the debit and credit side of the Return has already been explained, and it is only necessary to add that the information required by their headings should not be lumped at the top of the column, but given item by item and totalled at foot.

2. "Probable Receipts."—This column has been carefully prepared, and is intended to include every possible item of receipt. No additions should, therefore, be ever made to it in manuscript without the express authority of the Accountant-General. The same rule applies to the heading of "Probable Disbursements."

3. The three items of Land Revenue, Sayer, and Abkarree, under "Land Revenue," should be carefully kept distinct.

4. "Income Tax" should be distinctly detailed under the three headings given of one, two, and three per centum.

5. Cash Remittances should not be entered unless notice has been received from the Civil Pay-Master to the effect that a remittance has been ordered, and in such case the name of the remitting Treasury should be shewn in the column of "remarks."

6. The "Total Receipts" of a month should include the cash balance on the 1st of the month.

7. A "probable deficiency" should only be shewn where a deficiency is actually expected by the disbursements being in excess of the sum of the cash balance and receipts; the amount of disbursements should not, as has been done in many cases, be exhibited as a deficiency, by which an erroneous "Grand Total" of Receipts and Disbursements is given.

8. The opening Balance of the Sheet should correspond with the "Cash Balance Report" of the close of the preceding month, with this exception that, while the latter should give the exact sum in a Treasury, so as to tally with the Monthly Treasury Accounts, the Estimate should exhibit no fractions of a Rupee and Rupees (where practicable) in even hundreds only, thus :—

9. Probable Disbursements.—Rule 5 will apply to expected Disbursements by Cash Remittances, which should not be calculated in anticipation of the Civil Pay-Master's orders.

10. The name of the Treasury to which the Remittance is to be made should appear in the column of remarks.

11. Transfer Remittances should be estimated and explained under column of remarks.

12. The "Cash Balance" at the foot of the column refers to the last day of the month.

13. The closing Cash Balance of one month forms the opening Cash Balance ("Probable Receipts") of the next.

14. The Grand Totals on the two sides of the account should tally.

15. Printed Forms (to be had at the Alipore Jail Press) should always be used for Treasury Estimates.

183. If any person accused of an offence absconds or conceals himself, so that upon a warrant issued against him he cannot be found, the Magistrate shall, if satisfied that such person absconds or conceals himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, issue a written proclamation, requiring such person to appear to answer the complaint within a fixed period not less than thirty days. Such order shall not authorize the attachment of any property out of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate by whom it is made, but it shall authorize the attachment of property in the jurisdiction of any Magistrate by whom such order is endorsed.

If on attachment witness appear and satisfy Magistrate, his property to be released from attachment.

190. If the witness shall appear and satisfy the Magistrate that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, and that he had not notice of the proclamation in time to attend at the time and place named therein, the Magistrate shall direct that the property be released from attachment, and shall make such order in regard to the costs of the attachment as he shall deem fit. If such witness shall not appear, or appearing, shall fail to satisfy the Magistrate that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding the service of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to order the property attached, or any part thereof, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying all costs incurred in consequence of such attachment, together with the amount of any fine which the Magistrate may impose upon such witness under the provisions of Section 172 of the Indian Penal Code. If the witness shall pay to the Magistrate the costs and fine as aforesaid, the Magistrate shall order the property to be released from attachment.

If he do not appear or satisfy Magistrate, property to be sold.

If he do not obey the summons, then warrant.

191. If any person summoned to give evidence, shall neglect or refuse to appear at the time and place appointed by the summons, and no just excuse shall be offered for such neglect or refusal, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate, upon proof of the summons having been duly served, to issue a warrant, under his hand and seal, to bring such person before him to testify as aforesaid.

Refusing to answer, may be committed to custody.

192. If any person summoned or brought before a Magistrate, shall refuse to answer such questions as shall be put to him, without offering any just excuse for such refusal, the Magistrate may, by warrant, under his hand and seal, commit the person refusing, to custody for any term not exceeding seven days, unless he shall, in the meantime, consent to be examined and to answer, after which, in the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of Section 163 of this Act.

Examination of the complainant and witnesses for the prosecution.

193. The Magistrate shall take the evidence of the complainant, and of such persons as are stated to have any knowledge of the facts which form the subject matter of the accusation and the attendant circumstances.

To be in the presence of the accused who may cross-examine.

194. The complainant and the witnesses for the prosecution shall be examined in the presence of the accused person, or of his Agent when his personal attendance is dispensed with and he appears by Agent. The accused or his Agent shall be permitted to cross-examine the complainant and his witnesses.

195. The evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, by or in the presence and hearing and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Magistrate, and shall be signed by the Magistrate. When the evidence of a witness is given in English, the Magistrate may take it down in that language with his own hand, and an authenticated translation of the same in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, shall form part of the record. In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate, he shall be bound, as the examination of each witness proceeds, to make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall be annexed to the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so.

Mode and language in which the evidence is to be recorded.

196. It shall be competent to the local Government to direct that in any District or part of a District to which this Act shall extend, or shall hereafter be extended, under the provisions of Section 445, of this Act the evidence of witnesses shall be taken down by the Magistrate with his own hand in the Vernacular language of the Magistrate, unless the Magistrate be prevented by any sufficient reason from taking down the evidence of any witness, in which case he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court. The evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Magistrate, and form part of the record. Provided that, if the Vernacular language of the Magistrate be not English or the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, the Magistrate may be directed by the local Government to take down the evidence in the English language or in the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, instead of his own Vernacular.

Local Government may direct the evidence to be recorded in the vernacular language of the Magistrate.

Proviso.

197. If any question shall arise as to what is the language in ordinary use in any District in which a Court is held, that question shall, for the purposes of this Act, be determined by the Local Government.

Local Government to decide what is the language in ordinary use in any District.

198. The evidence shall not ordinarily be taken down in the form of question and answer, but in the form of a narrative. It shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate to take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, if there shall appear any special reason for so doing, or any person who is a prosecutor, or a person accused, or his Counsel or Agent, shall require it. When the evidence is completed, it shall be read over to the witness in the presence of the accused person if in attendance, or of his Agent when his personal attendance is dispensed with and he appears by Agent, and shall, if necessary, be corrected. If the witness shall deny the correctness of any part of the evidence when the same is read over to him, the Magistrate may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he may think necessary. If the evidence be taken down in a different language from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the witness may require his evidence as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given, or in a language which he understands.

How the evidence is to be recorded.

199. A memorandum to be signed by the Magistrate shall be attached to the evidence of each witness, and shall state that the evidence was read over to the witness in a language which he understood (naming the language), and if the fact is so, that the witness acknowledged such evidence to be correct. When the evidence is not taken down by the Magistrate with his own hand, the memorandum shall further state that the evidence was taken down in the presence and hearing of the Magistrate, and under his personal direction and superintendence.

Memorandum to be attached to the evidence.

200. If the evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused person, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him, in all cases where the accused is present in person. If the accused person appears by Agent, and the evidence is given in a language other than the language in ordinary use in the District in which the Court is held, it shall be interpreted to such Agent in that language.

203. No influence, by means of any promise or threat or otherwise, shall be used to the accused person to induce him to disclose or withhold any matter within his knowledge; but if the accused person shall, of his own accord, propose to confess the commission by him of the offence of which he is accused, the Magistrate shall require him to give an account of the facts and circumstances in detail, and shall examine him thereupon in the same manner as if he were a witness.

or add to his answers; and when the whole is made conformable to what he declares is the truth, the examination shall be attested by the signature of the Magistrate, who shall certify under his own hand that it was taken in his presence and in his hearing, and contains accurately the whole of the statement made by the accused person.

Any person attending may be detained for any offence committed by him.

206. Any person attending the Court of the Magistrate, although not upon an arrest or summons on a charge made, may be detained by the Magistrate for the purpose of examination, for any offence which from the evidence he may appear to have committed, and may be proceeded against as though he had been arrested or summoned on a charge made.

Discretionary with the Magistrate to take evidence for the defence.

207. It shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate to summon any witness who may be offered in behalf of the accused person to answer or disprove the evidence against him.

If any person shall accept a tender of pardon under this Section, he shall be examined as a witness in the case under the rules applicable to the examination of witnesses. Such person, if not on bail, may, if the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall think proper, be detained in custody pending the termination of the trial.

210. It shall be competent to a Court of Session at the time of trial, and also to the Sudder Court as a Court of reference, in cases tried with the aid of Assessors, to instruct the Magistrate in like manner to tender a pardon to one or more persons supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in or privy to any such offence, with the view of obtaining his or their evidence on the trial.

When Sudder Court or Court of Session may direct the commitment of a person to whom a pardon may have been tendered.

211. If it shall appear to a Court of Session at the time of trial, or to the Sudder Court as a Court of reference, that any person who shall have accepted an offer of pardon, has not conformed to the conditions under which the pardon was tendered, either by wilfully concealing any thing essential, or by giving false evidence or information, it shall be competent to such Court to direct the commitment of such person for trial for the offence in respect of which the pardon was tendered.

Bail not to be taken for certain offences.

212. When any person shall appear or be brought before a Magistrate accused of any offence entered as not bailable in Column 5 of the Schedule annexed to this Act, such person shall not be admitted to bail, if there appear reasonable grounds for believing that he has been guilty of the crime imputed to him; but if the evidence given in support of the accusation shall, in the opinion of the Magistrate, not be such as to raise a strong presumption of the guilt of the accused person and to require his committal, or such evidence shall be adduced on behalf of the accused person as shall, in the opinion of the Magistrate, weaken the presumption of his guilt, but there shall appear to the Magistrate in either of such cases to be sufficient ground for further enquiry into his guilt, the accused person shall be admitted to bail pending such enquiry.

215. If through mistake or fraud insufficient bail has been taken, or if the sureties become afterwards insufficient, the accused person may be ordered by the Magistrate to find sufficient sureties, and in default, may be committed to prison.

Bail may be taken at any time before conviction.

216. If the accused person cannot find sureties when called upon, he shall be admitted to bail upon finding the same at any time afterwards before conviction.

Discharge on bail.

217. After the recognizances shall have been duly entered into, the Magistrate, in case the accused person shall have appeared voluntarily, or shall be in the custody of some Officer, shall thereupon discharge him; and in case he shall be in some prison or other place of confinement, shall issue a warrant of discharge to the jailor or other person having him in his custody, and such jailor or other person shall thereupon liberate him.

Discharge of sureties.

218. The sureties for an accused person may, at any time, apply to the Magistrate to be discharged from their engagements. On such an application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his warrant, directing that such person be brought before him. On the appearance of such person pursuant to the warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate shall direct the recognizances of the sureties to be discharged, and shall call upon such person to find other sureties, and in default, may order him to be committed to prison.

Proceedings to compel payment of penalty by accused.

219. Whenever by reason of default of appearance of the person executing the personal recognizance, the Magistrate shall be of opinion that proceedings should be had to compel payment of the penalty mentioned in the recognizance, he shall proceed to enforce the penalty by the attachment and sale of the moveable property belonging to such person, which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District.

Proceedings to compel payment of penalty sureties.

220. Whenever by reason of default of appearance by the person bailed, the Magistrate shall be of opinion that proceedings should be had to compel payment of the penalty mentioned in the recognizance of the surety or sureties, he shall give notice to the surety or sureties to pay the same, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and, if no sufficient cause be shown, the Magistrate shall proceed to recover the penalty from such surety or sureties by the attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to such surety or sureties which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and if the penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, such surety or sureties shall be liable to confinement, by order of the Magistrate, in the Civil jail, during a period not exceeding six months.

In what cases the powers given by the last two Sections may be exercised.

221. The powers given by the last two preceding Sections may be exercised by every Criminal Court in every case in which a personal recognizance or bail has been given for the appearance of a party or witness, if default is made by the non-appearance of such party or witness before such Court according to the conditions of such recognizance or bail.

When Magistrate may adjourn the enquiry.

224. If from the absence of a witness or from any other reasonable cause, it shall become necessary or advisable to defer the examination, or further examination, of witnesses, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate by a written order, from time to time, to adjourn the enquiry, and to remand the accused person for such time as shall be deemed reasonable, not exceeding fifteen days; provided that, instead of detaining the accused person in custody during the period for which he shall be so remanded, the Magistrate may discharge him, upon his entering into a recognizance, with or without a surety or sureties, at the discretion of such Magistrate, conditioned for his appearance before the Magistrate at the time and place appointed for the continuance of such examination.

When accused person to be discharged.

225. When a Magistrate finds that there are not sufficient grounds for committing the accused person to take his trial before the Court of Session or for remanding him, he shall discharge him, unless it shall appear to the Magistrate that such person should be put on his trial before himself, in which case he shall proceed under Chapter XIV of this Act.

When defendant to be committed for trial.

226. When evidence has been given before a Magistrate which appears to be sufficient for the conviction of the accused person of an offence which is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, or which, in the oipnion of the Magistrate, is one that ought to be tried by the Court of Session, the accused person shall be sent for trial by the Magistrate before the Court of Session. If the Magistrate is a Justice of the Peace and the accused person is a European British subject, he shall be sent for trial before the Supreme Court of Judicature.

227. As soon as the charge on which the accused person is to be tried has been prepared as hereinafter directed, it shall be read to him, and a copy or translation of it shall be furnished to him, if he require it.

Witnesses for the defence on the trial.

The accused person shall be required at once to give in orally or in writing, a list of witnesses whom he may wish to be summoned to give evidence on his trial before the Court of Session or Supreme Court. It shall be in the discretion of the Magistrate to allow the accused person to give in any further list of witnesses at a subsequent time. The Magistrate shall receive the list, and summon the witnesses to appear before the Court before which the accused person is to be tried. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192, of this Act so far as they relate to the attendance of witnesses, shall be applicable to witnesses named by the accused person in the list above mentioned.

Magistrate may refuse to summon unnecessary witness, unless a deposit be made to defray the expenses of such witness.

228. If the Magistrate shall be of opinion that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay or of defeating the ends of justice, he may require the accused person to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that such witness is material, and if the Magistrate be not so satisfied, he shall not be bound to summon the witness, unless such a sum shall be deposited with the Magistrate as he shall consider necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness.

Record to be forwarded to the Superior Court.

When the accused person is committed to take his trial before the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall issue an order to the Government Pleader or other Officer appointed by the Government to conduct prosecutions before the Court of Session, notifying such commitment, and stating the offence in the same form as the charge. Nothing in this Section shall preclude the Magistrate, if he shall think fit, from appointing a person other than such Government Pleader or Officer to conduct the prosecution.

232. Prosecutors and witnesses for the prosecution, whose attendance may be necessary before the Court of Session, shall execute before the Magistrate recognizances in the Form (E) given in the Appendix or to the like effect to be in attendance when called upon at the Court of Session, to prosecute or to give evidence as the case may be. If any prosecutor or witness shall refuse to attend before the Court of Session or to execute the recognizance above directed, it shall be competent to the Magistrate to detain such prosecutor or witness in custody, until he shall execute such recognizance, or until the time when his attendance at the Court of Session is required, when the Magistrate shall forward such prosecutor or witness under custody to the Court of Session.

Summons instead of warrant.

Issue of process.

149. The provisions of Chapter XII relating to the issuing of process for causing the attendance of the accused person, the taking of bail, the summoning and enforcing the attendance of witnesses, the examination of parties and witnesses, the mode of recording evidence, correction, attestation, and interpretation thereof, and the adjournment of a case, shall be applicable to cases tried under this Chapter. 251. The charge shall then be read to the accused person, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty or has any defence to make.

Plea of claim to be tried.

252. If the accused person have any defence to make to the charge, he shall be called upon to enter upon the same, and to produce his witnesses if in attendance, and shall be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution.

Evidence for the defence.

253. The Magistrate shall summon any witness and examine any evidence that may be offered in behalf of the accused person, to answer or disprove the evidence against him, and may, for this purpose, at his discretion, adjourn the trial from time to time, as may be necessary.

Witnesses for the defence.

254. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 of this Act shall be applicable to witnesses named in support of the defence.

Acquittal or conviction.

255. If the Magistrate shall find the accused person not guilty, he shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused person is convicted, the Magistrate shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

How the Magistrate is to proceed when, after commencement of trial, he finds the case beyond his jurisdiction.

256. In any trial before a Magistrate, in which it may appear at any stage of the proceedings that from any cause the case is one which the Magistrate is not competent to try, or which, in the opinion of such Magistrate, ought to be tried by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall stop further proceedings under this Chapter, and shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

CHAPTER XV.

Of Cases triable by the Magistrate in which a Summons on Complaint shall ordinarily issue.

Summons shall issue.

257. Whenever a complaint is made before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, that any person has committed or is suspected to have committed any offence triable by such Magistrate and punishable under the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue his summons directed to such person, stating shortly the matter of such complaint, and requiring him to appear at a certain time and place before such Magistrate to answer to the complaint. Provided that, if the Magistrate shall be satisfied or have reason to believe that the accused person is about to abscond, he may, instead of issuing a summons, issue his warrant in the first instance for the arrest of such accused person.

When warrant may issue.

Defendant may be admitted to bail or to be at large upon personal recognizance.

258. If, upon the day appointed, the accused person shall appear voluntarily in obedience to the summons in that behalf served upon him, or shall be brought before the Magistrate by virtue of a warrant, it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate to admit the accused person to bail, or allow him to be at large upon his personal recognizance, as the Magistrate may direct. If the accused person cannot give bail, when required to do so, he shall be committed to custody.

Non-appearance of complainant.

259. If upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused person or any day subsequent thereto on which the case may be called on, the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint; unless for some reason he shall think proper to adjourn the hearing of the same to some other day, upon such terms as he shall think fit.

If summons be not obeyed, warrant.

260. If the person served with a summons shall not appear before the Magistrate at the time mentioned in such summons, and the Magistrate shall be satisfied that such summons was duly served in what shall be deemed by the Magistrate to be a reasonable time before the time therein appointed for appearing to the same, or if it shall appear to the Magistrate that after due diligence the summons could not be served according to the provisions of this Act, the Magistrate may issue his warrant to apprehend the accused person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of accused.

261. The Magistrate may, if he sees sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person complained against, and permit him to appear by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf. Provided that it shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate at any stage of the proceedings to direct the personal attendance of such person. When the personal attendance of the accused person during the trial has been dispensed with, the sentence of the Magistrate, if the sentence be for fine only, may be pronounced in the presence of the Agent if the accused person has been permitted to appear by Agent, or the accused person may be required to attend to hear such sentence.

Summons to witness to attend and give evidence.

262. If it appear to the Magistrate that any person is likely to give material evidence on behalf of the complainant or the accused person, and that such person will not voluntarily appear for the purpose of being examined as a witness at the time and place appointed for the hearing of such complaint, the Magistrate shall issue his summons to such person under his signature and seal, requiring him to appear at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to testify what he knows concerning the matter of the complaint.

Magistrate may summon necessary evidence.

263. It shall be at the discretion of the Magistrate, at any stage of the trial, to summon and examine any witness whose evidence he may consider essential to the just decision of the case. The Magistrate may also examine as a witness any person in attendance, although not summoned as a witness.

Application of previous rules.

264. The provisions of Sections 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, and 192 shall be applicable to witnesses summoned according to the provisions of Sections 262 and 263 of this Act.

Admission by accused of truth of complaint.

265. On the appearance of both parties on the day fixed for the trial, the substance of the complaint shall be stated to the accused person, and he shall be asked if he has any cause to show why he should not be convicted. If the accused person admit the truth of the complaint, and show no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate may convict him accordingly.

Proceeding when no such admission is made.

266. If the accused person do not admit the truth of the complaint, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant and such witnesses as he may produce in support of his complaint, and also to hear the accused person and such witnesses as he shall produce in his defence.

How the evidence is to be recorded.

267. The Magistrate shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness, as the examination of the witness proceeds. The memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record. If the Magistrate shall be prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such memorandum shall form part of the record. The Magistrate shall record such remarks as he shall think material respecting the demeanor of any witness whilst under examination.

Manner of recording evidence in certain cases.

268. In any case in which the Magistrate shall consider it necessary, it shall be competent to him, instead of taking down merely the substance of the evidence of any witness, to take down the evidence of the witness in the manner provided in Section 195 or in the manner provided by Section 196 of this Act if within the jurisdiction of such Magistrate the local Government shall have made an order as provided in that Section. In any such case the provisions of Sections 199 and 200 shall be applicable to the evidence so taken.

Adjournment.

269. Before or during the hearing of any complaint, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to adjourn the hearing of the same to a day, to be then appointed and stated in the presence and hearing of the party or parties; and if on the day to which such hearing or such further hearing shall have been so adjourned, the accused person shall not appear, the Magistrate may issue his warrant for the arrest of such person, and if the complainant shall not appear, the Magistrate may dismiss the complaint.

Magistrate may award amends in cases of frivolous and vexatious complaints.

270. In any case where the Magistrate shall dismiss the complaint as frivolous and vexatious, it shall be lawful for him, in his discretion by his order of dismissal, to award that the complainant shall pay to the accused person such amends, not exceeding fifty Rupees, as to such Magistrate shall seem just and reasonable. The sum so awarded shall be recoverable by distress and sale of the moveable property belonging to the complainant, which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and in default of such distress, imprisonment, in the Civil jail, for any time not exceeding thirty days, unless such amends shall be sooner paid.

Magistrate may permit withdrawal of the complaint.

271. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this Chapter, shall satisfy the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit such complainant to withdraw such complaint. A complaint withdrawn under this Section shall not again be entertained.

Acquittal or conviction.

272. If the Magistrate, in any case tried under this Chapter, shall find the accused person not guilty, he shall record a judgment of acquittal. If the accused person is convicted, the Magistrate shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

CHAPTER XVI.

Of Enquiries and Trials before the Subordinate Magistrates.

Reference of cases to Subordinate Magistrate.

273. Criminal cases brought before the Magistrate of the District or a Magistrate in charge of a division of a District, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer, may be referred by such Magistrate to any Magistrate subordinate to him. The reference shall be for enquiry or for trial if the offence be triable by such Subordinate Magistrate, or with a view to commitment to the Court of Session if such Magistrate is competent to commit to the Court of Session, or with a view to commitment to the Supreme Court of Judicature if such Subordinate Magistrate is competent to commit to such Supreme Court.

Proviso.

Provided that nothing in this Section shall prevent any Subordinate Magistrate from entertaining, either on complaint preferred directly to such Magistrate or on the report of a Police Officer (in cases in which the Subordinate Magistrate is authorized to receive such report), any case that such Magistrate is, by any law for the time being in force, competent to entertain.

Cases how to be referred.

274. When a criminal case is referred under this Chapter to a Subordinate Magistrate, the order of reference, if the case has been brought forward on the report of a Police Officer, shall be recorded on such report, and all processes issued for causing the attendance of the accused person or the witnesses, shall direct them to attend before such Court.

Subordinate Magistrates to follow the same rules of procedure as the Magistrate.

275. In the enquiry into or trial of cases under this Chapter, the Subordinate Magistrates shall be guided by the rules prescribed for the guidance of the Magistrate of the District in similar cases; and Police Officers and others shall be bound to obey all orders and processes issued in such cases in like manner as if such orders or processes had been issued by the Magistrate of the District.

How the Subordinate Magistrate is to proceed in cases beyond his jurisdiction.

276. If, in the course of a trial before a Subordinate Magistrate, the evidence shall appear to him to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence which such Magistrate is not competent to try or for which he is not competent to commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session, he shall stay proceedings and shall submit the case to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate. The Magistrate to whom the case is submitted shall either try the case himself or refer it to any Officer subordinate to him having jurisdiction, or he may commit the accused person for trial before the Court of Session. In any such case, such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall examine the parties and witnesses, and shall proceed in all respects as if no proceedings had been held in any other Court.

In what cases Subordinate Magistrate shall not pass sentence, but may refer case to the Magistrate.

277. If in any case tried by a Subordinate Magistrate having jurisdiction in which the accused person is found guilty, such Magistrate shall consider the offence established against the accused person to call for a more severe punishment than he is competent to adjudge, he shall record the finding and submit his proceedings to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, and such Magistrate shall pass such sentence or order in the case as he may deem proper and as shall be according to law. In any such case the Magistrate to whom the proceedings are submitted, may examine the parties, and recall and examine any witness who shall already have given evidence in the case, and he may call for or take any further evidence.

How the Magistrate is to proceed in such cases.

Subordinate Magistrate, if empowered to do so, may, instead of convicting the accused, commit him for trial before the Court of Session.

278. Nothing in the last preceding Section shall be held to prevent the Subordinate Magistrate in any such case as is therein described, if such Magistrate is empowered to hold the preliminary enquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session and to commit persons to take their trial before such Court, from committing the accused person for trial before the Court of Session instead of finding him guilty. If the Subordinate Magistrate shall be of opinion that the accused person should be committed for trial before the Court of Session, he shall proceed in accordance with Chapter XII of this Act for conducting the preliminary enquiry in cases triable by the Court of Session.

Mode of procedure in such cases.

CHAPTER XVII.

Place where Preliminary Investigations and Trials held, an Open Court.

Place where investigation made, an open Court.

279. The place in which the Court of a Magistrate is held for the trial of any complaint or for the purpose of conducting any preliminary investigation into any case triable by a Court of Session or Supreme Court of Judicature, or any Superior Court, shall be deemed an open and public Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them; but it shall be lawful for any such Court, if it shall think fit, to order that during the investigation into any particular case triable by a Court of Session or by a Supreme Court of Judicature, no person shall have access to or be or remain in such room or building without the consent or permission of the Court.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Of Recognizance and Security to keep the Peace.

Personal recognizance to keep the peace in cases of conviction.

280. Whenever a person charged with rioting, assault, or other breach of the peace, or with abetting the same, or with assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, shall be convicted of such charge before any Court of Session or the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, and the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the accused person is convicted, or the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid by which the final sentence or order in the case shall be passed, shall be of opinion that it is just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace, from the person so convicted, it shall be lawful to such Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid so convicting the accused person, or so passing the final sentence or order as aforesaid, in addition, to direct that the person so convicted be required to execute a formal engagement, in a sum proportionate to his condition in life and the circumstances of the case, for keeping the peace during such period as it may appear proper to fix in each instance, not exceeding one year if the sentence or order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the sentence or final order be passed by a Court of Session. When any accused person shall be convicted of any offence specified in this Section by an Officer not exercising the powers of a Magistrate, such Officer, if he consider it just and necessary to require a penal recognizance for keeping the peace from the person so convicted, shall report the case to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate to whom such Officer may be subordinate, who shall deal with the case as if the conviction had been before himself.

Security to keep the peace.

281. In cases in which it may appear necessary to require security for keeping the peace, in addition to the personal recognizance of the party so convicted, it shall also be lawful to the Court or Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, empowered to require a penal recognizance under the last preceding Section, to require security in addition thereto and to fix the amount of the security-bond to be executed by the surety or sureties; with a provision that, if the same be not given, the party required to find the security shall be kept in custody for any time not exceeding one year if the order be passed by the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, or three years if the order be passed by the Sudder Court or by a Court of Session.

Summons to any person to show cause why he should not enter into a bond to keep the peace.

282. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate, whenever he shall receive credible information that any person, whether a European British subject or not, is likely to commit a breach of the peace, or to do any act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, to summon such person to attend at a time and place mentioned in the summons, to show cause why he should not be required to enter into a bond to keep the peace with or without sureties as such Magistrate shall think fit.

Form of summons.

283. The summons shall set forth the substance of the information, the amount of the bond and the term for which it is to be in force, and if security is called for, the number of sureties required, and the amount in which they are to be bound respectively. Such summons shall be served in the manner provided by this Act for the service of a summons on an accused person.

Penalty.

284. The penalty of such bond, which shall be in the Form (D) given in the Appendix or to the like effect, shall be fixed with a due regard to the circumstances of the case and the means of the party, and the amount in which the sureties shall be bound shall not exceed the said penalty.

Warrant of arrest.

285. If the person summoned shall not attend on the day appointed, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, if satisfied that the summons has been duly served, may issue a warrant for his arrest. Provided that, whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, upon the report of a Police Officer or upon other credible information, the substance of which report or information shall be recorded, that there is just reason to fear the commission of a breach of the peace, which may probably be prevented by the immediate arrest of any person, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate at any time to issue a warrant for the arrest of such person.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of party informed against.

286. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he see sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of the person informed against and permit him to appear and enter into the required security, or show cause against such requisition by an Agent duly authorized to act in his behalf.

Discharge of party informed against.

287. If on the appearance of the person, or of his Agent if he is permitted to appear by Agent, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall not be satisfied that there is occasion to bind such person to keep the peace, he shall direct his discharge.

Consequence of not complying with order of Magistrate to enter into a bond.

288. If the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be satisfied that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to take a bond from such person with or without security, he shall make an order accordingly; and if the person shall fail to comply with the order, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to commit him to jail.

289. The period for which the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may bind a person to keep the peace with or without security, shall not exceed one year. When a person shall be committed to jail under the last preceding Section, he shall not be detained by authority of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid beyond the term of one year, and shall be released whenever he shall comply with the order within that term.

290. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that it is necessary for the preservation of the peace to bind a person beyond the term of one year, he may, before the expiration of the first year, record his opinion to that effect and the grounds thereof, and may refer the case for the orders of the Court of Session, and such Court, after examining the proceedings of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid and making such further enquiry as such Court may think necessary, may, if it shall see cause, authorize the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to extend the term for a further period not exceeding one year, and if the party shall fail to give a bond, with security if required, for his keeping the peace for such further period as the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct under the orders of the Court of Session, he may be kept in confinement for such further period or until he shall give such bond within that period.

Extension of period of confinement.

291. The Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may, if he shall see sufficient cause, discharge any recognizance and surety for keeping the peace taken under the preceding Sections, and may order the release of the person confined for default in entering into such recognizance or giving such security.

Discharge of recognizances.

292. A surety for the personal appearance of another person may at any time apply to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to be relieved from his engagement as surety. On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his summons or warrant in order that the person for whom such surety is bound, may appear or be brought before him. On the appearance of the person to such warrant or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct the engagement of the surety to be cancelled and shall call upon such person to give fresh security, and in default thereof shall commit him to custody.

Discharge of sureties.

293. Whenever it may be proved before the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that any recognizance or other bond taken under this Chapter has been forfeited, he shall record the grounds of such proof and shall call upon the person bound by the bond to pay the penalty thereof or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if sufficient cause be not shown and the penalty be not paid, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall proceed to recover the same by the attachment and sale of any of the moveable property belonging to the person bound thereby which shall be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District, and if the penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, the party shall be liable to imprisonment by order of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid in the Civil Jail, for a period not exceeding six months.

Enforcement of penalty against the principal party.

294. Whenever it may be proved before the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid that any bond with a surety has been forfeited, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may at his discretion give notice to the surety to pay the penalty to which he has thereby become liable, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if no sufficient cause be shown, and the penalty be not paid, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid may proceed to recover payment of the penalty from such surety in the same manner as from the principal party.

Recovery of penalty from surety.

CHAPTER XIX.

Security for Good Behaviour.

295. Whenever it shall appear to the Magistrate of the District or to an Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate that any person is lurking within his jurisdiction not having any ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself, it shall be competent to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to require security for the good behaviour of such person for a period not exceeding six months.

When Magistrate may require security for good behaviour for six months.

296. Whenever it shall appear to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid from the evidence as to general character adduced before him, that any person is by repute a robber, housebreaker, or thief, or a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or of notoriously bad livelihood, it shall be competent to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to require security for the good behaviour of such person for a period not exceeding one year.

When Magistrate may require security for good behaviour for one year.

297. Whenever it shall appear to such Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid from the evidence as to general character adduced before him, that any person is by habit a robber, house-breaker, or thief, or a receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, or of a character so desperate and dangerous as to render his release, without security, at the expiration of the limited period of one year, hazardous to the community, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall record his opinion to that effect, with an order specifying the amount of security which should, in his judgment, be required from such person, as well as the number of sureties, and the period, not exceeding three years, for which the sureties should be responsible for such person's good behaviour.

How to proceed in cases beyond one year.

298. If the person required to furnish security as provided in the last preceding Section, shall not furnish the security so required, the proceedings shall be laid, as soon as conveniently may be, before the Court of Session, which, after examining them and requiring any further information or evidence which it may judge necessary, shall be competent to pass orders on the case, either confirming, modifying, or annulling the orders of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid as it may judge proper.

Case to be laid before the Court of Session.

299. If the Court of Session shall not think it safe to direct the immediate discharge of such person, it shall fix a limited period for his detention, not exceeding three years, in the event of his not giving the security required from him.

Court of Session may require security not exceeding three years.

What the order for security is to contain.

300. In every instance in which security for good behaviour shall be required by the Court of Session or the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid, the amount of the security, the number of sureties, and the period of time for which the sureties are to be responsible for the good conduct of the person required to furnish security, shall be stated in the order. The security-bond shall be in the Form (F.) given in the Appendix, or to the like effect.

In default of security, party to be committed to prison.

301. In the event of any person required to give security under the provisions of the foregoing Sections, failing to furnish the security so required, he shall be committed to prison until he furnish the same. Proviso. Provided that no party shall be kept in prison for a longer period than that for which the security has been required from him.

When Magistrate may release persons under requisition of security.

302. The Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate is empowered at any time, to exercise his discretion in releasing, without reference to any other authority, any prisoner confined under requisition of security for good behaviour, whether by his own order or by the order of any Officer subordinate to him, provided he shall be of opinion that such person can be released without hazard to the community.

When he must report.

303. In any case in which a Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be of opinion that any person confined under requisition of security for good behaviour by order of a Court of Session, can be safely released without such security, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall make an immediate report of the case for the orders of the Court which shall have required the person to furnish the security.

Discharge of surety.

304. A surety for the good behaviour of a person may at any time apply to the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid to be relieved from his engagement as surety. On such application being made, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall issue his summons or warrant in order that the person may appear or be brought before him. On the appearance of the party pursuant to the warrant or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall direct the engagement of the surety to be cancelled, and shall call upon the person to give fresh security, and in default thereof shall commit him to custody.

Proceeding to compel payment of penalty by sureties.

305. Whenever the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall be of opinion that, by reason of an offence proved to have been committed by the person for whose good behaviour security has been given, subsequent to his having given such security, proceedings should be had upon the bond executed by the surety, he shall give notice to the surety to pay the penalty, or to show cause why it should not be paid; and if no sufficient cause be shown, the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid shall proceed to recover the penalty from such surety by the attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to such surety which may be found within the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of the District; and if the penalty be not paid, and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, such surety shall be liable to imprisonment by order of the Magistrate or other Officer as aforesaid in the Civil jail for a period not exceeding six months.

Issue of summons and warrant of arrest.

306. The several provisions of the last preceding Chapter relating to the issue of summons and warrant of arrest for securing the personal attendance of the party informed against, shall apply to proceedings taken under this Chapter against persons required to give security for their good behaviour.

Manner of taking evidence under Chapter XVIII or this Chapter.

307. Any evidence taken under Chapter XVIII or this Chapter, shall be taken in the manner prescribed by Section 267, subject to the provision contained in Section 268 of this Act.

CHAPTER XX.

Of Local Nuisances.

Magistrate may order removal of nuisances.

308. Whenever the Magistrate of a District or of a division of a District may consider that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any thoroughfare or public place, or that any trade or occupation, by reason of its being injurious to the health or comfort of the community, should be suppressed or should be removed to a different place, or that the construction of any building or the disposal of any combustible substance, as likely to occasion conflagration, should be prevented, or that any building is in such a state of weakness that it is likely to fall, and thereby cause injury to persons passing by, and that its removal in consequence is necessary, or that any tank or well adjacent to any public thoroughfare should be fenced in such a manner as to prevent danger arising to the public, he may issue an order to the person causing such obstruction or nuisance or carrying on such trade or occupation, or being the owner or in possession of, or having control over, such building, substance, tank, or well as aforesaid, calling on such person within a time to be fixed in the order to remove such obstruction or nuisance, or to suppress or remove such trade or occupation, or to stop the construction of, or to remove such building, or to alter the disposal of such substance, or to fence such tank or well, (as the case may be,) or to appear before such Magistrate within the time mentioned in the order, and show cause why such order should not be enforced.

Service or notification of order.

309. Such order shall, if practicable, be served personally on the person to whom it is issued; but if personal service is found to be impracticable, the order shall be notified by proclamation, and a written notice thereof shall be stuck up at at such place or places as may be best adapted for conveying the information to such person.

Person ordered shall obey the order, or may claim a Jury.

310. The person to whom such order is issued, shall be bound, within the time specified in the order, to obey the same or to appear before the Magistrate to show cause as aforesaid, or he may apply to the Magistrate by petition for an order for a Jury to be appointed to try whether the order is reasonable and proper. On receiving such petition, the Magistrate shall forthwith appoint a Jury which shall consist of not less than five persons, whereof the President and one-half of the Members shall be nominated by such Magistrate, and the remaining Members by the party petitioning. The Magistrate shall suspend the execution of the order pending such enquiry, and be guided by the decision of the Jury, which shall be according to the opinion of the majority. If the petitioner shall, by neglect or in any other way, prevent the appointment of a Jury, or if from any cause the Jury so appointed shall not decide and report within a reasonable time to be fixed in the order for the appointment, their functions shall cease from the date of the expiration of such period, unless they be continued by special order of the Magistrate; and if from any of the above causes no decision be made by the Jury, the order of the Magistrate shall be carried into effect as hereinafter provided.

Constitution of Jury.

Proceeding in case of neglect by Jury.

311. If the person to whom the order mentioned in Section 308 is issued shall not obey such order, or show cause against the same as hereinafter provided, or petition for a Jury within the time specified in such order, he shall be liable to the penalty prescribed in that behalf in Section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, and the Magistrate who issued such order may proceed to carry such order into execution at the expense of such person, and may realize such expenses either by the sale of any building, goods, or other property removed by his order, or by the distress and sale of the personal property of the person aforesaid, and no suit or action shall be entertained in any Court in respect of anything necessarily or reasonably done to give effect to such order.

Procedure in case of disobedience or neglect by party ordered.

312. If, in a case referred to a Jury, the Jury shall find that the order of the Magistrate is reasonable and proper, the Magistrate shall give notice thereof to the person to whom the order was issued, and shall add to such notice an order to obey the order first mentioned within a time to be fixed therein under the penalty provided by the Indian Penal Code as aforesaid. If such latter order shall not be obeyed, the Magistrate may proceed as in the last preceding Section.

If Jury find order of Magistrate to be reasonable and proper.

313. If the person to whom the order of the Magistrate is issued, shall appear and show cause against the same, and shall satisfy the Magistrate that the order is not reasonable and proper, no further proceedings shall be taken in the case.

If party ordered satisfy the Magistrate that the order is not reasonable and proper.

314. If, pending the enquiry by a Jury, the Magistrate shall consider that immediate measures are necessary to be taken to prevent imminent danger or injury of a serious kind to the public, it shall be lawful for such Magistrate to issue such an injunction and order to the person mentioned in that behalf in Section 308, as shall be required to obviate or prevent such danger or injury, and in default of such person forthwith taking all necessary measures ordered to be taken by such injunction or order, the Magistrate may himself use or cause to be used such means as may be necessary to obviate such danger or to prevent such injury, and no suit or action shall be entertained in respect of any thing necessarily or reasonably done for that purpose.

Issue and enforcement of injunction.

315. Nothing in this Chapter shall interfere with the provisions of Section XLVIII of Act XXIV of 1859 (for the better regulation of the Police within the territories subject to the Presidency of Fort St. George) or of Section XXXIV of Act V of 1861 (for the regulation of Police.)

Saving of certain provisions.

CHAPTER XXI.

Of the Maintenance of Wives and Children.

316. Any objection made to a Juror shall be decided by the Court, and the decision of the Court shall be final. If an objection be allowed, the place of such Juror shall be supplied by any other Juror in attendance in obedience to a summons, or if there be no such Juror present, then by any other person present in the Court whose name is on the list of Jurors, or whom the Court shall consider a proper person to serve on the Jury, provided no objection to such Juror or other person be made and allowed.

It shall be the duty of such Foreman to preside in the debates of the Jury, to deliver the verdict of the Jury, or ask any information from the Court that may be required by the Jury. If a majority do not agree in the appointment of a Foreman, he shall be named by the Court.

The same Jury or Assessors may try in succession several offenders.

347. The same Jury, if not objected to, may try, or the same Assessors may aid in the trial of, as many accused persons successively as to the Court shall seem expedient.

View by Jury or Assessors.

348. Whenever in the opinion of the Court it may be proper and convenient that the Jury or Assessors should have a view of the place in which the offence charged is said to have been committed, or of any other place in which any other transaction material to the enquiry in the trial took place, an order shall be made to that effect, and the Jury or Assessors shall be conducted in a body under the care of an Officer of the Court to the place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court, and it shall be the duty of the Officer not to suffer any other person to speak to or hold any communication with any of the Jury or Assessors, and they shall, when the view is finished, be immediately conducted back into Court.

The Court shall also at the same time in like manner cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons shall have been summoned for Jury trials at that Session. The names of the persons to be summoned shall be drawn by lot, excluding those who have served within six months, unless the number cannot be made up without them. From the whole number of persons returned, the Jurors who are to constitute the Jury shall be taken by lot in the manner prescribed in Section 342, until a Jury, containing the proper number of the races mentioned in Section 323, or a number approaching as nearly thereto as possible, has been obtained. The Jurors shall be liable to the same objections as any other Jurors. If a Jury containing the requisite number of the races mentioned in Section 323 be not obtained, the accused person may elect to be tried by the Judge with the aid of Assessors; otherwise he shall be tried by the Jury obtained by the means aforesaid.

If, prior to finding, any of the Jury be unable to proceed with the trial.

350. If, in the course of a trial by Jury at any time prior to the finding, any Juror shall, from any sufficient cause, be prevented from attending through the trial, or if any Juror shall absent himself, and it shall not be possible to enforce his attendance, a new Juror shall be added, or the Jury shall be discharged, and a new Jury empannelled, and in either case the trial shall commence anew.

Verdict of guilty by less than the specified majority of Jury.

351. In any trial by Jury if the accused person is found guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is specified in that behalf in Section 328 of this Act, or if the accused person be found not guilty by a majority consisting of a less number of the Jury than is therein in that behalf specified, the Jury shall be discharged, and in any such case as aforesaid there shall be a new trial before a Jury consisting entirely of other Jurors, and the accused person may be remanded or held to bail for such new trial. If, on any new trial by Jury, the accused person shall not be found guilty by a majority consisting of such a number as aforesaid, he shall be acquitted.

When and how long Jury may retire for finding.

352. At the close of the trial, and after the Judge has summed up the evidence as hereinafter provided by Section 379 of this Act, the Jury may retire to consider their finding, and it shall be the duty of an Officer of the Court not to suffer any person to speak to or hold any communication with any member of such Jury. In any case in which a Jury shall be prepared to deliver their finding, the Judge shall ask the Jury whether they are unanimous, and if the foreman or one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Judge may require such Jury to retire for further consideration. If, after such a period as the Judge shall consider reasonable, the foreman or any one of the Jury shall declare that they are not unanimous, the Jury may deliver their verdict.

If either of the Assessors be unable to proceed with trial.

353. If, in the course of a trial with the aid of Assessors, at any time prior to the finding, any Assessor shall from any sufficient cause be prevented from attending through the trial, the trial shall proceed with the aid of the other Assessor or Assessors. If all the Assessors are prevented from attending through the trial, the proceedings shall be stayed, and a new trial shall be held with the aid of fresh Assessors.

Penalty for non-attendance of Juror or Assessor.

354. Any person summoned to attend as a Juror or as an Assessor, who shall without lawful excuse fail to attend as required by the summons, or having attended shall depart without having obtained the permission of the Court, shall be liable by order of the Court of Session to a fine not exceeding one hundred Rupees, to be levied by the Magistrate of the District by attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to such Juror or Assessor within the jurisdiction of the Court making the order, or in default of recovery of the fine by such attachment and sale, such Juror or Assessor may be imprisoned in the Civil Jail for the space of fifteen days if the fine be not sooner paid.

Subordinate Magistrates of the first and second classes in the Presidency of Fort St. George shall commit to the Court of Session any persons charged with offences triable exclusively by that Court, or shall, under such orders as the Sudder Court shall from time to time issue, either commit to the subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens the cases of persons accused of offences triable by such subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens, or refer such cases for the orders of the Magistrate of the District or other Officer exercising the powers of a Magistrate. If the case be referred to the Magistrate of the District or other Officer as aforesaid, such Magistrate or other Officer shall examine the parties and witnesses, and shall proceed in all respects as if no proceedings had been held in any other Court.

358. In cases committed for trial before the Subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens in the Presidency of Fort St. George, they shall be guided by the rules contained in this Act for the trial of cases before the Magistrate, which are hereby made applicable to such cases. The Subordinate Judges and Principal Sudder Ameens may commit any case to the Court of Session in which the evidence is such as to warrant a presumption that the accused person has been guilty of an offence calling for a more severe punishment than such Subordinate Judges or Principal Sudder Ameens are authorized to adjudge.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL OF INDIA.

ACT No. XXVI OF 1861.

An Act to regulate the occupation of land in the Settlement of Malacca.

Preamble.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the power of Her Majesty to convey in fee simple, in the District of Malacca (within the Setlement of Malacca), the lands in which certain rights and interests were surrendered to the Honorable the East India Company in the years 1828 and 1829, and whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts, and to declare the rights of Her Majesty in respect to such lands, and otherwise to amend the law relating to the occupation of land situate within the Settlement of Malacca; It is enacted as follows:—

Certain lands surrendered to the East India Company declared to be vested in the Queen.

I. The lands in the District of Malacca in which certain rights and interests were surrendered to the East India Company in the years 1828 and 1829, on condition that a certain amount then settled and agreed upon should be paid by the Government annually, so long as the British rule in the said District continued, to every person making such surrender, and on condition also that every such person in the event of the cessation of the British rule in the said District should resume the rights then conditionally surrendered to the British Government, are hereby declared to be vested in fee simple in Her Majesty the Queen, Her Heirs, and Successors (saving always any rights or interests lawfully vested in any under-tenants and cultivators holding or occupying any portion of such lands), and any conveyance which after the passing of this Act shall be made by Her Majesty, Her Heirs, and Successors of any of the said lands in fee simple or otherwise (not inconsistent with the rights or interests aforesaid of such under-tenants and cultivators) shall be good and valid for all intents and purposes whatsoever.

Payment of annuities to the grantees or proprietors of the surrendered estates.

II. The annuities stipulated to be paid to the persons who surrendered the rights and interests aforesaid shall be paid as a perpetual annuity to the said persons, their heirs or representatives by the Government of India, but it shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council to commute the perpetual annuity payable to any such annuitant, for such sum and on such terms as may with such annuitant be agreed upon, in full discharge of the perpetual annuity so commuted and of all rights or obligations whatsoever connected therewith. In the event of a cessation of British rule in the said District, nothing in this Section shall interfere with the claim of any person then enjoying an uncommuted annuity under this Section to a money compensation from the Government, equal to the then value of any right or interest in land surrendered by him as described in the last Section, which but for the passing of this Act would then have reverted to him. No such surrendered right or interest in such land shall then revert to or revive in any such annuitant, nor shall any such annuitant have a claim in connection with any such right or interest to aught but a money compensation from the Government.

Cultivators and tenants subject to payment to Government of one-tenth of produce.

III. All cultivators and resident tenants of the lands referred to in the first Section of this Act as well as in the District of Naning who hold their lands by prescription, are hereby declared to be and shall be subject to a payment of one-tenth part of the produce thereof to Government; such payment to be made in kind or in the form

No. 104.

To HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,—I TRANSMIT herewith, for the information of your Excellency's Government, a printed copy of a Treaty of Commerce and Navigation between Great Britian and the Sultan, signed on the 29th April 1861.

I have, &c.,

TREATY OF COMMERCE AND NAVIGATION BETWEEN HER MAJESTY AND THE SULTAN.

SIGNED AT KANLIDJA, 29TH APRIL 1861.

[Ratifications exchanged at Constantinople, 9th July 1861.]

HER MAJESTY the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland on the one part, and His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans on the other part, being equally animated by the desire of extending the commercial relations between their respective dominions, have agreed, for this purpose, to conclude a Treaty of Commerce and Navigation, and have named as their respective Plenipotentiaries, that is to say,—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Hon'ble Sir Henry Lytton Bulwer, a Member of Her Britannic Majesty's Most Hon'ble Privy Council, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Hon'ble Order of the Bath, and Her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the Sublime Porte;

And His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans, His Highness Mehemed Emin Aali Pasha, President of the Council of the Tanzimat, and Acting Minister for Foreign Affairs, decorated with the Orders of the Medjidie and Merit of the First Class, Grand Cross of the Imperial Order of the Legion of Honor, of Saint Stephen of Austria, of the Red Eagle of Prussia, of Saint Alexander Newsky of Russia, and several other Foreign Orders ;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following Articles:—

ARTICLE I.

All rights, privileges, and immunities which have been conferred on the subjects or ships of Great Britain by the existing Capitulations and Treaties, are confirmed now and for ever, with the exception of those clauses of the said Capitulations which it is the object of the present Treaty to modify; and it is moreover expressly stipulated, that all rights, privileges, or immunities which the Sublime Porte now grants or may hereafter grant to, or suffer to be enjoyed by, the subjects, ships, commerce, or navigation of any other foreign Power, shall be equally granted to, and exercised and enjoyed by, the subjects, ships, commerce, and navigation of Great Britain.

ARTICLE II.

The subjects of Her Britannic Majesty, or their agents, shall be permitted to purchase, at all places in the Ottoman dominions and possessions (whether for the purposes of internal trade or of exportation) all articles, without any exceptions whatsoever, the produce or manufacture of the said dominions and possessions; and the Sublime Porte having, in virtue of the second Article of the Convention of Commerce of the 16th of August 1838, formerly engaged to abolish all monopolies of agricultural produce or of any other articles whatsoever, as well as all permits (teskérés) from the local Governors, either for the purchase of any article, or for its removal from one place to another, when purchased, any attempt to compel the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty to receive such permits from the local Governors shall be considered as an infraction of Treaties, and the Sublime Porte shall immediately punish with severity any Viziers or other Officers who shall have been guilty of such misconduct, and shall render full justice to British subjects for all injuries or losses which they may duly prove themselves to have suffered thereby.

ARTICLE III.

If any article of Turkish produce or manufacture be purchased by British merchants or their agents, for the purpose of selling the same for internal consumption in Turkey, the said British merchants or their agents shall pay, at the purchase and sale of such articles, and in any manner of trade therein, the same duties that are paid in similar circumstances by the most favored class of Ottoman subjects, or of foreigners engaged in the internal trade of Turkey.

ARTICLE IV.

No other or higher duties or charges shall be imposed in the dominions and possessions of either of the Contracting Parties, on the exportation of any article to the dominions and possessions of the other, than such as are or may be payable on the exportation of the like article to any other foreign country; nor shall any prohibition be imposed on the exportation of any article from the dominions and possessions of either of the two contracting parties to the dominions and possessions of the other, which shall not equally extend to the exportation of the like article to any other country.

No charge or duty whatsoever will be demanded on any article of Turkish produce or manufacture purchased by British subjects or their agents, either at the place where such article is purchased, or in its transit from that place to the place whence it is exported, at which it will be subject to an export duty not exceeding eight per cent. calculated on the value at the place of shipment, and payable on exportation; and all articles which shall once have paid this duty shall not again be liable to the same duty, however they may have changed hands, within any part of the Ottoman dominions.

It is furthermore agreed that the duty of eight per cent. above-mentioned will be annually reduced by one (1) per cent., until it shall be, in this manner, finally reduced to a fixed duty of one (1) per cent. ad valorem, destined to cover the general expenses of administration and control.

ARTICLE V.

No other or higher duties shall be imposed on the importation into the dominions and possessions of Her Britannic Majesty, of any article the produce or manufacture of the dominions and possessions of His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, from whatever place arriving, whether by sea or by land, and no other or higher duties shall be imposed on the importation into the dominions and possessions of His Imperial Majesty, of any article the produce or manufacture of Her Britannic Majesty's dominions and possessions, from whatever place arriving, than are or may be payable on the like article the produce or manufacture of any other foreign country; nor shall any prohibition be maintained or imposed on the importation of any article the produce or manufacture of the dominions and possessions of either of the Contracting Parties into the dominions and possessions of the other, which shall not equally extend to the importation of the like articles being the produce or manufacture of any other country.

His Imperial Majesty further engages that, save as hereinafter excepted, he will not prohibit the importation, into his dominions and possessions, of any article the produce or manufacture of the dominions and possessions of Her Britannic Majesty, from whatever place arriving; and that the duties to be imposed on any article the produce or manufacture of the dominions or possessions of Her Britannic Majesty imported into the dominions or possessions of His Imperial Majesty, shall in no case exceed one fixed rate of eight (8) per cent. ad valorem, or a specific duty, fixed by common assent, equivalent thereto.

Such rate shall be calculated upon the value of such articles at the wharf, and shall be payable at the time of their being landed, if brought by sea, or at the first Custom-house they may reach, if brought by land.

If these articles, after having paid the import duty of eight (8) per cent., are sold either at the place of their arrival or in the interior of the country, neither the buyer nor the seller shall be charged with any further duty in respect to them; and if such articles should not be sold for consumption in Turkey, but should be re-exported within the space of six months, the same shall be considered as merchandize in transit by land, and be treated as is stated in Article XII.; the Administration of the Customs being bound to restore, at the time of their re-exportation to the merchant, who shall be required to furnish proof that the goods in question have paid the import duty of eight (8) per cent., the difference between that duty and the duty levied on goods in transit by land, as set forth in the article above cited.

ARTICLE VI.

It is understood that any article, the produce or manufacture of a foreign country, intended for importation into the United Principalities of Moldo-Wallachia, or into the Principality of Servia, which shall pass through any other part of the Ottoman dominions, will not be liable to the payment of Customs duty until it reaches those Principalities; and, on the other hand, that any article of foreign produce or manufacture passing through those Principalities, but destined for some other part of the Ottoman dominions, will not be liable to the payment of Customs duty until such article reaches the first Custom-house under the direct administration of the Sublime Porte.

The same course shall be followed with respect to any article the produce or manufacture of those Principalities, as well as with respect to any article the produce or manufacture of any other portion of the Ottoman dominions, intended for exportation: such articles will be liable to the payment of Customs duties, the former to the Custom-house of the aforesaid Principalities, and the latter to the Ottoman Custom-house, the object being that neither import nor export duties shall in any case be payable more than once.

ARTICLE VII.

The subjects of one of the Contracting Parties shall enjoy, in the dominions and possessions of the other, equality of treatment with native subjects in regard to warehousing, and also in regard to bounties, facilities, and drawbacks.

ARTICLE VIII.

All articles which are or may be legally importable into the dominions and possessions of Her Britannic Majesty, in British vessels, may likewise be imported in Ottoman vessels without being liable to any other or higher duties or charges, of whatever denomination, than if such articles were imported in British vessels; and reciprocally, all articles which are or may be legally importable into the dominions and possessions of His Imperial Majesty the Sultan in Ottoman vessels, may likewise be imported in British vessels, without being liable to any other or higher duties or charges, of whatever denomination, than if such articles were imported in Ottoman vessels. Such reciprocal equality of treatment shall take effect without distinction, whether such articles come directly from the place of origin or from any other country.

In the same manner, there shall be perfect equality of treatment in regard to exportation, so that the same export duties shall be paid, and the same bounties and drawbacks allowed, in the dominions and possessions of either of the Contracting Parties, on the exportation of any article which is or may be legally exportable therefrom, whether such exportation shall take place in Ottoman or in British vessels, and whatever may be the place of destination, whether a port of either of the Contracting Parties or of any third Power.

ARTICLE IX.

No duties of tonnage, harbour, pilotage, lighthouse, quarantine, or other similar or corresponding duties, of whatever nature, or under whatever denomination, levied in the name or for the profit of Government, public functionaries, private individuals, corporations, or establishments of any kind, shall be imposed in the ports of the dominions and possessions of either country upon the vessels of the other country, which shall not equally and under the same conditions be imposed in the like cases on national vessels in general. Such equality of treatment shall apply reciprocally to the respective vessels, from whatever port or place they may arrive, and whatever may be their place of destination.

ARTICLE X.

All vessels which, according to British law, are to be deemed British vessels, and all vessels which, according to Ottoman law, are to be deemed Ottoman vessels, shall, for the purposes of this Treaty, be deemed British and Ottoman vessels respectively.

ARTICLE XI.

No charge whatsoever shall be made upon British goods being the produce or manufacture of the British dominions or possessions, whether in British or other ships, nor upon any goods the produce or manufacture of any other foreign country carried in British ships, when the same shall pass through the Straits of the Dardanelles or of the Bosphorus, whether such goods shall pass through those Straits in the ships that brought them, or shall have been transhipped to other vessels, or whether, after having been sold for exportation, they shall, for a certain limited time, be landed in order to be placed in other vessels for the continuance of their voyage.

In the latter case the goods in question shall be deposited at Constantinople in the Magazines of the Custom-house, called Transit Magazines; and in any other places where there is no entrepôt, they shall be placed under the charge of the Administration of the Customs.

ARTICLE XII.

The Sublime Port desiring to grant, by means of gradual concessions, all facilities in its power to transit by land, it is stipulated and agreed that the duty of three (3) per cent. levied up to this time on articles imported into Turkey, in their passage through Turkey to other countries, shall be reduced to two (2) per cent. payable, as the duty of three per cent. has been paid hitherto, on arriving in the Ottoman dominions; and at the end of eight years, to be reckoned from the day of the exchange of the ratifications of the present Treaty, to a fixed and definite tax of one (1) per cent., which shall be levied, as is to be the case with respect to Turkish produce exported, to defray the expense of registration.

The Sublime Porte at the same time declares that it reserves to itself the right to establish, by a special enactment, the measures to be adopted for the prevention of fraud.

ARTICLE XIII.

Her Britannic Majesty's subjects or their agents, trading in goods the produce or manufacture of foreign countries, shall be subject to the same taxes, and enjoy the same rights, privileges, and immunities as foreign subjects dealing in goods, the produce or manufacture of their own country.

ARTICLE XIV.

An exception to the stipulations laid down in the 5th Article shall be made in regard to tobacco, in any shape whatsoever, and also in regard to salt, which two articles shall cease to be included among those which the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty are permitted to import into the Ottoman dominions.

British subjects, however, or their agents, buying or selling tobacco or salt for consumption in Turkey, shall be subject to the same regulations, and shall pay the same duties, as the most favored Ottoman subjects trading in the two articles aforesaid; and furthermore, as a compensation for the prohibition of the two articles above-mentioned, no duty whatsoever shall in future, be levied on those articles when exported from Turkey by the subjects of Her Britannic Majesty.

British subjects shall, nevertheless, be bound to declare the quantity of tobacco and salt thus exported to the proper Custom-house Authorities, who shall, as heretofore, have the right to watch over the export of these articles, without thereby being entitled to levy any tax thereon on any pretence whatsoever.

ARTICLE XV.

It is understood between the two High Contracting Parties, that the Sublime Porte reserves to itself the faculty and right of issuing a general prohibition against the importation into the Ottoman dominions of gunpowder, cannon, arms of war, or military stores; but such prohibition will not come into operation until it shall have been officially notified, and will apply only to the articles mentioned in the decree enacting the prohibition. Any of these articles which have not been so specifically prohibited, shall, on being imported into the Ottoman dominions, be subject to the local regulations, unless Her Britannic Majesty's Embassy shall think fit to apply for a special license, which license will, in that case, be granted, provided no valid objection thereto can be alleged.

Gunpowder, in particular, when allowed to be imported, will be liable to the following stipulations:—

1*st*. It shall not be sold by subjects of Her Britannic Majesty in quantities exceeding the quantities prescribed by the local regulations.

2*ndly*. When a cargo or a large quantity of gunpowder arrives in an Ottoman port on board a British vessel, such vessel shall be anchored at a particular spot to be designated by the local authorities, and the gunpowder shall thence be conveyed, under the inspection of such authorities, to depôts or fitting places designated by the Government, to which the parties interested shall have access under due regulations.

Fowling-pieces, pistols, and ornamental or fancy weapons, as also small quantities of gunpowder for sporting, reserved for private use, shall not be subject to the stipulations of the present article.

ARTICLE XVI.

The firmans required for British merchant-vessels, on passing through the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus, shall always be delivered in such manner as to occasion to such vessels the least possible delay.

ARTICLE XVII.

The captains of British merchant-vessels, with goods on board destined for the Ottaman Empire, shall be obliged, immediately on their arrival at the port to which they are bound, to deposit in the Custom-house of the said port a true copy of their manifest.

ARTICLE XVIII.

Contraband goods will be liable to confiscation by the Ottoman Treasury; but a report or proces-verbal of the alleged act of contraband must, as soon as the said goods are seized by the authorities, be drawn up and communicated to the Consular authority of the foreign subject to whom the goods said to be contraband shall belong; and no goods can be confiscated as contraband unless the fraud with regard to them shall be duly and legally proved.

ARTICLE XIX.

All merchandize, the produce or manufacture of the Ottoman dominions and possessions, imported into the dominions and possessions of Her Britannic Majesty, shall be treated in the same manner as the like merchandize the produce or manufacture of the most favored nation.

All rights, privileges, or immunities which are now or may hereafter be granted to, or suffered to be enjoyed by, the subjects, ships, commerce, or navigation of any foreign Power in the British dominions or possessions, shall be equally granted to, and exercised and enjoyed by, the subjects, ships, commerce, and navigation of the Ottoman Porte.

ARTICLE XX.

The present Treaty, when ratified, shall be substituted for the Convention concluded between the two High Contracting Parties on the 16th of August 1838, and shall remain in force for twenty-eight years from the day of the exchange of the ratifications; each of the High Contracting Parties being, however, at liberty to give to the other, at the end of fourteen years (that time being fixed, as the provisions of this Treaty will then have come into full force), notice for its revision, or for its determination at the expiration of a year from the date of that notice, and so again at the end of twenty-one years.

The present Treaty shall receive its execution in all and every one of the provinces of the Ottoman Empire, that is to say, in all the possessions of His Imperial Majesty the Sultan situated in Europe or in Asia, in Egypt, and in the other parts of Africa belonging to the Sublime Porte, in Servia, and in the United Principalities of Moldavia and Wallachia.

The Sublime Porte declares that she is ready to grant to other foreign Powers who may seek to obtain them, the commercial advantages contained in the stipulations of the present Treaty.

ARTICLE XXI.

It is always understood that Her Britannic Majesty does not pretend, by any Article in the present Treaty, to stipulate for more than the plain and fair construction of the terms employed, nor to preclude in any manner the Ottoman Government from the exercise of its rights of internal administration, where the exercise of those rights does not evidently infringe upon the privileges accorded by ancient Treaties or by the present Treaty, to British subjects or British Merchandize.

ARTICLE XXII.

The High Contracting Parties have agreed to appoint, jointly, Commissioners for the settlement of a Tariff of Custom-house duties, to be levied in conformity with the stipulations of the present Treaty, as well upon merchandize of every description being the produce or manufacture of the British dominions and possessions imported into the Sultan's dominions and possessions, as upon articles of every description the produce or manufacture of the dominions and possessions of the Sultan, which British subjects or their agents are free to purchase in any part of the Ottoman dominions and possessions for exportation to Great Britain or to any other country.

The new Tariff to be so concluded shall remain in force during seven years, dating from the first of October, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one.

Each of the Contracting Parties shall have the right, a year before the expiration of that term, to demand the revision of the Tariff. But if, during the seventh year, neither the one nor the other of the Contracting Parties shall avail itself of this right, the Tariff then existing shall continue to have the force of law for seven more years, dating from the day of the expiration of the seven preceding years; and the same shall be the case with respect to every successive period of seven years.

ARTICLE XXIII.

The present Treaty shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Constantinople in two calendar months, or sooner if possible, and shall be carried into execution from the first of October, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one.

Done at Kanlidja, on the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one.

1. Immediately on the receipt of your letter No. 76, dated the 18th May 1861, I took measures, in compliance with your request, for ascertaining the wishes of Officers on leave of absence in this country, who are now holding Staff appointments, or who had held them since the 18th February 1858.

2. For this purpose you transmitted five forms applicable to Officers under different circumstances, but there existed in this Office no means of knowing to which category of the five the several Officers belonged. The Circular* herewith enclosed was therefore prepared and forwarded to all the Officers in question, with a request that they would state whether they wished to join the Staff Corps or not. Questions to be answered by the Officers comprising all the particulars required in the forms transmitted in your letter were annexed to each Circular.

3. I now enclose the replies† to the Circular which have been received up to the present time.

† Not received.

4. I also transmit a copy of the replies‡ sent to such of the Officers as have made enquiries on the subject of the questions put to them.

‡ These have not been received by Government.

5. You will observe from these replies that it has been stated in answer to enquiries made.

6. That Officers now on the List of Regimental Lieutenant-Colonels, preferring to retain their position as Local Officers, will, as now, succeed to the "Colonels' allowance by seniority," but that no information can, at present, be given as to the number of Colonels' allowances to be authorized for the future.

7. That the measures to be taken with respect to unemployed Field Officers, as referred to in paragraph 63 of the General Order, are under consideration.

8. That no decision has yet been passed as to the position of the Officers of the Bombay Cavalry Regiments, in consequence of those Regiments having been converted into Silladars.

9. That the selection, in future, of Officers for the Bombay Silladar Cavalry will rest with the Government of Bombay.

10. That the option of joining the Staff Corps will be open to those Officers only who may be considered by the Government under which they are serving to be in all respects fit for the Staff Corps.

11. That Officers electing local service will be employed by the Government in India in such manner as may appear to them to be most advantageous for the Public Serivce.

12. That if offer of service in the Staff Corps be accepted, the time passed in permanent Staff employ will reckon; but that information as to an Officer's term of past service must be sought from the Governments in India, who alone are in possession of full information as to the service of each Officer.

13. That Officers will be considered to have belonged to the Staff Corps from the 18th February 1861, in accordance with the 103rd paragraph of General Order of 10th April 1861.

14. That time passed in the performance of Military duty in England since February 1861 will reckon as service for pension, but not for promotion in the Staff Corps.

16. That an Officer electing general service in a new Line Regiment will be required to join his Regiment at the expiration of his Furlough.

17. That if an Officer of the present European Regiment volunteers for general service in the new Line Regiments his present position in his Regiment will, as far as possible, be secured to him.

18. That Officers of the Bengal Cavalry, other than those of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Regiments, whose offers of service with the new Dragoon Regiments may be accepted, will be placed in those Regiments according to the dates of their respective Regimental Commissions, if this can be done consistently with the promise held out to the Officers of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Regiments of Bengal Cavalry joining the new Corps, as announced in paragraph 53 of the General Order of the 10th April last.

21. That no vacancies will be caused in the new Line Regiments by the transfer of Officers from the present European Regiments to the Staff Corps.

22. That Officers who may not join the Staff Corps or Regiments of the Line will be available for any duty to which they may be appointed by the Government, or Commander-in-Chief of the Presidency to which they may belong. FORT WILLIAM,
The 20th September 1861.

Notification.

THE attention of Treasury Officers is solicited to the Notification issued from this Office on the 4th instant (see Calcutta Gazette, page 2695), and to the following rules for the preparation of the "Monthly Estimate of probable Receipts and Disbursements" :—

Collectors are reminded that correctness in these Estimates is of the utmost importance, as it is otherwise utterly impossible for this Office to render reliable statements or accurate information to the Financial Department of the Supreme Government.

1. The object of the first and second columns on the debit and credit side of the Return has already been explained, and it is only necessary to add that the information required by their headings should not be lumped at the top of the column, but given item by item and totalled at foot.

2. "Probable Receipts."—This column has been carefully prepared, and is intended to include every possible item of receipt. No additions should, therefore, be ever made to it in manuscript without the express authority of the Accountant-General. The same rule applies to the heading of "Probable Disbursements."

3. The three items of Land Revenue, Sayer, and Abkarree, under "Land Revenue," should be carefully kept distinct.

4. "Income Tax" should be distinctly detailed under the three headings given of one, two, and three per centum.

5. Cash Remittances should not be entered unless notice has been received from the Civil Pay-Master to the effect that a remittance has been ordered, and in such case the name of the remitting Treasury should be shewn in the column of "remarks."

6. The "Total Receipts" of a month should include the cash balance on the 1st of the month.

7. A "probable deficiency" should only be shewn where a deficiency is actually expected by the disbursements being in excess of the sum of the cash balance and receipts; the amount of disbursements should not, as has been done in many cases, be exhibited as a deficiency, by which an erroneous "Grand Total" of Receipts and Disbursements is given.

8. The opening Balance of the Sheet should correspond with the "Cash Balance Report" of the close of the preceding month, with this exception that, while the latter should give the exact sum in a Treasury, so as to tally with the Monthly Treasury Accounts, the Estimate should exhibit no fractions of a Rupee and Rupees (where practicable) in even hundreds only, thus :—

9. PROBABLE DISBURSEMENTS.—Rule 5 will apply to expected Disbursements by Cash Remittances, which should not be calculated in anticipation of the Civil Pay-Master's orders.

10. The name of the Treasury to which the Remittance is to be made should appear in the column of remarks.

11. Transfer Remittances should be estimated and explained under column of remarks.

12. The "Cash Balance" at the foot of the column refers to the last day of the month.

13. The closing Cash Balance of one month forms the opening Cash Balance ("Probable Receipts") of the next.

14. The Grand Totals on the two sides of the account should tally.

15. Printed Forms (to be had at the Alipore Jail Press) should always be used for Treasury Estimates.

THE attention of Treasury Officers is requested to this Office Notification of the 4th May last, (see Calcutta Gazette, page 1206,) giving a list of Punjab Treasuries which, by order of the Auditor General, were no longer to be drawn upon.

As the Civil Pay Master of the Punjab complains that remittance drafts are still frequently granted upon those Treasuries, it is now notified that all Bills or Receipts drawn upon them will be refused.

Government of Bengal.

Correspondence between Mr. James Hills, of the Nischindipore Concern, in the District of Nuddea, and the Govt. of Bengal, relative to the conditions on which he proposes to conduct his Indigo Factories.

From the Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(dated the 11th September 1861.)

SIR,—I AM directed to forward, for submission to His Excellency the Governor General in Council, and for publication in the Supplemental Gazette, the accompanying copy of a correspondence with Mr. James Hills, of the Nischindipore Concern, in the District of Nuddea, relative to the conditions on which he proposes to conduct his Indigo Factories in future.

Letter from Mr. J. Hills, dated 9th August 1861.
Letter to Mr. J. Hills, No. 2211A., dated 21st August 1861.
Letter to Commissioner of Nuddea, No. 2245A., dated 21st August 1861.
Letter from Mr. J. Hills, dated 31st August 1861.

From J. HILLS, Esq., Indigo Planter, Kishnaghur, to E. H. LUSHINGTON, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 9th August 1861.)

I HAVE the honor to enclose a copy of the conditions on which I, in future, propose to conduct my Indigo Factories, and request you will have the goodness to bring them to the notice of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

2. Whether I shall be able to continue such liberal terms a couple of years will decide. I trust, however, I shall be able to do so.

3. The production of the plant will be altogether voluntary on the part of the Ryot, consequently it will enable me to dispense with all field servants, and most of the Factory Amlahs will render the payment of Peshgees and Salamees to Talookdars in the taking of Ijaras, &c., no longer necessary, and will release me from Law and Law charges so ardently to be desired.

4. I have perused His Honor's Minute on the Indigo Commissioner's Report with much care and attention, and I gather from it that the system I am about introducing will meet with His Honor's approbation.

5. His Honor will perhaps scarcely give credit to the fact that the Ryots still persist in declaring that the Government is opposed to their growing Indigo plant for the European; and I therefore most respectfully solicit His Honor, in order to do away with so mischievous and unfounded an impression, to direct the Local Authorities to intimate to the Ryots in their respective Divisions, that their sowing Indigo, with their own free will and choice, will meet with the approval of His Honor.

6. I have to express my most respectful acknowledgments and thanks for the immediate attention His Honor has so kindly and considerately given throughout the season to all my complaints and requests.

NOTICE.

To the Ryots of the Nischindipore Concern.

As I am about to increase your rents, I have determined to give you more than a corresponding benefit for the Indigo you may choose to grow for me.

1. I will give you 8 annas for every bundle of plant, or 40 Rupees or 37 Rupees 8 annas for every vat of plant calculating eighty or seventy-five bundles, according to the size of the vats.

2. I will give you, free of expense, four seers of seed per beegah for your October sowings, and three seers for your Spring sowings; any Ryot that wishes to sow more must pay, for the extra seed he takes, at the rate of 4 annas a seer.

3. You must cut the plant, and I shall pay the expenses of its conveyance to the Factory.

4. You are all aware that a good Indigo crop sown in October will give you from twenty-five to thirty bundles per beegah, or 12 Rupees 8 annas to Rupees 15, and Spring sowings from twenty to twenty-five bundles per beegah, or 10 Rupees to 12 Rupees 8 annas, and to ensure this, that it is only necessary to direct the same attention to your Indigo crop that you do to your Dhan.

5. I will not make any advance, but will, when the Indigo is sown, grant to you a loan of so much per beegah according to the appearance of your plant and the manner in which it is sown, and for which loan your Indigo will stand hypothecated.

6 You have to deliver to me your Indigo seed, for which I agree to pay you the market price up to 10 Rupees a maund, beyond that I have not to be charged whatever the market price may be.

7. On the 1st October of each year the accounts shall be made up and adjusted, and should you have taken more money than the value of your plant, you must pay back the same on that date.

JAMES HILLS.

From E. H. LUSHINGTON, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to JAMES HILLS, Esq., Nischindipore, in Nuddea,—(dated the 21st August 1861.)

SIR,—I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter dated the 9th instant, enclosing a copy of the conditions on which you propose to conduct your Indigo business in future

2 In reply I am desired to state that this communication has been the cause of a very great gratification to the Lieutenant-Governor. Nothing that has occurred since the distressing rupture between Ryots and Planters has had, in the Lieutenant-Governor's view, so much promise of a restoration of harmony, and a re-construction of the Indigo system on the sound basis of free trade and mutual profit, as this announcement of the liberal principles on which you have notified your determination to act.

3. As to the price offered, I am desired to state that this is a commercial question, on which the Lieutenant-Governor cannot pretend to have even a private opinion of any value. But the Lieutenant-Governor observes that the terms which you now consent to offer are double the very highest terms heretofore allowed, according to the Report of the Indigo Commission; and that the price now offered will be payable in full, without deductions on account of seed, carriage, stamps, or other counter-charges, which in reality will raise the price to much more than double. And the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that he may not be considered as going beyond his province when he says that a careful consideration of all he had read and heard upon the subject had led him, in his own mind, to expect that some such terms as these might be, in many cases, successfully offered and agreed to. But of course experience alone, as you intimate, can test this practical question.

4 The Lieutenant-Governor regards your intention of leaving the cultivation entirely voluntary on the part of the Ryot, and so of saving him from the harassing dominion and vexatious interference of Native Factory servants, as no less important than that of offering what it is hoped will be a remunerative price. Indeed, the Lieutenant-Governor is inclined to believe that one chief good of a fair price lies in the power which it gives the Planter to leave the cultivator of Indigo as completely without interference with his own Agricultural arrangements, as the cultivator of Rice and all other crops is left.

5 The Lieutenant-Governor heartily congratulates you on the step you have been, he believes, the first to take; and he most sincerely hopes that it will result successfully to your own fair advantage and to the content of your Ryots.

6 The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to learn that so mischievous as well as foolish and false an impression anywhere exists in the minds of Ryots as that mentioned in paragraph 5 of your letter. Instructions will immediately be issued to the Local Officers to spare no exertion in doing everything that can properly be done to dissipate all such illusions.

7. A copy of the orders issued to the Commissioner of Nuddea on this subject is herewith forwarded for your information.

From E. H. LUSHINGTON, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Officiating Commissioner of the Nuddea Division,—(dated the 21st August 1861.)

SIR,—IN forwarding to you a copy of the annexed correspondence,* I am directed by the Lieutenant-Governor to request that you will instruct the Local Officers in the Nischindipore quarter, where the strange impression alluded to in paragraph 5 of Mr. Hills' letter is reported to exist in the minds of the Ryots, to spare no exertions in dissipating this and any similar illusions that may exist.

* From Mr. Hills, dated 9th instant.
To ditto, of this day's date.

2 The Lieutenant-Governor confides in the tact and energy of the Local Officers for the successful performance of this duty. After the determination Mr. Hills has taken, no Officer, the Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied, will grudge any pains, however great, he can usefully take in order to remove false impressions injurious to Mr Hills' experiment. Of course the Local Officers will be cautious in removing the mischievous impression that Government is opposed to the cultivation of Indigo, to avoid giving the equally mischievous impression that Government desires to use its authority to force the cultivation of Indigo against the will of the Ryot. With care, however, such a mistake, the Lieutenant-Governor trusts, can always be avoided

From J. HILLS, Esq., Kishnaghur, to E. H. LUSHINGTON, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 31st August 1861)

SIR,—MR. WALKER, of the Firm of Messrs. Gisborne and Co., informs me that His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor has expressed a wish to publish my letter to you of the 9th instant, together with the copy of the conditions on which I propose, in future, to conduct my Factories, and in reply I have the honor to observe that I can have no possible objection to this.

2. To prevent, however, His Honor being misled, I must, in justice to my brother Planters, explain that I consider, with the exception of three or four of the high Concerns in Kishnaghur, the other Concerns throughout Bengal could not afford to give such liberal terms, as their plant is less productive.

3 It is of course with me merely an experiment; my Factories at present bear only a nominal value and it holds out the only prospect I can see of redeeming them from the state to which they have been reduced.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

No. 185.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, under date the 10th June 1861.

Read again the Orders contained in the Despatch from the late Hon'ble the Court of Directors No. 96, dated 16th December 1857.

Resolution.—In the above-mentioned Despatch the Hon'ble Court made the following observations:—"Our general instruction, that the Statements of Receipts and Disbursements should contain only Cash transactions, is not to be applied to the case of postage on service letters and parcels. This postage, as we have already informed you in a previous Despatch, should be exhibited in the receipts, the charge being debited in the disbursements to the several Departments to which it properly appertains."

In conformity to these instructions, entries of service postage have since been made on both sides of the accounts, not only in the Statements of actual Receipts and Disbursements, but in the Estimates likewise. It has, however, occurred to this Government that it is an objectionable plan to exhibit in the Budget Estimate official postage as a receipt on one side, and expense on the other, as giving mere transfer entries; and the Governor General in Council therefore resolves that all service postage be excluded from the Budget Estimates in the coming year, as well as from the Estimates that have to be furnished in October next.

The allocation of charges on account of service postage to the several Departments may be made in the Administration Reports of the Director-General of Post Office.

Ordered, that copies of the Resolution be sent to the Auditor-General for information, and the Home Department for communication to the Director-General of the Post Office in India.

Ordered that copies of the above Resolution be sent to all Governments and Administrations and to all Deputy Auditors and Accountants-General, and that it be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

In a Despatch No. 189, dated 8th April 1861, the Secretary of State for India has stated that the provisions of the Royal Warrant, so far as they regard Shoeing Smiths, do not apply to India:—

VICTORIA R.

WHEREAS we have judged it expedient to revise those parts of our Royal Warrant of the 1st July 1848, which regulate the rates of pay of the Farrier Major and Farriers, and the rate and appropriation of the Farriery Allowance to Regiments of Cavalry and other Mounted Corps of our Army:

Our will and pleasure is, that in all Regiments of Cavalry and other Mounted Corps (the Royal Artillery and the Royal Engineer Train excepted) the pay of the Farrier Major, Farriers, and Shoeing Smith, of which latter class there shall be one to each Troop to act as Assistant to the Farrier, shall, from the date of this our Royal Warrant, be as follows, viz:—

The Farrier and Shoeing Smith shall be entitled to all the advantages of the Good Conduct Regulations.

The Farriery Allowance for all services, including the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineer Train, shall be fixed at one half-penny a day for each effective Troop Horse on Home Service, which is to be paid to the Troop or Battery Farrier for the provision of iron, fuel, and tools.

When a Regiment or Detachment shall proceed on Foreign Service, the Farriery Allowance shall cease from the date of disembarkation, the supply of shoes and shoeing tools being then made from the Public Stores. The shoes on the Horses' feet at the time of landing shall be considered the property of the Public, for which an equivalent will have been received by the Farrier from the half-penny a day allowed for each Horse while on boardship.

Given at our Court at St. James's this 4th day of February 1860, in the 23rd year of our reign.

By Her Majesty's Command,

SIDNEY HERBERT.

With reference to the foregoing, His Excellency in Council is pleased to direct the following modifications in the existing Establishment and rates of pay of Farrier Majors and Farriers in Regiments of European Cavalry, to have effect from this date:—

1. The Farrier Major of each Regiment will, instead of the present rates of Pay and Staff Allowance, receive the equivalent of (3) three shillings and (8) eight pence a day. While serving he will have the rank and clothing of a Quarter-Master Serjeant, and he will be entitled to Pension on discharge under the rules applicable to that rank.

2. The European Farrier allowed to each Troop will, unless fully qualified as a Farrier, be designated a "Shoeing Smith;" he will receive the equivalent of (1) one shilling and (11) eleven pence a day, and rank as at present as a Private. He will, however, be eligible to promotion, when considered fully qualified, to the rank of Farrier, obtaining all the advantages of the superior grade on promotion.

The Farrier will receive the equivalent of (2) two shillings and (6) six pence a day. While serving he will have the relative rank and the clothing of Serjeant.

The Farrier Major and the Farriers will be effective.

3. The rates above authorized are the gross pay, from which the usual deduction of (5) five pence a day will be made for rations in kind.

The rates of pay, exclusive of rations, will then be as follows:—

	For twenty-eight days	For twenty-nine days.	For thirty days.	For thirty-one days.
	Rs. As. P.	Rs. As. P.	Rs. As. P.	Rs. As. P.

5. Out of the Contingent Allowances drawn by Officers Commanding Troops, a fixed sum, equivalent to half-penny a day for each Troop Horse, will be paid by Regimental arrangements to the Farrier (or Shoeing Smith, as the case may be) as Farriery Allowance; and the cost of iron, fuel, and tools, as well as the charges of a Native Nalbund, will also be defrayed out of the Contingent Allowances, it not being intended to maintain hereafter the Native Farrier now kept up by Government.

6. On the recommendation of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the following arrangements are also sanctioned for Veterinary Hospitals of European Cavalry Regiments:—

One Hospital Syce will be allowed to every two Troops, two of whom shall be designated "Jemadar Syces" and receive (6) six Rupees a month each, and the rest Rupees (4-8) four and eight annas a month.

The most active and intelligent Troop Syces are to be selected for these situations.

Despatch from the Secretary of State on the subject of the Law relating to the Limitation of Suits.

INDIA OFFICE;
London, 8th August 1861.

Judicial.
No. 117.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,—I have had under my consideration Act XI. of 1861 to amend Act XIV. of 1859 (to provide for the limitation of suits.)

2. The Law of 1859, in regard to the limitation of suits, was under consideration for a number of years, was introduced into the Legislative Council by Sir James Colvile, Chief Judge of the Supreme Court, and, after the most mature consideration, was enacted on the 4th May of that year. It applies to the Presidency Towns and to the Regulation Provinces, and, by order of Government, may be extended to the Non-Regulation Provinces. It has been extended to many of them, and, on coming into force, will constitute the Law on a most important subject for nearly the whole of British India.

3. On the presentation of a Petition of the Calcutta Trades' Association, complaining of one Section of the Act, the Legislative Council suspended the Standing Orders and passed Act XI. of the present year, providing that all suits now pending, or which shall be instituted before the 1st day of January 1862, shall be tried and determined as if Act XIV. of 1859 had not been passed.

4. I concur with those Members of the Council who objected to the Bill, in thinking that sufficient cause had not been shewn for departing, in this instance, from the usual course of proceeding with Bills laid before the Council; and am of opinion that the Rules for securing due deliberation on every new project of Law ought not to be set aside except on some grave emergency.

5. Nor do I consider that sufficient ground for the suspension of the Act of 1859, throughout India, is to be found in the Statements of a Petition coming from one place, and praying for a change in one Clause of the Act; still less is any such reason to be found in the excuse made by the Calcutta Trades' Association for their ignorance of a measure which had, as above stated, been discussed for many years, had been duly published in the Official Gazette, and in regard to which the Indian Law Commissioners had taken the opinion of the Association itself.

(Sd.) C. WOOD.
